A PRESENT CRAZE.
An interesting way to earn one's Daily Bread.

Of all the fads which the American girl has taken up within the last few years that of bookbinding is the most interesting as well as being for many besides the most worth while.

If a girl is possessed of any talent for drawing or designing, bookbinding is a delightful work, as it calls for all the originality and individuality of which she is capable. Naturally any one at all interested in the best in literature and art will find the work all absorbing, for in no other way is it possible to come into such personal touch with an author as in the binding of his books.

From a financial point of view also there is much in favor of learning the art of bookbinding. Many girls, while possessed of a fairly comfortable income, would still like to feel that should anything dire occur they would be capable of earning a livelihood, and bookbinding is a real and recognized profession that once learned could at any time be turned to account. There is really more to be made in getting up a class in bookbinding than in the actual work itself, for a book to be well bound by hand requires some weeks of steady and patient labor, but for a rare old edition a good price will be paid, and for a handsomely bound collection of the works of a long familiar author a most satisfactory sum can always be obtained.

If it appeals at all, bookbinding is a fascinating occupation and as a profession is assuredly far and away more interesting than the average means of earning one's daily bread, and for this very reason has it grown so tremendously popular among girls who, although at present are possessed of all that money can buy, nevertheless feel that they would like to have something upon which to fall back.

PIE AND ETIQUETTE.
Story of a Sentry Who Had Not Quite Learned His Business.

Captain Roald Amundsen, Norway's famous explorer, tells this story about a national guard encampment last summer:

"A new volunteer, who had not quite learned his business, was on sentry duty one night when a friend brought a pie from the canteen.

"As he sat on the grass eating the pie the major sauntered up in undress uniform. The sentry, not recognizing him, did not salute, and the major stopped and said:

"What's that you have there?"

"Pie," said the sentry good naturedly—apple pie. Have a bite?"

"The major frowned.

"Do you know who I am?" he asked.

"No," said the sentry, "unless you're the major's groom."

"The major shook his head.

"Guess again," he growled.

"The barber from the village."

"No."

"Maybe—here the sentry laughed—'maybe you're the major himself.'

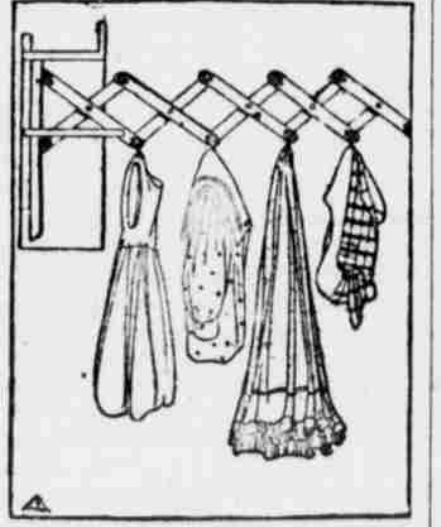

"That's right; I am the major," was the stern reply.

"The sentry scrambled to his feet.

"Good gracious!" he exclaimed. "Hold the pie, will you, while I present arms!"—Harper's Weekly.

CLOTHES SUPPORTER.
Adapted to Support a Large Number of Garments.

When selecting a house the most important requisite in the eyes of the housewife is the number of clothes closets. In her estimation there must be plenty of them, and she prefers those of large capacity. In the majority of cases she must be satisfied with very small closets, which afford but little space for the reception of clothes. By discarding the hooks usually fastened to the top and sides of the closet and employing the clothes supporters shown in the illustration all the available space in the closet could be utilized. It is especially adapted to receive a large number of garments of other articles which in extended position would crowd or soil them when contracted. In addition every garment is immediately accessible, thus eliminating the nuisance of removing the garments on the forward hooks in order to reach those on the back further back. It will be obvious that when the tongs are drawn into an extended position a large number of garments can be easily hung upon the lower crossbar and can afterward be folded into compact condition by pushing the supporter to the folded position.—Washington Star.

NEW CLOTHES HANGER.

To Mend a Tear.
Accidents will happen and a tear in one's best skirt is no laughing matter. For most rents basta piece of this paper under the rent, drawing it into perfect shape; then darn neatly with ravellings of the material. If one has no pieces, these can sometimes be obtained from the raw edges of the skirt gores. A French patch is made without turning the edges under. The piece is smoothly fitted in and a piece of this paper basted on. The edges of the patch are then darned with very fine stitches. Always press a darn carefully after finishing it.

The Bachelor.
Poor old bachelor, little he knows
What harvest of sadness his selfishness sows!
Hard is his task to accomplish his ease,
Hardest of all himself is to please.
Poor old bachelor, pity him all,
Bitter the honey he mixes with gall!

Sleeping and eating and drinking, forsooth,
All that he thinks of, and that is the truth,
These take the place of the child he has missed;
These compensation for being unkind;
Selfishly gloating o'er lack of a wife,
Wrapt in himself the whole of his life.

"Glad I'm not in it," he says, with a smirk,
Life's solemn duties he's willing to shirk,
While nature exacts the penalty sure
At best makes the bachelor nothing but poor.

The slave of himself, hard tyrant to please,
He works like a Turk to accomplish his ease.
