A STRANGE CAMPAIGN

The campaign now going on is one of the strangest ever witnessed in the history of the game of politics in this country. No one seems to be excited; no one seems to be depressed, and no one is particularly enthusiastic one way or another over the outcome, unless it may be some chap who has a fat office.

The business interests of the nation do not appear disturbed, as indicated by the many interviews of the "big business" men. But, perhaps they reason that the present is not an opportune time for them to openly express themselves. Even Mr. Harri-man who has probably as much cause to be nervous over the outcome as any man, has summed up the situation as follows, which may be termed the eastern view:

"It will not make much difference to us which of the candidates is chosen president. It is all the same to me. While there is a difference in their general policy there is no difference so far as the railroads are concerned."

What may be taken as the western view of the situation was doubtless best expressed by the American National Bank in its last financial letter which said:

"The political situation presents no complex phases. The logical candidates have been selected as standard bearers for the two leading parties. The platforms are about as different as two peas. Corporate management, industrial combinations and the tariff will have consideration during and after the campaign, regardless of which party triumphs at the polls. This would be a good season to abandon the foolish habit of assuming that an election year is necessarily an off year for business."

Under such feeling it is not to be wondered at that factories are starting up, railroads are employing more men, and business of all sorts is going on just as though there was no such thing as the customary presidential off year.

This condition of course does not altogether suit the spellbinders, but it does suit the good hard headed sense of the American people who will as usual register their approval or disapproval of things political at the polls just as they have done all these hundred or more years.

Each man will vote according to his honest convictions and for what he conceives to be for the best interests of the country; and that is all there is to it, anyway, for the average voter the loaves and fishes belong to the man who does the shouting, or who gets some fool newspaper man to do it for him!

OREGON'S OPPORTUNITY

Under the above caption the August number of School and Home has the following:

One cannot travel about the state at this time without being impressed with the rapid development noticeable on every hand. Each arriving train brings from the Missisippi valley and the far east, home builders who are coming to stay. The great resources of the state, its proximity to the Pacific ocean with its untold commercial opportunity, and the equable climate of the coast section all appeal to thinking people and thousands are coming here to make their permanent homes. The spirit of progress dominates all plans for present and future development. Transportation facilities only are needed to start a yet more rapid wave of advancement.

What is the character of this new citizenship? It is of the very best. Men of great energy and business; women cultured and refined—these are our new citizens. Not from one state, but from every state in the Union, they are coming, bringing their ideas of what should constitute a state's best endeavor. Their various and valuable ideas modified by contact with those who have helped to shape the state's development in former years should and will crystallize into a very high state of civilization. Here traditions that have lingered in one's native state may be left behind and only the best ideas from each find room; here, too, our institutions, like our architecture, may be modeled after the best and latest patterns.

In this rapid development all should share and all should help. The "tearer down" has no welcome, for where structures are to be erected we need builders, we need optimistic ideas and we need constructive activity.

Talk for your state and a new Oregon will soon appear and you will take pride in calling this "home."

BETTER BE CAREFUL

On our inside pages is an account of a wonderful new wheat, descriptions of which have been published in the Oregonian, and other newspapers.

Since the article was put in type it seems that the Colorado Agricultural College has been doing a little investigating, and with not altogether satisfactory results. One thing is that 50 bushels, instead of 200 bushels, as was claimed by the producers, was the result of an acre sown.

But, if that amount is assured and the quality is acceptable on Colorado land there is no kick.

It is said that the price asked for seed is $20 per bushel (and only one bushel allowed to each applicant) is excessive. Notwithstanding the high price and that about two million dollars have already been received by Adams and his associates for this year's crop.

It is also stated that the United States postal authorities are investigating the alleged merits of the Alaska wheat, and if it is the old swindle of the "Seven Headed Wonder Wheat" exploited some years ago, it will probably go hard with these men.

At any rate it will be well for farmers to go slow about investing in this wheat for seed until something more definite is ascertained as to the wheat and its originators.

The democratic candidate thinks the independent voters should support him. The independent voters probably would not be recognized by Mr. Bryan, if he should be elected. "To the victors belong the spoils." We had a very lucid exhibition of this truth when the last democratic administration came into power. The hungry democrats got every thing and the independents were told to wait until the next democratic success! Perhaps Mr. Bryan now has them in mind and perhaps not!

One of the big surprises last week was the placing in the hands of a receiver of the big Pillsbury Flouring Mills of Minneapolis one of the largest flouring mills in America. It has been owned by English capitalists for some time and was supposed by the general public to be in a solvent and prosperous condition. It appears however that the concern was heavily involved, most of the indebtedness being held by Minneapolis banks.

Another of the sins of commission by the N-CO is in the case of the Madeline Lumber Co., cutting 40,000 feet of lumber per day. The Company purchased three tons of coal at San Francisco for $12 per ton. The charge for shipping to Madeline was $120 or $140 per ton, or nearly four times the original cost. This seems like plain highway robbery, and nothing else.

The American Thomas car won in the international race around the world. It was evident from the first that such would be the case and Hansen, the Arctic explorer and guide, who started in the French car changed to the American car before reaching San Jose, California, because as he said he wanted to be with the winning car.

Bad Accident

Kurg Kooser, one of the old settlers here, while engaged in hauling lumber to town from Rhinehart's sawmill last Sunday afternoon was thrown from the wagon in passing over a rocky piece of road, and was badly injured about his arm and shoulder. He was brought to town and placed under medical care, and expects to be able to be about again in a few days.

Minnesota has a candidate for governor on the republican ticket, who got the nomination because he eats pie with his knife. A Pennsylvania man practised the same thing until one day he swallowed the knife. Since then he has quit eating pie. He is dead.

Birthday Party at Plush

Mr. and Mrs. Mage Pine, of Warner Valley, entertained a number of their friends at their home last week in honor of Miss Kitten's 48th birthday.

Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Les. N. Kelsey, Geo. Miller, R. R. Cunningham, and Joe Pine; Misses Kitten Pine, and Helen Sharrock; Messrs. Geo. Anderson, Harry Roberts, Mark Gilliam, Paul Weber and Dan Guine. Those present report a fine time.

Contented Minnesota People

Mr. and Mrs. James Converse and daughter of New Pine Creek were in town last Thursday, and gave the Examiner a call. They are people from Pipestown Minnesota, have been here now several years and are very much pleased with their new home—especially so in their escape from the long cold winters they endured for a number of years in Minnesota. The fruit, too, that they get here, is something they could not grow in that bleak state.

Smiles and Squalls

By "THE VERDANT ONE"

A Russian giant 9 feet 3 inches tall is visiting London. He looms up so immensely in the fog of fear of Lunnon, don't she know, bah Jove, that the Bobbies are afraid of him!

The newspapers are making a big fuss because a Dakota cow-girl roped a coyote. Ah, that's nothing. A Lake county girl caught one by the scruff of the neck and shook the daylight out of him!

In Iowa if a man sticks his head out of a car window and gets it knocked clear off by a switch, telegraph pole, or anything else in the way, he is charged guilty of misdemeanor and sent to jail for three months, dead or alive!

Some doctors—not all of them—assert there is death in osculation—a kiss. If so, what's the matter of sending a condemned man over the Range in such a pleasant manner, and thus do away with the gibbet, electric chair, and other ghastly appliances for forcing a man to shuffle off this mortal coil?

The meekest woman has been found. She hit her husband with a parasol and then had him arrested for breaking it.

Emperor Bill and King Ed met the other day on German soil and kissed. They did not use their knives, as their hands were tied behind their backs.

A Chicago man, before the divorce, asserted that marriage gives one woman the exclusive right to find fault with a man. Well, he has no kick coming. Just look at the Utah man with 50 or more wives all finding fault with him at the same time!

What is Best for Indigestion?
Mr. A. Robinson of Ontario, has been troubled for years with indigestion, and recommends Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets as "the best medicine I ever used." If troubled with indigestion or constipation give them a trial. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at Daly & Hall's Drug store.

Says Sheep Are All Sight

Wm. Proudfoot, the U. S. government stock inspector was in town several days this week.

While here called on the Examiner, and reported that he has just inspected between 60,000 and 70,000 sheep on the range and finds them all right and free from disease of any kind, and in good condition.

He leaves this morning for summer Lake to inspect the sheep on the range there.
