

Square Tiles Like Pa... Parents Used For Breakfast

For breakfast, instead of plates, long tiles are made in Germany, some of which are like a painter's palette made square. Instead of a thumb hole there is only a small hole in the middle of one end to hang this tile on a hook or peg. These tiles are thick and glazed with white, like any stoneware. One seen was blue and white, and one red in pretty flowing designs.

They are used for bread and butter served with a cup of coffee. Doubtless in Germany they are taken to the garden on bright mornings. Here they are used as curios. It is said that old gentlemen used to them would feel quite "put out" if given a round plate instead of this tile, with a good piece of butter on it, and a couple of fresh rolls for breakfast daily.

German ways of setting the table are at variance with those of other countries. The knives for dinner parties are arranged out at an angle into the middle of the table. Knives and forks are laid obliquely to the plate with the tips touching it. Finger bowls have spoons in them by which to dip the water over the fingers. This idea is not out of the way.

Quite gaudy glassware for wine is shown, purple, blue, orange and yellow, with decanters to match.

A bunch of violets is on every plate at the beginning of a formal dinner.

REAL BEAUTY SLEEP.

A Vienna Specialist's Ideas on This Fascinating Subject.

The old-fashioned definition of beauty sleep was the sleep that is taken before midnight. Beauty sleep is the sleep a woman gets after she has slept seven hours and before she has slept nine, says a Viennese specialist.

A woman needs all of seven hours' sleep for the building up of her system. Then she needs two hours more for the recuperation of her body, and the extra two hours will restore her complexion, make her eyes bright, take the wrinkles out of her face and keep her form elastic.

The woman who wants to derive the fullest benefit from her beauty sleep will compose her mind before stinking off into slumber. She will think pleasant thoughts. Worrying makes furrows in the brow and sets lines around the mouth. A little light in a bedroom is a good thing for some people, for it will not cheerfully upon the nerves and drive away nightmare.

Do not allow yourself to be awakened in the morning if you mean to get beauty sleep, or if you must be aroused let it be ever so gently. Do not wake up with a start, with an alarm clock or in consequence of a bell ringing, for any of these sounds will jar the nerves and destroy some of the good the sleep has done you.

She Deceived Ibsen.

The late Henrik Ibsen upheld the sanctity of women in his dramas, but in real life he considered them inferior to men in many lines of usefulness generally classed as feminine. For example, his friend, John Paulsen, in the London Times says that one of Ibsen's maxims was this: "No woman can write a cookery book, and no woman can sew a button on a fast."

He lived up to the latter part of his dictum. When he detected a loose button on any of his garments he retreated to his own den, locked himself in and with elaborate preparations sewed the button on. He took as much pains with the work as he would with the final copy of one of his plays. Then he used to brag about the performance, saying that he would not put trust in a button sewed on by any woman, not even by his wife. His wife used to laugh. She confided to Paulsen that she secretly removed all the buttons that she had sewed—sewed them as only a woman can, she said. He always forgot to fasten the thread. "But don't deceive him," the faithful wife added appealingly. "It makes him so happy to think that he does it."

A Summer Dish For Winter Time.

Fried tomatoes are a luxury that comparatively few housewives can afford to serve during the winter months, yet if they will follow this old Maryland recipe this dish may be enjoyed on the coldest days of the year as easily as in the middle of summer, says the Dietitior. To accomplish this feat, however, the tomatoes must first be cooked in the summer, when they are plentiful. Select the large, firm tomatoes and fry them just as you would if you intended them for immediate service. Then pack them in medium sized stone jars while still hot and pour a rather thick coating of warm lard over them until they have been completely covered. When the lard has cooled thoroughly cover the jars first with a cloth and then rather thickly with paper and let them stand in a cool, dry place until required. When you desire to serve them remove the slices carefully, relieve them of any superfluous lard and then warm by drying slightly. They will prove every bit as delicious as when freshly fried.

To Make Friends.

Fight against the feeling of restraint, reserve, the feeling of shrinking away from people, shyness, oversensitiveness or the feeling of antagonism. When you greet people with a handshake let your heart run out to your finger tips. Do not be afraid of giving too much of yourself to the people you meet. Do not hold yourself back as though you are afraid you would give something away that you ought to keep or that you would say something that you would be sorry for.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

For all costumes of anything like formal occasions the skirts of the coming season will be long and often en train.

The fact that velvet will be an important factor next season is demonstrated in its use already in combination with the lighter fabrics, especially in tailored garments.

So far nothing has been found quite to take the place of the plaided skirt, but quite as many circular designs are noticed, and the two and three piece circular will be a great favorite for nearly all kinds of materials.

The question over which every one is cogitating is, "Are the Japanese effects to be retained?" and the answer is, "Yes," in coats and very dress costumes. But, generally speaking, all of the oriental features which have dominated us so completely the past season will be greatly modified.—New York Post.
