The quicker we learn that life is made up of little things, not great and heroic deeds, the quicker we will adjust ourselves to living it happily.

As we grow older this lesson is gradnally forced upon us, but we could begin the adjusting much more quickly and have a longer period of happiness if as girls we would cease to dream of being beroines and consent to be ordinary, everyday mortals.

Most people go through life with never a chance for spectacular hero-What, then, must that life be which is spent in day dreams of how one will act in some great crisis which may never arise!

Do you know what will probably be the result of those pleasing visionsprovided they have not been backed up by doing as one goes along-an iguominious fall down.

It is little use to plan great sacriaces and neglect the small ones that can be made each day if we but allow ourselves to see them.

The young girl who dreams of the time when she can open her veins to give her lifeblood to save mother's life will probably fume over having to leave an interesting novel to save mother a wearisome trip to the store.

It is the little things-smiles, small kindnesses, every day disagreeable drudgery cheerfully done—that make those around us far happier than if we plan to do heroic deeds or even do them, let us say, and spend the interim with our eyes tight shut to the little opportunities for quiet heroism all around us.

THE ORIGIN OF WOMAN.

An Advance Upon the Old Time Rib Theory.

The Hindoos say that Twashtri, the Vulcan of Hindoo mythology, created the world, but that when be had made all other things and had come to the creation of what was to be his chef Couvre he found to his annoyance that he had run out of materials. He and not a single chunk of solid material left. With a mental execration upon his carelessness he fell into a profound meditation, the result of which was the following formula, the recipe for the creating of the sweet confection known as woman:

He took, according to the legend, "the roundness of the moon, the undulating curves of the serpent, the graceful twist of the creeping plant, the light shivering of the grass blade and the slenderness of the willow, the velvety softness of the flowers, the lightness of the feather, the gentle gaze of the doe, the frolicsomeness of the sunbeam, the tears of the cloud, the inconstancy of the wind, the timidity of the hare, the vanity of the peacock, the hardness of the diamond, the cruelty of the tiger, the heat of the fire, vance upon the rlb theory?

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

Cross stitch is growing in popularity and very beautiful floral pieces are now being made for cushions and table covers.

It is always better to make a stem in sewing on a button, as if it is sewed tightly it will more easily tear out the material. Take loose stitches and then wind them on the right side with the thread four or five times.

For wear tucked into the top of the corset steels are dainty little heart shaped sachets of scented wadding. of lace completes it.

It is a good blea to line all collars to frocks with white, as it does not dissolor with perspiration nor rule off on the neck. Besides it shows when it is dirty, which is a bint to the careful woman that it needs changing. A thin slik that does not cut easily is the best for this purpose.

One of the stunningest new sofa plllows is made of coarse crash. In constructing it use two pieces eighteen inches square, the front and the back. The former can be decorated with three large conventional tulips placed side by side and running to the top of the cushion. These are cut from leather, painted in natural shades and then gived to the cover. The deep reds and soft greens are more effective on the neutral background of crash. A pretty gift for a baby is a little down pillow covered with a dainty white cover, one end of which is embroidered in white popples and the words, "Early to Ped." The pillow should be made of soft blue ticking alled with down instead of feathers and made very light and fluffy. Two dainty covers should be made to go with the gift. Use no colors in the ambroidery effect. Just a trace of blue will reflect through the white cover.

Doubtless the Reason.

Professor Searchem was engressed in the study of all things that crawled. To him a pin had but one purpose-to impale insects; tin cans but one useto house wortus.

"Professor," complained his young wife one evening, "how the prices of vegetables are souring! Just think of it, $2 for this bushel of apples, and half have worms in them." "Perhaps, darling." commented the professor as he strove to part the few remaining hairs on his shining head. "they are of a very rare species."-Harper's Weekly,

He mixed these together in equal proportions and the result was woman. Isn't that about as good a guess as any? After all, isn't this an advance upon the rile theory?
