PINCROFT IS RIGHT

A desperate effort is being made by the "interests" to unhorse Gifford Pinchot, the only man who stands in the way of their efforts to grab all the existing water-powers, and convert them from public property, which can be made to benefit all, into "vested rights", to be handed down for all time to benefit the few, and wrest from an unwilling public further increase of already unduly swollen fortunes, to those beyond conception of present means of avarice.

This man Baillinger, who acts as though he was the special tool of monopoly, is endeavoring to undo all that President Roosevelt did toward the conservation of the eminent domain for the people against the self-seeking privileged class, inordinate and unobtainable in its greed.

Under such circumstances it is the plain duty of President Taft, if he desires to retain the respect and good will of the people of our common country, to take a firm stand in this matter, and give Mr. Pinchot his hearty and entire support.

In view of the fact that he promised to carry out the policies of his predecessor, it is his plain duty to support Mr. Pinchot. If he does not do so it is very probable that Mr. Roosevelt will be called from his retirement to the Presidency, for there is no disguising the fact that this nation has now come to a pass where it needs a strong man at its head, and Mr. Roosevelt seems to be the only man we have of any national prominence with sufficient backbone for the place.

Under ordinary circumstances, the Examiner would be first to combat even a semblance of a third term, but if it is necessary to Mexicanize this nation to beat back the overwhelming force of graft and greed we will favor a Napoleon even, if he will do the job, and do it to a finish!

Mr. Pinchot is a wealthy man, who is working for the good of the whole people without a salary, and with no interest save that of our common good, and he should be sustained in his policy by President Taft.

It is up to the latter to decide whether he will stand by the people who bateded he would fulfill his promise to carry out the policies of the man who made him what he is, or whether he will ally himself on the side of graft and greed!

MAGNATES OF TRUSTS

London dealers sold Frick and other "sneak" magnates silk underwear at $750 a suit. On the contrary the poor devils working for that sort of gentry go without underwear and are mighty fortunate if they have a flour sack to use as patches for their cotton pants.

Truly the American laborer under our wise and beneficial tariff legislation in the interest of Frick, John D. and the whole caboodle, is so strongly "protected" that he really doesn't need any pants! He wears overalls, of course, but, really, we should think Frick and John D., et al would drop dead at the sight of the attire of most of the protected American laborers!

The pity of it all is that such wholesale robbery is perpetrated and perpetuated in the interest of American labor! Moreover, the worst of it all is that the poor dupes believe it.

NOT TO BE BELIEVED

The Canadians are about to banish American money. We don't blame them, for the reason that all American money was accepted there without discount, while on the contrary all Canadian money on this side was taboned or denied circulation, or placed under heavy penalty.

The petty, purile way in which Americans from Jim Balme down have treated that truly great people to the north, is having a franchise making wider the gap bet-ween us instead of drawing us together into a commercial bond that with proper care and consideration might have developed into one of a political nature.

It is a mistaken idea that the Canadians can be driven. But they might have been converted into annexation and if that much-to-be desired end is ever consummated it will have to be secured now by a radical change of policy against the Canadians, coupled with a complete decapitation of the hydro-headed trusts that are sapping the total energies of the American people.

Canadians do not like American trusts and that feeling is so deep-seated that it may never be eradicated.

PRRAISE FOR ROOSEVELT

Bishop W. M. Bell, of Berkeley, recently delivered a remarkable address before the Oreganian assembly at Yosemite, Cal., in which he declared that present day conditions demanded a fearless press. "The truly fearless press," he stated, "when it is the exponent of justice and right yields a larger influence than any other public factor."

He spoke words of praise for President Roosevelt and stated that a courageous president was one of the crying needs of the country.

"Because of the present day conditions it may become necessary," said Bishop Bell, "to reelect former President Roosevelt. His intrepidity to facing the manifold enemies of right, and his extreme activity in the regeneration of American industrial conditions marks him a man of whose aid the country stands still in need."

Bishop Bell's words were greeted with thunders of applause from the assembled ministers, many of whom in later speeches echoed the sentiments he had voiced.

WHAT IT COSTS

Some one has figured it all out and has learned that the man who drinks three glasses of whiskey a day for one year and pays ten cents a drink for it spends enough money for whiskey to buy three barrels of flour, twenty bushels of potatoes, 200 pounds of granulated sugar, one barrel of crackers, one pound of pepper, two pounds of tea, fifty pounds of salt, fifty pounds of rice, fifty pounds of butter, ten pounds of cheese, ten pounds of candy, three dozen cans of tomatoes, ten dozen pickles, ten dozen oranges, ten dozen bananas, two dozen cans of corn, eighteen boxes of matches, half a bushel of beans, 100 cakes of soap, one case of rolled oats, and still have $15.30 left to give his wife for a new dress. And the pity of it all is that the man who indulges his appetite for drink to that extent, usually robs his family of the necessities of life. The money he derives no benefit from is money

YOUR MOTHER.

"My mother has been dead several years."

"There had been a long and intimate conversation between the two men, and as he spoke these words one of them settled down on the cushions of the Pullman and continued."

"My mother was an old-fashioned mother. When I was a babe in arms she did not give me over to a nurse, but nourished me at her own breast."

"She fashioned with her own hands the little garments that I wore. She taught me that simplest but most eloquent of all prayers, 'Now I lay me down to sleep.' Every night, even when I was a good big boy, she tucked the bedclothes about me in my cradle bed."

"For years, long after I left home, she loved me and yearned over me, sorrowing in my sorrows, rejoicing in my small successes."

"Do you know, the world has seemed a little lonelier since my mother died."

"There was a long silence between the two men, and then the other spoke. 'My chief regret today is that before my mother died I sometimes neglected to write to her. And my fondest recollections are of the happy days I sometimes made for her.'"

"It is the way of the world, I suppose our children will have the same regrets—and the same consolations—when we are dead. Our chiefest treasures are not valued until they are gone."

"That is true," responded the other, "and—"

"All that I am or hope to be I owe to my mother. Her Spartan spirit knew no departure from the straight lines of righteousness."

"And as for my religion—well, she taught me the trustful faith of innocent childhood. And, having boxed the compass of religious thinking, I always come back to that simple faith."

So much the writer overheard. Or, rather, what is written is a skeleton of what was said. And your mother.

If some day she passed over to the other side, she cannot come back to you—strange limitation of mother love!

But the sweet incense of her gracious life abides, and still grows the sweet flower of Asphodel—unfolding bud of immortality.

For life is ever lord of death. And life can never lose its own.
