MATRIMONIAL ADVICE.

Be Happy Though Married to and A' That.

So many women find matrimony a fittle disappointing, and, though many confess the fact, they rarely see that they may themselves be to blame.

When a girl is engaged she is always careful to look her best that her lover therein : may admire her. She often falls to do the same for her husband. This is a mistake. Men like always to admire their wives, and they will do so all the more when they see that other people . admire them too. The untidy, dowdy woman may have solid virtues, but one has to remember the fact as an excuse for her appearance, and the man who is mentally apologizing for his wife's shortcomings is in danger of finding some one else more attractive than she

Then it is a mistake for young wives intensely happy in each other's society, but sooner or later outside interests pleasures and the work of the world valuable consideration. Wider interests will not make either ess fond of the other, and the v oman will never do so by tying him to her apron strings and expecting him is hom unlity in her husband. An echo may besweet, but it is always monotonous, so she should have her own ideas and apinions. She need not argue-that's fatal-but a little fact prevents the mecossity.
