SNAPSHOTS OF THE MODE

The Waist of 1908 is Very Small. Dull Jet Trimmings Chic. The waist of 1908 is growing very small. Corsets are worn fully two sizes smaller than they were formerly, and everything points to the return of the little round waist. A corsetiere who makes corsets for many professional beauties has this to say about the new round waist: "The call for the small corset may be due to the fact that there are fewer fat women than there used to be. The craze to lose flesh is so great that the fat woman has almost disappeared from the face of the earth."

SHEATH SHAPED SKIRT—3255. A pattern of this sheath shaped skirt may be had in six sizes—from 22 to 32 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number (3255), and the pattern will be promptly forwarded to you by mail.

of brilliant flet net and colored embroidery are turning to jet trimmings. The dull jet is not even used now in mourning, but the cut jet comes in wonderful designs. Every woman is glad of its return to favor.

The success of a woman's costume depends largely upon the skirt worn, and the greatest attention should be given to the shape, fit and hang of this. The fashionable skirt of the day is like the one seen in the illustration that fits sheathlike over the hips and gracefully flares out beneath. It is a nine gored affair, with the paired sections arranged below the hips, and a close and perfect fit is maintained over these. JUDIC CHOLLET.

IN FASHION'S REALM.

Fashionable Demiseason Colors. Darned Net Blouses Modish. Topaz brown, a cold gray blue and a peacock green are newer than the purple tones, which in the earlier part of the season were almost done to death. White net blouses with a large mesh darned in white or colored silks in a splashing design are smart. These blouses are made up over chiffon to soften them. An incontrovertible edict has issued from the throne of fashion. It is a grief to the sensible woman. It is a defiance of the judgment of all wise medicine men. It is a menace to comfort and health. To carry it out takes time, trouble and money and eliminates all possibilities of economical dressing. Yet the edict providing for the return of long skirts has gone forth and must be obeyed. Cloth and net is a favorite combination for waists that are to be worn with the tailored suit. The blouse is usually of the net, with bands of chiffon broadcloth. The little dress seen in the cut is a pretty design for the small girl. A nice fullness is given the skirt by the plaits coming from the square neck. The puffed sleeves are comfortable for warm weather. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Dream Meanings. To see a wax candle you will be present at some festivity. If you climb a wall, you will see better days.

If you dream of being angry, you will have a pleasant surprise. To pick apples, riches are in store for you.

To dream of picking violets means a new friend. If they wither, you will have sorrow.

Diamonds, if possessed, means illness. If worn, it is a good sign. If you walk under a bridge, you will be safe from harm.

To see a field of poppies means a pleasant future. Green leaves, good health; falling or withered, good luck in business.

If you comb some one's hair, you will meet with ungrateful people. You will have good luck if you see fish in clear water.

To see a flag floating on the breeze you will have honor and renown. You will hear from an old friend if you see a sailor.

If you fall in the attempt to run, there are unfriendly people among your acquaintances.

Bookbinder. This is a game much enjoyed by children and is played by any number, who sit in a circle, each holding a book laid flat on his clenched fists, which are held out in front of him.

One, who has been chosen bookbinder and stands in the middle of the circle, goes to any player and, seizing that player's book, attempts to rap his knuckles, while the holder of the book tries to avoid by pulling back his hands quickly.

If the bookbinder succeeds in rapping the player's knuckles, the one rapped becomes bookbinder, and the first bookbinder takes his seat. Otherwise he replaces the book and tries with some one else.

The bookbinder may pretend to setze a book without actually doing so, and if the holder pulls away his hands so that the book falls he must take the leader's place just as if his knuckles had been rapped. The leader can make the game quite exciting if he runs quickly from one to another, pretending to take up one book and then seizing another, thus keeping the players constantly on the lookout.

Red Cap and Blue Cap. The players seat themselves in a circle to represent tailors at work on a piece of cloth. A handkerchief or a duster will answer the purpose.

A leader, or foreman, is chosen, and every one of the company is named in turn Red Cap, Blue Cap, Black Cap, Yellow Cap, Brown Cap, etc. The leader then takes the piece of cloth and pretends to examine the work which is supposed to have been done by the workman.

He is supposed to discover a bad stitch and asks, "Who did it, Blue Cap?" The latter immediately answers, "Not I, sir."

"Who then, sir?" "Yellow Cap, sir." Yellow Cap must then answer at once in the same manner and name another workman. Any one who fails to answer to his name pays a forfeit.

If carried on in a brisk manner, this game will cause endless amusement.

A Stone With Roots. The visitor to the Falkland Isles scattered here and there singular shaped blocks of what appear to be weather beaten and moss covered boulders in various sizes. Attempt to turn one of these boulders over, and you will meet with a real surprise, because the stone is actually anchored by roots of great strength. In fact, you will find that you are trifling with one of the native trees. No other country in the world has such a peculiar "forest" growth.

"Oh, That Tooth!" There are no dentists in Korea. When an adult has the toothache, he is at liberty to pull the tooth or stand the ache, but when a child under twelve is thus afflicted the father and mother must give their written consent to have the tooth extracted, and three men must give their opinion in writing that they believe the patient will live through the operation. It thus takes two or three days, and by that time the ache may have stopped.

An Obiging Patient. Arabella and her baby sister, Rachel, were playing hospital one morning and were furnishing all the patients in their own persons. In the course of events Arabella was heard to exclaim, "There, that's the fourth leg I've broken this morning!"

Molly's Philosophy. "I'm glad that things are fixed just right," said Molly in her play. "Before of one thing I am tired Another's on the way First New Year's day leads all the rest, Then Valentine's for fun—

"Next, skating, sliding on the snow, And then the winter's done, It's just the dearest thing to watch The growing things in spring, With maple sugar first, then flowers And every pretty thing.

"I dearly love the summer time, To play the whole day through And never have to stop and warm, Put on my rubbers too, I'm sure I'm every bit as glad When school time's really here

"As I was on the day it closed, I love the whole long year, For always there are happy times, All coming right away— Thanksgiving, Easter and the Fourth Or dear old Christmas day."
