WELL, IT'S BRYAN AGAIN

The Democratic convention held in Denver last week did the very thing most people expected by again placing William Jennings Bryan in nomination for the presidency.

This is the third time the democrats have based their hopes of political preferment on this man. Twice he has gone down in defeat, due his party enemies to his radical or socialistic opinions in which he espoused measures that stirred the class interests against him.

While the opposing forces could not prevent his nomination since the convention it is certain that his nomination has not been received with good grace by Wall street, Tammany Hall or the big newspapers of Hearst and Pulitzer, and others, who had hoped for a candidate of the Parker stripe that would neutralize the damage done them by President Roosevelt.

Many of such interests have now openly espoused the cause of Mr. Taft, who has openly announced that he would continue all the policies so strenuously upheld by President Roosevelt. In this movement these interests evidently feel that they are safer in the hands of Mr. Taft, who does not hesitate to tell them what they may expect, rather than to support a new and untried man, who has no definite policy, other than to secure the office he has been seeking for this many a year.

His running mate is John W. Kern, of Indiana, a man totally unknown to the general public until he was sprung on the convention.

The result of the convention assures the election of Mr. Taft beyond a shadow of a doubt, and will give us a man in the presidential chair that is able, just, and one who has not been a demagogue but a careful, conscientious gentleman in every position to which he has been called by the appointive power of the land.

Under his wise guidance the nation may look for an era of peace and prosperity for at least four years, and perhaps for more time than that if he maintains his health and strength. It is well!

A PROUD RECORD

In another column appears the report of the special committee appointed for the purpose of examining the books of the various County officers who received and disbursed the public funds.

The report is plain and explicit and it not being the province of the committee to comment on its work, it will not be amiss if we give expression to our views concerning the financial part of our county and to the constant, business like and careful attention given by the County Court Commissioner in the management of our public funds.

The Examiner notes with pride and pleasure that during the past four years the only discrepancy in the resources so lavishly bestowed by nature on this favored land, all point to a similar admirable future for Lakeview, when the coming of the iron horse from all points of the compass will have become an assured and agreeable fact.

"The Examiner" will watch the moves being made on the railway checker board and hopes soon to be able to report something definite and of interest to its readers at home and abroad, in way of actual construction work.

Four years ago Lake County was in debt a considerable sum. Now the county is out of debt and has money enough to meet all reasonable expenses for the current year, in addition to the building of a new court house.

We doubt if any of the other county in the state can equal our record and we feel proud to be a resident of this county, even though of recent date.

The Morning Oregonian of Portland recently published a good cartoon showing that city holding an immense grain sack into which spouts were pouring wheat from the Willamette valley, Central and Eastern Oregon, Idaho and Washington.

The cartoon showing that city holding an immense grain sack into which spouts were pouring wheat from the Willamette valley, Central and Eastern Oregon, Idaho and Washington. The sack holder, Portland, wore a contented "Uncle Joe" Cannon sort of a smile, while below Puget sound was hissing "curse him" in true stage villain style. It is a very expressive cartoon picturing changed conditions since the "Bar" has gone out of business. But The Examiner wishes it understood that another spout labeled "Southern Oregon", will have to be added as soon as we get railroad connection with Portland.

Secretary W. L. Crissey of the Oregon State Association has ready for circulation the report of that body for the past year. It is very much the most comprehensive report which has appeared concerning any dairy meeting on the Pacific coast, and Mr. Crissey will furnish copy to any one interested, upon request. Oregon has grown wonderfully in fruit, agriculture and general industries, but dairying holds the record for greatest increase, dairy products have risen from value of $5,000,000 annually five years ago to $1,000,000 in 1907.

The Yreka Journal, Calif., pertinently remarks: H. M. Calk, of Oregon, recently defeated for the U. S. Senate by Gov. Geo. Chamberlain, is out with a statement to the republican members of the legislature advising them to vote for Chamberlain and thus carry out the will of the people. Calk's attitude is the only honorable one and any "State-ment No 1" legislator who refuses to abide by the pledge embodied in the statement should be shunned like a common liar. There should be some honor even among politicians.

No state in the Union is spreading more high class advertising matter than Oregon. The splendid booklets issued to present the claims of Yamhill County, Albany and Linn County, Grants Pass, Roseburg, Medford, and Ashland, are superior to those issued by the commercial bodies of other states. Eastern and southern Oregon is not being neglected, and this character of advertising cannot fail to have an advantageous effect, and other communities should see that their claims are not overlooked.

President Roosevelt will receive from P. F. Collier & Son, publishers the sum of $100,000 for an account of his coming hunts in Africa. It was announced some days ago that the President after his term of office expired would go to Africa for a big game hunt, taking with him his son Kermit. The contract with Collier has just become known.

The Malheur Booster of Vale, Oregon, is the latest exchange to reach our table. It is full of good things that we were mightily tempted to industriously manipulate the office shears. It is issued monthly, costs 50c per year and is worth double the money to any one interested in Malheur county, Oregon.

The Examiner has received a postal card giving "Facts Regarding Laguna Province", describing that country's productions, and the like. Full information may be obtained by addressing the Provincial Government, Santa Cruz City, "La Gayana Province, Philippines.

Frank H. Hitchcock, former First Assistant Postmaster General, has been chosen chairman of the National Republican committee.

A Well-Fixed County

Portland Journal, 13: In Lake county the total assessment is about $3,900,000, on a basis of 25 per cent. People pay an 8-mill tax on this valuation, have $75,000 in the county treasury and have enough over to pay for their new $50,000 courthouse.

The persistence with which the Portland Business College insistently hammers away at quality is most admirable. If there is any one feature on which special stress should be placed in educational matters it is thorough work. This splendid school has an advertisement in our column to which attention is called. It is not often that The Examiner prints an announcement so attractive and so well worded. Anyone interested in a practical education should write for a catalogue of the Portland Business College, and learn of the many advantages it offers.

Death of a Young Stranger

A young man from New York city named Benj. Burr had been at work on the Pea ranch in Harney county, and who was brought over from Plush Monday with the editor, died in this city Wednesday morning. He was evidently in the last stages of quick consumption or pneumonia when he assayed the trip from Plush, but as there was no physician there he insisted on coming here where he could obtain medical attendance. The remains are in the hands of Coroner Wallace, who is making an effort to locate his friends or relatives.

A Big Rattler

While John Brooks, of Camas Prairie, was on his way to Lakeview, coming down Bulard Canyon, only half a mile from the main business street of the town he saw a 5 foot rattlesnake. A sharp clip over the head with a buggy whip settled his snakeship. Mr. Brooks skinned him and stuffed him with Barley. The snake is now on exhibition at the Examiner office. The Tollman gallery secured a good postal view of the snake which is on sale the post office store.

Crooked Creek All Right

C. D. Hardisty, a rancher from Crooked Creek, was in town the Fourth. His farm is near the line of the new railroad as surveyed and platted. He says they have a good country in which rye, wheat, and other grains are grown, and alfalfa, besides fine fruit. There is not much government land left near him, except in the Forest Reserve. Inasmuch as there is no timber that he thinks possibly flings thereon under the homestead right. He considers it agricultural land.

Alturas Catholic Church

The Alturas Plaidealer says that Father Horgan, has taken the matter in hand and will make an effort to complete the Catholic Church building. This structure was started more than twenty years ago, but for want of funds was never completed. If the plans were carried out the building would be an ornament to the town, but in its present condition resembles some ancient ruin. We hope the father will meet with success.

Some Fine Cherries

Maxwell & Son have had on exhibition a cluster of cherries, grown in the orchard belonging to James Ferguson 15 miles south of Lakeview. The cluster was 10 inches long, and contained over 200 cherries in a single cluster. The name of the variety has been forgotten. All who saw the cherries concede they never saw anything like them before in any clime. It is another palpable evidence of the future of this section in the fruit growing way.

Notaries Are State Officers

Holding that a notary public is a state officer, and that his duties and functions are not confined to any particular district or section, Attorney General Crawford contends that a notary public can officiate any place within the state during his two year term of appointment. The opinion is given in the case of a notary public who removed from Glendale to Portland.

Rabbit Creek Well

While in the much talked of Rabbit basin last week, we visited the home-stead claim of Otto Korbrein. He was sinking a well, and was then down 71 feet. The dirt from the bottom was wet, which led him to believe that a flow of water would be struck inside of 80 feet. The striking of water at this depth will mean much for the settlers there, and will encourage others to locate.

Smiles and Squalls BY "THE VERDANT ONE" A wag traveling man in San Jose, California, advertised that he would put himself up at auction at a certain place and time to go to the highest bidder. His frolic, brought 70 anxious females to the place in Johnnie on the spot order, ready to bid against all female creation, for the wealthy, handsome, lonely widower. One peek at the bunch impelled the ungallant chap to skip out of a back window. He foresaw a big hair pulling match over securing his charms and "23" for for his'n! He was a real mean ting. The cooper's union has decided to boycott all the dry counties of Oregon. How fortunate for Lake county that Goose and Warner lakes are still wet. Silver and Summer lakes are dry, and so their fruit, wool and other things will go begging now. So you just see what you've gone and done and did. Bryan was nominated Friday morning. It was not the 13th, but it might as well have been, as William H Taft will occupy the presidential chair the next four years and then some. Candidate Bryan says he will not accept a second term. The modest man—declining something a second time that he will not be able to secure the first time! Had he out on $1,500,000 bond. Now suppose that high priced villain should jump his bond, would San Francisco be the gainer or loser. A Kanaka native of Hawaii, whose predecessors fifty years ago ate live fish in their fingers, and whose clothing consisted of the simple gee string, wanted to be Bryan's running mate. All of which goes to show that those who come under our flag, soon esteem themselves competent to hold any office in the republic, no matter how exalted. An editor, eye witness to what he is talking about says the directorate gown after all has no practical advantage over the peckaboo waist. In fact the "peckaboo" has it "skinned" by a neck and then some. On two of the streets fronting the Auditorium, at Denver, during the holding of the Democratic convention great banks of snow were placed, which was brought from the near by mountain tops. A novel idea, probably originating with the Johnson or Gray delegates in the vain attempt to cool the ardor of the Brynaites. One Alton B. Parker and another David B. Hill also were hot—but for a different reason! We have been wondering how a man of ordinary size can fill the place just vacated by Secretary Taft. Nature abhors vacuum. Taft is not only the man of the hour, but also the next four years to come and possibly more. Harriman is putting on a full force of men again in all his shops. He evidently thinks Taft a winner, and that his late panic cut both ways. "Four years more of Teddy" will not be bad after all. The air ship experiments are gradually resulting in killing fewer people which is a pretty good sign that some time all can fly who pay the price!
