Notice.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN,
notice is hereby given that all irrigation, or millrace ditches on all trout streams throughout Lake County, Oregon, must be screened with a small mesh wire screening at their head or junction with the main channel of stream. Also all dams or obstructions on said streams must be provided with a fish-ladder, or other easy means of passage, at or near the middle of the main channel, so as to allow the passage of trout at all times of year, as provided by law. Said work to be done at low water time, or to be completed by Feb. 7, 1907.
By order of J. A. Barham,
Special Deputy fish Warden for Lake County, Oregon.

Woman's World
MRS. JAN KUBELIK.
Who is Happily Married to a Man of Genius.
Twenty-seven years ago the poor Bohemian market gardener Kubelik, to whom a son had just been born, would have called insane anybody who predicted that the baby would have to marry into the most exclusive aristocracy in Europe. In his part of the world music is the supreme art, and it seemed natural that the king of modern violinists should wed Countess Marianne Czaky, daughter of one of those ancient Bohemian houses that trace their origin further back than any other aristocracy in Europe. Kubelik was but twenty-three years old at the time of his marriage, and the

MRS. JAN KUBELIK.
Little countess was even younger. They live at Kolin, Bohemia, where the famous violinist has bought a castle, and there they divide their time between music and the care of their twin daughters. If there is anything in the adage that a good son makes a good husband, Mrs. Kubelik should be very happy, for her husband is devoted to his old peasant mother and deeply reveres the memory of his father, who made every sacrifice for his son's musical education. The first money Jan earned by playing he spent in buying a wreath for his father's grave. Kubelik is making a concert tour in America this winter, and his wife accompanies him.

An Effective Room Decoration.
Not every girl is so fortunate as to have a large room for herself, and especially if she be of a large family her own private room may be very small indeed, and it is then that all a girl's ingenuity is brought into full play so that the best possible effect may be obtained in a limited space. Nothing so reflects a girl's character and personality as her own bedroom or boudoir. First of all, an outsider can tell whether the girl is naturally neat or given to shiftlessness. The books first and then the pictures on the wall show what sort of things most appeal to her, whether she is frivolous or perhaps too serious minded, and even the wall paper reflects the natural characteristics to a certain extent, for a bright pink room with rose color abounding everywhere must needs belong to a sunny, happy disposition, while a soft green paper relieved by a note of pink or yellow in the border and hangings is said to portray a character fond of quiet and intellectual pursuits.
It is of course far easier to make a large room bright and attractive than a small one, but if the wall paper is carefully selected, of a pattern that tends to give the effect of space behind the design, and if the hangings carry out the exact design and color of the paper considerable size is added to the room. A striped paper, for example, is not good in a long, narrow room unless there is a deep flower border to shorten and widen the effect, while a small design in tiny flowers or spray is better in a small than a large room. For an extremely tiny room a plain paper—more or carriage—is best, with the curtains and chair coverings of the same shade in chintz or of a bright flowered chintz matching the border of the paper.
The glazed English chintzes are decidedly fashionable at the moment, and certainly they do tend to brighten a room even more than the American and French chintz, with its soft, dull surface. In selecting the hangings as well as the paper for a room there is much to be taken into consideration beyond the mere choosing of an attractive pattern or pretty shade of coloring.
Getting Rid of Pests.
Often when a woman moves into a house she is annoyed by finding pests of various kind, especially bedbugs.

COMPOUND INTEREST
The trouble with most advertisements is that they expect immediate returns of large proportions. One prominent advertiser illustrates the principle of advertising in this way:
"The money expended for advertising is the same as if placed at interest. The profits from the advertising are virtually the interest on the investment."
"The sums spent for advertising are properly chargeable to capital account because the resulting good will is something that has value, which, if the advertising has been properly done, can usually be sold for the face value of the investment."
"The rate of interest is determined by the skill with which the investment is made."
"Just as the quickest way to increase invested wealth is by compounding the interest, just so the quickest way to realize results from advertising is to compound the returns."—Advertising Experience.
Advertisers get good returns on the amount invested in our columns. We reach the people.
