A NEW PAIR OF EYES.

Startling Effect Produced With Shell of a Walnut.

Take two half shells of an English walnut, large enough to cover your eyes completely, and in the middle of each bore a hole a little larger than the pupil of your eye. Use a penknife for the work. Then clean the inside of the shells thoroughly and paint the shells with a coat of white water paint.

In arranging them for painting lay them on the table in position with the pointed end toward each other and

HOW TO PAINT SHELLS AND THE EFFECT. The white spots on the iris in the same position on both shells. Finally, with bright red, paint a border all around the edge of the imitation eyes. These eyes are easily fitted over your own eyes by opening your eyes wide and drawing up your brows to their fullest height.

Strange will be the effect. In fact, it is such a startling sight that it is best not to go into a room without some intimation of your intention of showing a new "eye" dear.

EYES OF THE SAVAGE.

His Keen Sight Due to Knowing What to Look For.

The scientists are always delving into the mysteries of nature, many times on lines that the average man never thinks of. Here, for example, is that question of the keen eyesight of the savage. We have all heard how much keener his eyes are than those of civilized men, and we have accepted the statement as a fact without stopping to think how and why it is true. But a party of scientists from Cambridge, England, who have been on an anthropological expedition to the Torres Strait, tell us as a result of their investigations that the keen sight of the native is due to his knowing what to look for.

They found that members of their party could see and distinguish objects as far as the natives could after they had become familiar with the surroundings. A queer illustration of this principle is given in the western Indian's power to distinguish the sex of a deer at a distance so great that the antlers cannot be seen. It is not only sight that gives the Indian that power, but his knowledge of the peculiar gait of the male deer.

Tree Riddles.

- What tree is an emblem of sorrow? Willow. What tree is like a personal pronoun? Yew. What tree is found in churches? Elder. What tree do we offer at meeting and parting? Palm. What tree is like one of the ten plagues? Locust. What tree will protect you from cold? Fir. What tree is given a naughty boy on the ear? Box. What tree is used in history? Date. What tree is used by an absent lover? Pine. What tree is in two parts? Pear. What tree reminds us of the Atlantic? Beech. What tree is used to protect us from snow? Rubber. What tree is used by lovers? Tulp. What tree is used by architects? Plum. What tree describes pretty girls? Peach.

Elephants and White Ants.

Some American engineers, in constructing a power transmission line in India, had several things to consider and avoid that had never confronted them before. The line, which was nearly a hundred miles in length, was carried on tall poles through the jungle, and in constructing it the ravages of white ants and the playful pranks of wild elephants had to be provided against. That sounds amusing, but the engineers found it a serious problem. The ants attacked the first poles set and fairly riddled them, and the elephants reached up with their trunks and tore down the wires. So iron sockets seven feet in height were used to set the poles in, which circumvented the ants, and after a careful measurement of the highest reach of an elephant's trunk the poles were made tall enough to keep the wires out of the way.

Planting—A Game.

This is a game in which each player in order tells what he has planted and what came up. The articles planted may be persons or objects of any kind, but they may come up as plants or trees, having some punning connection with the thing planted. Thus one player may say, "I planted Shakespeare and sweet william came up." Another, "I planted a pack of cards and whistlers came up."

Unwise Combination.

To the mind of Mrs. Abigail Jennings there was a sort of disloyalty in admitting to any outsider that a native of Willowby could be really eccentric. As for anything beyond eccentricity, Mrs. Jennings would never have admitted it, even in the case of Miss Rachel Gregg, who was frankly called crazy by the summer visitors.

"Now, Mrs. Jennings," said one of the boarders, "do you really mean that you've never known Miss Gregg to do anything that you'd call crazy?"

"No, I haven't," said Mrs. Jennings, with a firm and unyielding expression about her prominent chin.

"Why, what do you think of her sending that bag of eggs over to the Corners to Mrs. Cole right in the box with her laundry work and never telling the stage driver and letting him throw the box right off?" inquired the summer boarder. "Mrs. Cole says there's one shirt waist she'll never be able to wear again."

"Well," said Mrs. Jennings calmly. "I should say about that as I have about a number of little things Rachel does and has done. She may lack in wisdom and forethought now and again. But, then, who doesn't, I'd like to know?"—Youth's Companion.

Showing Our Monkey Blood.

The batsman, congratulated on his home run, slapped himself proudly on the chest and began to boast of still finer home runs that he had made in the past.

"Did you see that gesture, the stricken breast?" said an ethnologist of Harvard. "Whenever we make that gesture in our vanity we prove the Darwinian theory up to the hilt."

"You know the gorilla, Kipling and Du Chailu describe him—an enormous ape that in his indomitable bravado beats his breast with a sound like the rolling of the muffled drums of Memorial day.

"As big as a bull, as swift as a cat, as powerful as an elephant, the gorilla believes himself unconquerable, and in the vain glory of that belief he inflates his lungs and beats his swollen breast till the jungle rings like a gong.

"We in our moments of foolish and excessive vanity inflate our lungs and slap our swollen breasts.

"Thus, alas, we show the monkey blood in us."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Too Much Music.

"I like churches to provide fine music at all times," said a prominent clergyman, "but there are cases on record where the music has been given too prominent a place.

"An eloquent brother divine from South Carolina once told me that going to preach at a strange church he was taken aside by a deacon, who whispered:

"Beg pardon, sir, but I must ask you not to preach longer than ten or twelve minutes. It's the music that the people come here for."

"That was wrong. But worse still was the case of a supply preacher in a church famous for its anthems and choruses. The stranger, not noticing the scraping and tuning of fiddles, rose and began to preach, when the choir leader jumped up and shouted angrily to him from the choir loft at the other end of the church: "Sit down, man! When it's your turn we'll tell you."

Jays of the Interne.

"If you could see some of the vicious home treatment applied to cuts," the young interne at Bellevue said, "you'd wonder at the comparatively few cases of tetanus. If a playful mongrel pup snaps at you, the east side knows that the only thing to do is to put some of the hair of the dog that did the biting—the hair must be from that particular dog—into the cut. They come with incisions reeking with all the filth imaginable—the dirtiest cobwebs from the garret, for instance, which are even more popular as a poultice than those made of a chew of tobacco. Two boys came in recently the same day with cuts to which cigar butts had been bound down because, they explained, they don't chew tobacco. You can't convince the east side that it's wrong. Don't waste time, but clean the wound scientifically, pray for good luck and yell 'Next!'—New York Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

English as Sung.

I live opposite to a school where music is carefully and constantly taught. The children have acquired the difficult art of dropping a semitone a minute. But the accent employed is even more interesting than the tone system. Here is a favorite school song: Flahrs, luvly flahrs, in a garden yeh my see. The rowers there with their reuby lip. Fenks the lunny by loves teh slip. Teuhins, teuhins, ey as a butterfly's wing. Merrygolda rich as the crahn of a king. Rich as the crahn of a king. But none seh fair teh me. None seh fair teh me. As these wildwood flahrs. Sweet wild flahrs. —London Academy.

The Tip Terror.

"Give me a penny, sir, for something to eat." "But you've got sixpence in your hand now. What's that for?" "Oh, that's to tip the waiter, sir."—London Globe.

Beelzebubs Bad as Dialect.

Southern people have much to bear—the articles in the magazines, for example, in which northern contributors try to put out negro dialect! It's enough to give one the beelzebubs.—Galveston News.

There is none made so great but he may both need help and service and stand in fear of the power and unkindness even of the meanest of mortals.
