The Rogue River Fruit Growers are experimenting with appliances to prevent frost damaging their crops. Crude petroleum furnished growers by the S. P. Ry. Co. has not proved satisfactory—better results being obtained from wood, or wood and petroleum combined. One orchardist there tried the experiment of irrigating his orchard and found he had no difficulty in preventing damage from frost.

The Alturas Pioneer of the 30th ult, says: Capt. Kistler informs us that Western Pacific trains are expected to reach Deep Hole, 75 miles from Cedarville, from the east, by July 1. Merchants of Surprise are looking in that direction for relief from the extortions of the N. C. O. With Surprise drawing her freight from Deep Hole and Lake county from Klamath, the very "arjuous duties" of young Mr. Gonaway as train dispatcher, as friend Henssey would say, will cease, "and the poor bye 'il get a rist."

A St. Louis man just bought a 10 acre Hood River apple orchard and paid $1,000 an acre for it. And mind you the orchard has only 2 and 3 year old trees. The fellow with the hammer in Lake county is not so busy as he once was in face of facts like the above showing what is being done in other fruit sections and which will be duplicated here later.

Nebraska saloons hereafter are to be open from sunup to sundown. Father will have to stay at home nights hereafter in that state.
