"Yes," you say and ask: "Why do they do it? '

Simply because Senators Commings and Dolliver, of Iowa, Burkett, of Nebraska, La Follette, of Wisconsin, Clapp and Nelson, of Minnesota, Gore, of Oklahoma, and others, know that their constitutionts are posted, and are not ignorant of the workings of the tariff in all its various ramifictations. They know that fallacies and mistatements will not be accepted as law and though branded as "O. K."by the seal of party approval .. They know, from actual experience, that revolt against the tyranny of party dictum is the penalty Cedarville Record of attempting to foist something far nars. Such thirg have happened to publish such lying rot? and will happen again, especially among men who do their onw think-

It is not surprising therefore to see Senstor Cummings-a man who was Hall, elected by those republican reformers to the governorship, and afterwards to the United States Senate, in spite of the leaders of his party in the state and of the nation and of the combined efforts of the "luterest"to see him get up in the Senate and utter these telling words:

"There is nobody who knows better than I do that all over the land, especially in the larger industries, there are combinations, concentra-tions, and conspiracies which do at tempt to rob, and which have for their avowed object the purpose of robbing the consumer or the user of the benefits and advantages of fair and successful competition. Thank God OREGON MAP SALE these conspiracies have not yet en staved the American people. Thank God there is yet a little virtue and conscience left in our men that will induce them to struggle against such conspiracies and combinations: and if the Senate is true in its traditions, true to teachings of the fathers, it will do something, and it can do something, within a short while, as the lives of nations go, to remove this intervention, this unlawful intervention, which, it is said, prevents the man who uses, or the man who must ultimately pay, from acquiring and enjoying the advantages of fee and fair and complete competition.

University Woman's college, speaking A Two Story and Attic House, With Gambrel Roof. Architect's Estimate of Cost, About $4,000.

Copyright, 1909, by P. T. MacLagan, Newark, N. J.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW-FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

This attractive design of a house contemplates eight rooms, reception half and bath. It is built in the cottage style, with gambrel roof, the roof being kept low. The first story is clapboarded and all above the first story stained shingles. The rooms are of moderate size, but opening well together. First floor trimmed in native hard wood. The remainder of the house is trimmed in soft wood and finished natural or painted if desired. First story ten feet high, second story nine feet high. Third story has one finished room, with ample attic and storage space as well. Cellar seven feet high, with laundry in rear under kitchen. This design is especially well adapted for a country lot and has all the conveniences and comforts of some of the larger houses, while costing much less. This house is heated throughout with steam, and all walls and ceilings are plastered throughout with three good coats of plaster. Cost about $4,000. Size, 40 by 37 feet, with first story extension and
