

How Big the Pile of Money

you save by dealing with us is entirely a matter of how much you spend. The larger the purchases the more you save. We have proven many times that those who deal here always have something "to the good" in the way of savings. It is a kind of economy that has no disagreeable features. You don't deprive yourself of anything. Every time you get the best that is on the market. At present we are making extra effort to close out the entire line of Summer Dress Goods, and we are ready to make you concessions as a special inducement for you to buy now. Our fall stock is now on the way. we need the room and are willing to part with our Summer goods at cost prices.

COME AND MAKE YOUR SELECTIONS.

CITY AND COUNTY BRIEFS

President Shipley of the Board of Trade, is out daily with his auto, interviewing farmers and fruit growers in interest of the fair. He was at Summer and Silver Lake Sunday, and brought down fine specimens of farm products and fruit from the Foster and other places.

Father Tomkin will hold services at 10 a. m. Sunday.

Thieves are reported lost at Silver Lake. We have had no report of such doing here, and trust we shall be free of such gentry.

A bet on the weight of a horse Friday between W. Z. Moss and Jess Craven cost Mr. Moss $100. He did not guess within 125 pounds of the weight.

You would not think it, but Creed McKendree has put up 1000 tons of hay on the Obasnean the past month. We didn't think Creed would work so hard and so furious.

It is said that the following receipt will preserve eggs, which in view of the fact that eggs last winter were 75c per dozen and f.w. in the market is worthy of trial:

To each pint of water add two pints of fresh slaked lime and one pint of common salt; mix well. Fill your barrel half full with this fluid put your eggs down in at any time after June and they will keep two years if desired.

Our real estate men are gathering fine specimens of grain, timothy and the like, and no better can be found anywhere.

Among the strangers one can easily tell the city man as he cuts across the street, while the man or woman from the smaller towns follows the sidewalks from corner to corner.

Smiles and Squalls

Mark Train gave his stenographer some property. She got married and went to Europe. Mark sued for return of the property and lady came over to defend same, whereupon Mark withdrew suit. If the press pictures show the lady as she is, we don't wonder that Mark began the crafty act!

Now Chicago is in the throes of a craft exposure and prosecution.

Rockefeller is 71 years old and he evidently begins to think of climbing the Golden Stairs, as a professional distributor of his ill-gotten wealth among deserving poor. "When the devil is sick, a monk he'd be, when the devil was well, not a monk was he."

Owing to the constant appropriation of men's wearing apparel by the fair ones it has been found necessary for chief of police in cities to issue certificates stating that after due presentation of evidence the bearer is really a woman and is entitled the respect due her sex. "The world suddenly do move," but which way?

A Walla Walla newspaper man was held up the other day and actually robbed of 55 cents. It is passing strange how anyone in that business could have acquired so much wealth, and at the same time be so simple minded as to carry it all on his person. With all this evidence of prosperity of one of the "perish," it is likely that Walla Walla now will see many new newspapers in the field.

A Frenchman has crossed the Dover Straits in a moustache. And now England is seriously talking of putting a steel netting over their "tight little island" to keep the Dutch and French from coming in force with their dreaded flying machines.

Sells

Steel ranges and cook stoves. We carry the only steel range manufactured in Oregon. By importing the steel used for these stoves from foreign countries as ballast in ships, we save all the high railroad freight from the east. By this we can save you from 20 per cent to 30 per cent on each stove you buy of us. Remember these ranges are fully guaranteed for 10 years.

Just received a large shipment of Meekin Iron Stone-China Dishes. We have them in plain and decorated sets. These dishes are guaranteed not to crack or turn yellow. No matter how long you use them. Call and examine them. "Dollars saved are dollars earned." we save you both.

TREES AS BEAUTIFIERS

Results Obtained in Holland Through Systematic Culture.

EXAMPLES FOR AMERICANS.

Small Cost Per Capita For Care of Trees in Utrecht and The Hague. Valuable From Hygienic Point of View—Their Worst Enemy.

Now that there is beginning a general movement in the United States to bring about systematic cultivation of trees, not only by reforestation on a grand scale, but by the growth of shade trees in towns and cities for the ornamentation of streets, the experience of Holland in providing forest effects for its citizens should be of interest to Americans. There is perhaps no other well populated country in the world which has so many well wooded towns as has Holland. Most of the streets and grachten, or canals, have avenues of trees. Utrecht has two rows of trees on either side of its quaint canals. Its canal banks are constructed as if in two stories. The lower story, almost flush with the water level, is lined with warehouses and vaults, while the upper story has dwellings and shops. Both levels are planted with trees, the tops of the lower ones just reaching the street level.

So many avenues of trees make a Dutch town exceedingly pleasant, especially on a hot day. The foliage tempers the glare of the sun, and the vistas of green are refreshing to the eye. But these abundant growths in thickly populated towns are highly useful as well as ornamental. It is recognized that from a health point of view they are valuable to the city.

Not only do shade walks tempt people to enjoy the open air, but the tree roots in the soil have a purifying effect, which was by no means to be despised in the past, when the drainage of Dutch towns left much to be desired. Further, the foliage produces ozone and purifies the air. It also tends to keep the air moist and to temper the wind, thus causing less dust to be blown about. In the autumn the fallen leaves give the same kind of service that is given by tea leaves scattered on a floor when the room is to be swept—they lay the dust. More important still, trees wage war upon noxious bacteria, for investigations by scientists show that these harmful growths are comparatively rare where trees are plentiful. Besides all this, the aesthetic value of beautiful trees certainly is not small.

In Holland all these useful services are gratefully recognized and the trees are carefully tended by the municipalities. The cost of this care per capita in the different towns varies somewhat. Last year, for example, Utrecht devoted 21 cents (Dutch) to its trees for each inhabitant and The Hague 23 cents for each of its 259,000 citizens. It takes 2 1/2 Dutch cents to equal an American cent. About ten years ago the annual cost of caring for the trees of The Hague was 10 cents (Dutch) per capita, but since that time many new trees and shrubs have been planted throughout the city, and new parks have been laid out.

It has been found that not every kind of tree will thrive in the streets of a town, for trees have many enemies both above and below ground. Gas escaping from pipes underground is the worst enemy of trees, because quite small quantities of it are deadly. For this reason special precautions are taken against the leakage of gas in Dutch towns. How electricity escaping underground acts upon trees as yet has not been sufficiently studied to be understood. Trees will not grow in very narrow streets where the houses are high. Neither will they thrive if the pavement does not let in moisture and air in sufficient quantities.

The best trees for street planting in Holland are elms and lindens, but the elm is the harder of the two and will grow where a linden will not. Trees of these kinds reach a great age, like the old elms along the quiet grachten of Edam, one of the "dead" cities of the Zuyder Zee, which saw the fleets of Van Tromp and De Ruyter in the harbor of Edam—the harbor which appears so tiny to modern eyes that one with difficulty imagines "the terror of the North sea" anchoring there. Then there are the magnificent lindens of the Mallebaan in Utrecht, which appealed to the French monarch, King Louis XIV. Those lindens he commanded his soldiers to spare on peril of their lives. And there are the lindens of the Voorhout at The Hague. Who can ever forget them after having breathed their perfume on an evening in late June or early July or seen them in their array of gold and orange in September or October?—W. J. L. Klehl in Chicago News.

Instructive Object Lesson.
The plan of Oak Park, a Chicago suburb, to have pictures published of unclean back yards recalls the flower show, with its instructive object lesson of the well kept yard and the yard that was used as a dump. The combination would be even more effective than a single series all of one kind. It would increase the feelings of pride and shame, give helpful hints as well as censure. That a good example does much to prevent slovenliness is shown in all parts of Chicago. It is seldom that one well kept yard in complete isolation is found. The influence generally extends to groups of lots and runs the tin cans and other refuse in the immediate neighborhood.

The old Stockman and Rancher has purchased the Furniture Store of H. L. Chandler. He is putting in a big stack of goods and is marking down every thing so that you can live by buying furniture of him. Call and load at his goyds. Mr. Barnham Harris, the experienced undertaker, will be there to wait on you any time.

O. V. L. CONTRACT HOLDERS TAKE NOTICE

After September 9th., we will be prepared to sell, buy, exchange or report on your tracts secured from the Oregon Valley Land Co.

In reporting on these tracts we personally examine and furnish a sworn report on topography, soil, water, improvements, growth on land, estimated value, roads, general location,—in fact we furnish such information as will enable you to sell, buy or exchange your lands intelligently without having to go to the expense of looking them over personally.

Anticipating that out of the large number of purchasers of these lands, many will want reports on their tracts, we are making a very low rate for examination and report, our charges being less than you could possibly make personal examination for, even though you knew just where your tracts were located. Examinations and reports will be made in the order in which they are received so it is important that you make your application as soon as possible, in order to get an early report.

All reports will be acknowledged and sworn to before a Notary. Charges and terms given on application.
