Woman Cab Drivers Not a Success - A Warning to Young Mothers-Handsome Old Women of Go-tham Town.

Woman has been tried and not found wanting in a good many occupations which the world believed were only to player. be filled properly by man, but at last she seems to have met her Waterloo. According to recent advices from Paris and Berlin, it appears that the women in those cities who have essayed the business of cab driving have not been successful. The Parisian can women found that they could not endure the long hours and the exposure to all kinds of weather. In Berlin It has been demonstrated that women cab drivers lost their nerve when confrontel with thick traffic and street block BUCS.

Many young mothers gradually gold into the way of believing that with house and children to look after it is quite impossible for them to leave home long enough to pay visits and too much extra trouble to have friends with them. After awhile they practically give up seeing their friends except on very rare occasions. This is one of the saddest mistakes a woman can make. The woman who stays at home who has practically no interests outside her own household is certain to grow narrow. More than that, she is quite as sure to become prematurely aged and is lessening her chance of happiness immensely. Should her home happiness fall, what has she to fall back on? If she has been where enough to keep her friends, even though doing so has entailed more or less hardship and no little self denial, she will still have them to help her over the hard places which are sure to disclose themselves in her pathway. For this reason, if for no other, it is wise to lose no chance to make friends and to take the time to cultivate them. Most reason-tion from a busy woman. An occasional visit to show that they are still appreciated or even a note if the visit is impossible will do the business. We cannot ignore our friends for a time with the expectation that friendship may be resumed when it is more convenient. Most persons will decide that such a friendship is not worth having.

With their snowy hair and clear complexions they look more like young matrons made up for a smart function than the grandmammas they are quite likely to be. When one sees them Ninon de l'Enclos and the other beaubig race about the association abapties who knew the secret of perpetual doning the track, and officials were youth become realities. What is more beautiful than a beautiful old woman? Nothing on the face of the earth except a beautiful young one. With her forehead still white and free from wrinkles, her eyes sparkling with the sheer joy of living and her cheeks still rosy with the afterglow of youth's radiance, she is certainly a dear. She moves as briskly as in her younger days, dresses even more smartly and is fully abreast of the times. Such is the astonishing old woman of Gotham in these latter days.
