TALKING FOR BUNCOMBE

The democrat who wants the Philippines turned loose—can have a very forcible illustration of what would then happen in the way the Japanese are treating the Koreans. The "independence" of the Philippines would last no longer than it would take for the Japs to land an army of occupation, if the United States withdrew from those islands. And Bryan and every other democrat knows this full well.

The talk of abandonment of those islands is mere political clap-trap, and deceives no one. Even with but little done yet in exploiting the islands shows profit on the right side of the ledger last year of over $3,000,000.

The same croakers croaked about "Seward's folly", when he purchased Alaska, and in spite of the arctic conditions prevailing, look at the wealth coming out very year. It cost $7,000,000 but even a democrat today would not want to see it go to England for any amount of money.

And the time is coming when even Mr. Bryan, and his followers, will be glad indeed of the wealth that will pour into this country from those islands they now affect so heartily to despise.

PROMISE TO REDUCE RATES

The Alturas papers, in face of the extension of the narrow gauge to that town, roasted the management to a rich brown turn for the excessive freight and passenger charges.

Being a new comer, like the Dutchman "I did not say anything" but a freight bill of $55 on an invoice of paper of $12 from San Francisco changed our grey hair to a deep tint and red, and besides we went up about a 1000 feet in the air. It seems, however, that roasting did some good as the Alturas New Era of the 5th Inst. says:

"All the talk regarding the high freight rate and high passenger fare on the N. C. O. has done some good. They are now talking of reduced rates on both passenger and freight, and if it gets down within reason, there will be an immense amount of freight, and passengers go over the line."

PROFIT IN OREGON TIMBER

An indication of the possibilities of lumber manufacture in Oregon was the practical feature of the Booth-Singleton conspiracy trial in the Federal Court at Portland recently. This advertisement of how to make money in Oregon lumber was made on the witness stand by George H. Kelley, of the Booth-Kelley Lumber Company, the sole remaining stockholder in the original company, which was composed of H. A. Booth and James Henry Booth, now on trial, John F. Kelley and George H. Kelley. All have disposed of their holdings except George.

It was in 1888 that the four men after a partnership incorporated as the Booth-Kelley Lumber Company, with a capitalization of $50,000. That was ten years ago. Today the capitalization of the company is $2,000,000, having increased from $50,000 successively to $100,000, then $300,000, then to $1,500,000, until at present its aggregate is $2,000,000. When the corporation was formed, James Henry Booth owned a quarter of the stock, or $12,500. This stock he gradually disposed of while the remaining three original incorporators and outsiders increased their holdings, until in January, 1904, James Henry Booth sold his remaining stock. How much he received, Geo. Kelley said he did not know, but T. C. Beck, a special assistant to the Attorney General, who is prosecuting the case, intimated to the witness and jury that James Henry Booth had received $110,000. Such were the progressive steps by means of which J. H. Booth saw his $12,000 grow into a large fortune in eight years.

MUST OBEY THE LAW

Judge Thomas O'Day, of Portland, in discussing the recent decision of the court sustaining the Standard Oil company in its defiance of law, and its gross robbery of the public in the name of "business" says pointedly and unequivocally that if these gigantic corporations will not submit to regulation, or if they compel constant watchful care to prevent them from breaking the law, then the only prevention will be public ownership. And he is right!

It is well known in this connection, that President Roosevelt has intimated plainly to these predatory giants that it is either honest submission to government regulation or public ownership will and must come, and in this matter Mr. Taft fully coincides.

The point has been reached where the public of every shade of political belief insists that these men obey, or relinquish their claims. The plea of "vested rights" no longer inspires, terrifies or in any way carries any weight, for right must, and in the end will prevail.

Judge Goodwin, of Salt Lake, in his Weekly, asserts that "a graduated income tax should be levied and enforced up to the point of confiscation when the income becomes too large." And in this matter the Judge has good company in the person of President Roosevelt, and others who are prominent in the national affairs. These over-grown and constantly growing fortunes are a menace to public good. Like a snow ball as they roll along, they grow larger and larger, and no one can tell what will be the future, unless some restraint is placed upon this sort of thing.

Senator Allison, of Iowa, one of the leaders of the Republican party, and conspicuous for the last forty years in the affairs of the nation, died very suddenly last Wednesday afternoon at his home in Dubuque, Iowa. The Senator had been ailing for the last two years, but no one thought the end was so near. He was an able man, quiet and unostentatious, but was really one of the most forceful figures in American public life. He left no blood relatives, his family having preceded the aged Senator to the grave. No man other than the president, will be more honored than he by the people of this country.

President Roosevelt is swamped with applications from men who would a-bunting go with him to Africa. He already has had several thousand applications from all parts of the world. Photographers are especially insistent on going. But Kermit has the appointment as photographer in chief for the expedition. The gun-makers, makers of knives, and almost every one who has ideas, arms or supplies, all want to go on record as purveyors to his majesty, the Modern Nimrod. But none get any satisfaction out of Teddy, as he knows what he wants, and where and how to get it.

Governor Charles E. Hughes, of New York, has announced himself as a candidate for re-election. The politicians did not like him before and had been opposed by anyone other than the delectable Hearst would have gone down to bitter defeat. But if he secures the nomination, they will have to elect him, much as they will dislike it. He has done things in spite of the politicians, broke up the race-tracks and other vicious things and, later, has the making in him of a splendid Presidential timber. The people like such men as he has proved, and will see to it that he is called to higher duties in the National life.

A San Francisco prominent horse-man got the glanders, which is incurable, from some of his horses, and knowing there was no help for him, committed suicide. One can not be too careful around diseased horses. The better way is to kill them promptly, as such animals are a menace to both man and beast.

Goodwin's Weekly, of Salt Lake in discussing "Money Evils and their Remedies" makes this very incisive and just remark: "It seems to us there must be a return to common sense and justice. If rich men are abusing the power in their hands, the long arm of the law should be stretched out to arrest their work; not with a brass band or a sounding manifesto, but with the silence and distinctness of the bulldog when he finds a burglar in the house." When that is done there will be no further breaking of the law by rich malefactors. Just mark that down!

The Sultan of Turkey has proclaimed a constitution and henceforth instead of keeping himself secluded in his palace will move about the city and country like any other "citizen". In granting this privilege, at one bound he has risen from the most hated to the best beloved person in that country. The young men of the country were instrumental in producing this result. President Roosevelt has tendered the Sultan his congratulations over his proclaiming a constitution.

The gaspipe thugs Siemson and Dabner, who terrorized San Francisco after the fire by a series of murders in which a piece of gaspipe was used as a weapon, were hanged at San Francisco last Friday, for the murder of a Japanese banker and robbing his bank.

The first Americans were attired in the simple gee string. What with sheath goans slashed liberally at one side, and the peek-a-boob shirt waist, to a man up a tree it doesn't look so far away before the gee string returns as the proper thing for the 400!

Geo. A. Pettibone for years prominent in the counties of the Western Federation of Labor, and who was charged with murder in the Harry Orchard case and acquitted died at St. Josephs hospital Denver last Monday from effects of an operation for cancer.

A cloud burst in the Dog Valley last week, near Reno carried away a number of cabins and drowned Miss Etta Pixley, a very estimable young lady of Verdi, California.

Resigns His Charge

The fourth quarterly meeting of the Methodist church was held Saturday, which was presided over by the Assistant Superintendent, Rev. R. E. Dunlap. The report showed things in a very satisfactory condition. During the meeting Rev. A. J. Armstrong tendered his resignation which was accepted, and the charge will be supplied later.

Mr. Armstrong, who has filled the pulpit acceptably and all for his health and that of his wife, was compelled to leave here and seek a lower altitude. He will leave with his family Aug 24th for his old home in the Willamette valley.

Much regret is expressed generally that circumstances over which he has no control have compelled him and his estimable family to take their departure from Lakeview.

Makes Good Cigars

The Lakeview Cigar Factory is turning out a fine lot of cigars these days for outside trade. Such enterprises are a good thing for any town as they are the means of bringing money into a town that otherwise would not be obtainable, and thus every body is more or less benefitted.

Will Appoint a Deputy

The Klamath Herald reports that District Attorney, Kykendall will soon appoint a deputy for Lake county. That he has had the matter under consideration, but has not yet decided upon whom he will confer the honor.

Dr. Smythe, secretary of Foreign Missions of the Methodist church, a missionary for 15 years in China, and where he was president of the Fuchung college, occupied the Methodist pulpit morning and evening Sunday last. He spoke very entertainingly of his experiences in that country in the morning, and in the evening his address was more particularly of the New China and of the advance made in educational and other ways the past 8 or 9 years. He illustrated his sermons with many stories from the original Chinese depicting their views and methods of life. He is full of Irish wit, and those who failed to attend missed a rare treat.

Smiles and Squalls

By "THE VERDANT ONE"

An optimistic exchange says that if Bryan is elected there is nothing to worry about, as there is sure to be a republican congress. It is but supposing it should be Taft with a socio-democratic congress "on his hands" as a former president once remarked? It is too painful to think of.

Charlie Fairbanks has not risen in public to protest putting a seductive cocktail out of sight for some time, or else the papers have been derelict of their duty. He should have stuck to buttermilk pop with nouilles in it. If he had "the women" who "see to you" would not have roared so loud as to scare all the politicians in the republican party into poor Charlie's undying!

A Jacksonville man ran away with another man's wife, and made a clean sweep of all the household goods, four children, and the other man's mother-in-law, thrown in for good measure! What a charmer he must be! The bereaved man's neighbors are offering him congratulations instead of sympathy. Quite right, too.

Since Burbank has changed the course of nature in plant life, one man claims by putting potatoes and butter beans together he gets a potato that is already buttered. Another man grows potatoes and tomatoes on the same vine, and doubles the capacity of his garden patch. Now if some one will only succeed in growing beetstake and chicken on that vine our happiness will be complete.

A Successful Farmer

Charlie Oliver, has a fine farm just over the line in California, was in Lakeview Friday, and called on The Examiner. He is one of the fortunate comers to this country some 20 years ago. He has worked hard, got him a farm of 220 acres, grows some fruit, lots of hogs and some cattle and sheep. He gave us an invitation to come and see his farm some day which we are going to accept.

This year's price of the wool clip in Montana and Wyoming averaged 18c and this price was refused in some instances.
