FOR PRESIDENT WILLIAM H. TAFT OF OHIO

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT JAMES S. SHEPHERD OF NEW YORK

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS

LOCAL REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE

On last Thursday evening a Taft and Sherman club was organized in Lakeview, with Col. F. P. Light as chairman and W. E. Stiller secretary. The organization was effected in the opera house. Quite a gathering was present, including a considerable sprinkling of democrats.

Speeches were made by Col. Boone L. F. Coan and J. M. Batchelder. The colonel made quite a lengthy speech discussing the necessity of placing a curb on the railroads and predatory interests—his argument being that if the policies of President Roosevelt are to be maintained, a very desirable purpose in view of past and existing conditions, then it is certainly necessary that Mr. Taft should be elected. He insisted that history proved, and notably so in both Cleveland administrations, that nothing is expected in the way of reform from any democratic source. This fact driven home to his mind during the Cleveland regime had caused him then to withdraw from that party. All their anti-election pledges were then broken and would be again. He asserted very strongly that the best interests of the many made protection of American industry a necessity. The tariff must be maintained, or if changed at all such change should only be made by the friends of the measure. He said the wool interests of Lake county were paramount, and could only be conserved by keeping the republican party in power. Evidence of this fact was had when the democrats struck wool down by placing it on the free list under the Cleveland administration, bringing distress and hardship to every person in Lake county, rendering clear evidence to everyone that democracy under Bryan would do the same thing, and wool again would be placed on the free list. No one in Lake county would want any change made in that way and the way to prevent it is to vote for Mr. Taft. He argued that politics are based on selfishness, and really a business proposition, and that everyone should make it a point to vote so as to best serve his individual interests.

Mr. Coan pursued about the same line of argument. He said that every man, in deciding how he should cast his ballot, should stop and consider how that vote would work for or against his own interest. If he were a democrat, and knowing that party fealty required or demanded that he should support a policy that he knew or felt was opposed to his material interests, such as reduction or removal of the tariff from wool, he would at least lay aside his political beliefs for the time being and would support the party that would do the best for his personal welfare. Mr. Batchelder discussed the political vagaries and eccentric wandering of Bryan in his strenuous endeavor to become President of the United States. Any line of policy, no matter how absurd it might be or how ephemeral in its nature, so long as it serves him as a vote-getter, is a paramount issue with him. He rode free silver until its back was broken, and now he is astride the new hobby-horse of guaranty of bank deposits, in the vain hope that it will entice the votes of the unthinking and lead him to the goal of his perennial ambition.

The speakers were given frequent applause.

After the speaking, opportunity was given those so desiring to sign the roll and to subscribe a fund for current expenses, procuring speakers and other necessary expenses.

A large number placed their names on the roll of the club.

It is the purpose to hold regular meetings and endeavor to work up some enthusiasm for the republican candidates between now and election day.

GREATEST FRAUD OF ALL

The Alturas Plaindealer hits the nail square on the head, as we can vouch for by actual experience, in the following:

The utter folly of investing in life insurance policies is illustrated by the experience of Geo. Duke. Twenty years ago he took out a twenty year policy. That policy matured recently and Mr. Duke received just $100 more than he had paid in. The policy was taken out with the Pacific Life Insurance Co. Any one can figure out the interest Mr. Duke received on his investment. It is, as Mr. Duke says, a swindle, pure and simple.

It may not be generally known, but Spokane, in the possession of the Spokesman Review, has one of the greatest daily newspapers in the whole United States. Its special news service of the Inland empire is a model for other dailies to emulate, and in every feature it is worthy of commendation. When there is close connection between here and Spokane, it is likely that the Spokesman Review will be a welcome visitor to many here, and in turn will be of material benefit to this section.

The Portland Telegram is prodding Harriman for the dereliction of his plain duty to Oregon in matter of existing train service. Even its main line service between Portland and all points is very much inferior to that served for people elsewhere. Millions have been fleeced from the people of this state, with no adequate return. It is time to make a general roar all along the line!

The Oregonian has a tale of woe, such as the Examiner can relate, "hundreds and hundreds of times," in the following as to the misdeeds of printers:

When you write "synthetic philosophy," and it appears in print sympathetic philosophy, you feel the injury, but there is no remedy.

That man McLaurin, of South Carolina, says he is proud of the fact that he is one of the benchmen in the United States senate for the Standard Oil. The people in this county are certainly not proud of McLaurin, and it is up to the people of South Carolina to say what they think of a man of such shameless pretensions.

The Coos Bay Harbor says the meanest person is one will take a newspaper a year or more, and then get the postmaster to send a "refused" card. Since assuming control of the Examiner we have had but one such case and, thing of it! that one was a lady.

Mrs. Harriman in talking of social duties, at Omaha, Neb., said: "I believe that if more women would take a deep and intelligent interest in their husband's business there would be less domestic unhappiness and few divorces in so-called high society."

United States Senator Bailey characterizes the statement that he is about to resign as absurd. Oh, well Mr. Bailey we will take your word for it. But all the same, men of your stripe, whether democrat or republican, have got to go!

The government seems to be looking very closely these days after land claimants. If officials of former days had done the same thing there would have been more land now for the homeless, and the land-grabbers would have had less land.

The Portland Telegram, in view of the scandal about the Standard Oil, very pertinently says: We would like to inquire, is the price of Senators figured in the price which the public has to pay for its kerosene?

A jade mine in Siskiyou County, Cal. is said to be the only one of its kind in the country. Jade was discovered there in 1906, and tests showed that the mineral was up to the standard in every particular.

The Farmers and Traders National Bank at Lagrange has closed its doors. The bank had large deposits of town, school and county funds, and was supposed to be perfectly solvent.

The Southern Pacific is getting in such a hurry to get into Klamath Falls that the old slow contractors are being sacked to makeway for rushers.

The supreme court of Washington upheld the state primary law in every particular. Mr. Ankeny will have to take his medicine.

LAKE COUNTY SHEEP NUMBER 209,000 HEAD

Dave Elder, the sheep king of Lake County, has informed the Klamath Herald that there are only 100,000 sheep in Lake County. But U. S. Inspector Proudfoot, who has been all over the county on a tour of inspection reports 209,000 head in the county. This number includes this year's increase.

What Mr. Elder says as to low price of sheep is true. Dr. Lytle, of Pendleton, who was east of here a short time since, says that 20,000 ewes were sold for a lump sum of $87,000, while 20,000 lambs only fetched $180 a head.

The recent rains have made a fair amount of feed, so that owners will not be compelled to sell, and some have prepared for a hard winter by purchase of hay to feed their flocks. The wool trust seems determined to hold the price of wool down to the lowest notch possible, and is only offering 11 cents. Fortunately the sheep men of this section are fore-handed enough so that they are not compelled to sell, and for that reason are sticking at at least 15 cents.

It seems now to be a question of endurance between them although it is believed that after election, better prices will prevail.

For Chronic Diarrhoea

"While in the army in 1863 I was taken with chronic diarrhoea," says Geo. M. Felton of South Gibson, Pa. "I have since tried many remedies but without any permanent relief, until Mr. A. W. Miles of this place, persuaded me to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at once." For sale by Daly and Hall.

STOCK MARKET VERY DULL

No Sheep Sold and Some Small Cattle Herds Driven Out

The stock market, so far as sheep and wool is concerned is absolutely quiet. Nothing doing, so stock men inform us.

There is a little movement in cattle. J. A. Fitzpatrick has taken out three bunches from the Chewanocan, comprising about 1,800 head, which are to be shipped to the J. B. Haggin ranch in Kern County, California, where they will be prepared for market.

Miller & Lux have had buyers up in the Surprise and other valleys, and are reported to have picked up considerable stock which they also are taking to their feeding farms.

Smiles and Squalls

By "THE VERDANT ONE"

A Texas man wants to have his mother-in-law arrested, on the ground that "marriage is a lottery" and the one she ran, is the one that scooped him in.

They have put rubber tires on their lynching bees down South—that is judging from newspaper comment, that "everything is done in a quiet manner."

A syndicate has been organized in New York to sell canned sermons to the ministry at rate of 25 cents per week or $10 per year. It may be the same gang offering the newspaper fraternity aids to laziness of this sort are attempting to work up a more profitable field.

The Western Publisher says a Kansas editor tells this story on one of the local teachers in his town. She drew a picture of a volcano on the board, picturing the eruption with fiery colored crayon. She then asked the youngsters what it looked like. One little towhead yelled: "It looks like b—l."

A Baltimore undertaker advertises: "A free grave with every coffin." But no one has noted any extra rush to his bargain counter.

The political big guns in both parties are falling by the wayside. Brer. Hearst done throwed de trick dat 'sploded de standard oil can! One throw brought down Foraker and Haskell, and others are said to be trembling for fear of those awful letters he got from Archibald.

A New York darkey said "Der neber was no chicken born wot I kaint ketch!" Then he grabbed an ostrich by one of its ankles. The bird looked calmly around, placed its other foot on the colored man's head, and pushed him 25 feet into space. When he alighted, and recovered somewhat, he blushed the foregoing remark with: "But I aint gwine to take no mo' chances wid dem two-laigged mules, no sah!"

Tackled by a Bear

A Princeville sheepman heard a noise during the night in his sheep fold, and rushed out with a .44 caliber revolver and a dirk. He stumbled on to a big bear that knocked his revolver from his hand, the bear grappled the man attempting to crush him. He stabbed the bear with the dirk twice, and became unconscious. When he came to he found the bear dead.

AN EASTERN OPINION OF LAKE COUNTY

The following letter was sent one subscriber of the Examiner by another and is a valued testimonial as to this town, its people, and the land and its products, by one who has given us a personal visit:

KINSLEY, Kan., Sept. 1, 1908.—Mr. C. A. Griffith, Larned, Kan.—Dear Sir: In reply to your questions about Oregon and the Oregon Valley Land Company's lands, I went there for the purpose of looking it over and found everything as good if not better than represented by the company. In fact, it is the best proposition I struck in seven weeks travel from Kansas to the Pacific coast. The climate is fine; the soil black, rich loam in the valleys; all crops good without irrigation and better when they use water; all kinds of fine fruit and vegetables; a nice little town with about 1500 people, all well fixed happy and friendly. In fact, I felt more at home there than any place in my travels. I bought a contract as soon as I got back, and expect to buy a 1 can and go back to make my home there. If you have one of these contracts, I would advise you to stick to it and pay as many more as you can carry. There is no possible way to lose out on it. When the railroad that is building gets there, and it will be there inside of a year, all this land will be worth two or three times what it costs you. There will be all kinds of business there, and if you want to live there, there is no finer place under the sun. T. B. Hoffman, Kinsley, Kansas. (Ex-County Treasurer of Edwards County, Kansas.)

A Five-year Old Boy Kills a Wolf

The Madras Pioneer says. The five year old son of Rev. L. D. Brown proved his prowess as a hunter last Thursday by dispatching a coyote, singlehanded. He started out with a small dog as his sole companion, and when they found the coyote, the dog held his attention while the plucky little fellow ran in and killed him with a club.

Would Mortgage the Farm

A farmer on Rural Route 2, Empire, Ia, W. A. Floyd by name, says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured the two worst sores I ever saw; one on my hand and one on my leg. It is worth more than its worth in gold. I would not be without it if I had to mortgage the farm to get it." Only 25c. at A. L. Thornton's drug store.

Drilling for Oil in Crook County

The new drilling outfit for the Madras Oil & Gas Co., has arrived at Shaniko, and as soon as it can be hauled out, will be set up and work resumed at the well which the Company is drilling on the west slope of Grizzly mountain. The new drill is capable of sinking the hole to a depth of several thousand feet, if it is found necessary to go that deep.

Where Bullets Flew

David Parker, of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitters have done me worth more than five hundred dollars to me. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters; and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c at A. L. Thornton's drug store.
