COMPOUND INTEREST
The trouble with most advertisers is that they expect immediate returns of large proportions. One prominent advertiser illustrates the principle of advertising in this way:
"The money expended for advertising is the same as if placed at interest. The profits from the advertising are virtually the interest on the investment."
"The sums spent for advertising are properly chargeable to capital account because the resulting good will is something that has value, which, if the advertising has been properly done, can usually be sold for the face value of the investment."
"The rate of interest is determined by the skill with which the investment is made."
"Just as the quickest way to increase invested wealth is by compounding the interest, just so the quickest way to realize results from advertising is to compound the returns."—Advertising Experience.
Advertisers get good returns on the amount invested in our columns. We reach the people.

Notice
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN, notice is hereby given that all irrigation, or millrace ditches on all trout streams throughout Lake County, Oregon, must be screened with a small mesh wire screening at their head or junction with the main channel of stream. Brown Again a Fashionable Color.
Lots of tinsel and braiding are seen on dressy suits, and braided cardigans are so popular that this kind of trimming is even used on articles of fancy work about the house.
The color to reign supreme for some time to come will be brown. In its variations, from the dulled buff to rich dark mordore or old gold, and browns come grays, and these in great number of combinations with shades of various widths are worn in new effects merging in a distance. Browns are also very good, from the light to the deepest shades. A new color is used extensively on French suits, a yellow, suggesting deep yellow, of orange or salmon-pink, previously blended into one exquisite tone.
Long, graceful lines, on suits and shoulders that drop in order of fashion over elaborate undersleeves do not lucely describe the prevailing modes in fussy costumes, but they merely suggest what the real styles are.

The "whipping" stitch one bears so much about in handmade sewing is done by rolling the edge of the material between the first finger and the thumb of the left hand.
The need of a tasteful, becoming and satisfactory maternity costume is one that is keenly realized, and here is a model that amply fills the need. The loose coat is both comfortable and becoming, and the skirt is especially designed for the purpose. It is cut in nine gores, the side front ones meeting beneath the front gore, the upper portion of which is free, so allowing of varying size. In the illustration the costume is made of navy blue herringbone serge.

The New Ballettes Show Plain Effects. Embroidered Panels.
The new tortoise shell combs and ballettes shows a fligree finish in tortoise shell. The large knobs, gold and jeweled effects are no longer good form.
Panels of blue satin embroidery and panels of velvet, all hand worked, are used up in the brown gowns of the season. Medallions of velvet delicately outlined in gold thread are a feature of the dressy gowns of the winter.

ragged, get heavy souché braid in the same shade and stitch over the edges of the cloth bands.
The charms of black satin are very pronounced in a fine creen cloth gown which has about seven graduated bands of black satin on the skirt.
The pretty frock sketched is of plaid taffeta. The lines are simple, but the coloring is so bright and attractive that it gives a dressy effect. The bands are of black velvet.
