A CLEVER ILLUSION.

An Amusing Experiment With a Picture and a Card.

Draw upon a sheet of paper an empty cage, and then near the cage draw a bird. The idea is to make the bird enter the cage.

Place a visiting card between the two figures thus drawn, holding the card perpendicularly on the paper, as in the illustration. Then the end of your nose on the border of the card and look at the bird and the cage. You will thus see the bird enter your right eye and the cage with your left. But in a moment the bird will seem to move, then enter the cage and assume the position indicated in the picture.

To make this trick easy, you may copy the figure to the right.

HOW TO VIEW THE PICTURE

In illustration, place your visiting card on line A B and then say to your friend, "Now, would you believe that by doing this I can make the bird enter the cage?"

Of course he will doubt it. Then make him stand opposite the light so that the card will not throw a shadow, and after looking close to the card for a few seconds the wonderful phenomenon will appear to him.—Magical Experiments.

FOOLSCAP PAPER.

Origin of the Name and the Tragedy Associated With It.

We all know what foolscap paper is for. Don't we make use of it daily? But how many of us know where and when it originated? Has not the reason of its name been an insoluble puzzle to us?

When Charles I. of England was on the throne he granted many monopolies for governmental support, among which was the manufacture of paper. The watermark of the finest sort was the royal arms of England.

The consumption of this article was great, and people who secured the sole right to sell it soon acquired immense fortunes. Parliament set this monopoly aside, and when Charles I. was brought to the scaffold they ordered the royal arms taken from the paper and a fool, with his cap and bells, to be substituted.

It is now about 250 years since the foolscap was taken from the paper, but that size of sheet still retains the name and the watermark placed there to the indignity of King Charles.

An International Calamity.

If a colored waiter at a hotel should happen to drop a dish containing a roast turkey, the average man would be likely to say that it was only an ordinary accident, with no more serious result than the breaking of the dish and the paying of a fine by the waiter, followed perhaps by his discharge. But a certain newspaper writer has found in such a catastrophe a complication of international calamities fearful to contemplate, nothing less than the downfall of Turkey, the overthrow of Greece, the breaking up of China and the humiliation of Africa.

About Animals.

Wild dogs never bark and so always bite.
A gray horse lives the longest, a black one the shortest.
A blue eyed cat is always deaf, but all deaf cats are not blue eyed.
An Asiatic squirrel climbs a tree like a telegraph pole climber. It has large horny scales on its tail for the purpose.
The flying fox or tropical bat will pass the night drinking from the vessels in which cocoa is distilled and go home intoxicated in the early morning or sleep it off at the foot of the trees.

The Pope's Palace.

The Vatican is a collection of buildings constructed in Rome at various times and not one regular structure. It contains 8 grand staircases, 206 smaller staircases, 29 courts and, it is said, 11,000 apartments, many of which are very large. It covers a space of 1,200 feet in length by 1,000 in breadth. It is built on the spot once occupied by the gardens of the Emperor Nero, so noted for his cruelty.

Through to China.

"Oh, mamma," cried little seven-year-old excitedly, "guess what I did awhile ago."
"I don't know. What is it?"
"Why, I dug and dug out there in the ground way through to China."
"What are you telling me such a story for?" his mother asked severely.
"Well, I did, honest. See." And he held a broken piece of an old plate up for inspection.—Washington Star.

A Riddle.

Without my first you'd look very strange;
My second you much want to be;
My whole is what many a lady has worn
At a ball, a reception or tea.
