Silken Tresses in Fashionable Favor.
A New Veil Pin and Girdle.
A woman is known by her topknot. If it is frizzed and frozy, lusterless and pasted, that tells a story. At this moment the silken tress is on the wave crest of favor. Indeed, why should it not be? The hat fits the tresses, or vice versa, and in order to keep the puffy effect the comb is most fashionable.

A pretty gold crinkled veil pin with a Grecian key pattern in rhinestones is a novelty. Veil pins, in fact, are a necessity today, although the popularity of the veil is still waxing.

A round, high girdle laid in soft folds of plain satin was given a novel touch by two broad streamers of brocaded ribbon ten or more inches wide.

MODISH MATTERS.

What Will Be the Length of the Spring Sleeve?—Hand-made Buttons.
The feminine world is much agitated as to the length of sleeves to be worn in the spring. The question is whether to make an elbow sleeve or one that reaches to the wrist. Most of the French gowns arriving from the other side are made with sleeves that come right down to the knuckles, with Little Change in the Spring Material.

Up to the present time there does not appear to be any radical change in waist styles shown in Paris. The general outlines, such as the drooping shoulder, kimono sleeve and jumper effect, are as prominent as ever. The only new features are the trimmings and the combinations of colors. In Paris all sorts of colors are used together, which, in the hands of an experienced designer, would prove a failure.

The spring will prove another color season. The only adjective that can be applied to assortment of new materials is brilliant. Double faced woollens are shown, one side of one color and the other a contrasting tone. A

A point falling over the fingers almost to the very tips. Well made and well fitted, they are very chic, and for a change they are pretty enough to meet the vagaries of the woman who is looking for something new.

Lovely buttons are made by covering button molds with black velvet and working them in colors. A dozen big flat button molds were covered with velvet on which was worked an elaborate network of blue silk.

The design shown in the accompanying illustration is a gimp waist to be worn with a separate gimp. This will make a frock still more attractive, as all kinds of dainty combinations of colors can be resorted to. Besides, if several gimpes of different materials are provided it will be suitable for both street and formal occasions. For a matinee a brown cloth costume would be pretty worn with a gimp of shrimp liberty silk. The material for the gimp should be tucked before it is cut out. A plain shirt waist pattern may be used for this purpose. The sleeves should be made with a puff that is gathered into a band below the elbow. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.

The Gibson Tuck Used on Coats—Corset Waists With New Frocks.
There are several varieties of the new boned corset waist on the market. These sprang into use with the princess' and other tight-dress forms, but they will not pass out with them, for from every point of view, whether of comfort, beauty or mere utility, they are the most attractive form of underwear that has been devised.

The Gibson tuck is used a great deal in both the separate coats and in suits. It gives the garment the broad shouldered effect and is particularly effective in suits for young girls.

A favorite trimming for handsome hats is the uncurled ostrich feather in box effect. This is wound around the crown of the hat in a graceful fashion and is often completed by an ostrich feather pompon.

The school frock pictured is carried out in blue serge. The skirt is very attractively laid in double box plaits on the front goes. The back closes with an inverted plait. About the jumper waist is a fancy black braid dotted with white. It is worn over gimpes. JUDIC CHOLLET.

red faced with dark green, a blue faced with golden brown, are among the many combinations shown.

The majority of small girls wear aprons. It is, however, often difficult to get a pattern of one that is pretty and at the same time easily made. The one shown in the cut is attractive and so designed that it completely covers the skirt and goes well up over the front of the waist. JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT TO WEAR.

How to Get a Smart Dress Effect—Remove Shields From Waist.
It is a season for bargains, and the woman, with a little money to spend can certainly make a great showing in dress. A telling point in style is secured by the wearing of a petticoat of a slightly paler shade than the gown, and there are petticoats in embroidered linen that carry out the gown idea splendidly. They are embroidered to the depth of fourteen inches, and the founce is heavy enough to make the skirt set out well.

The touch of black at the neck is more fashionable than ever. It is shown in the many jewel studded bands of black velvet to be worn at the top of the collar. It is also used with low necked gowns not only studded with jewels, but combined with a chain arranged in graceful festoons.

The tunic on the skirt is quite the latest fashion, the revival of an old mode, while the tightly clinging skin is more the rage than ever.

What may be a very pretty fashion that of making the sleeves of an even
