KING EDWARD AND THE WRIGHT BROTHERS.

Few Americans have ever attracted the attention of the monarchs of Europe as have the Wright brothers, inventors of the aeroplane. Both King Edward of England and King Alfonso of Spain journeyed to France to witness the tests of the aeroplane and listened with eagerness to the explanation of its mechanism by the inventors. King Edward pronounced it the most remarkable mechanical invention in the world and invited the Wright brothers to visit England and give demonstrations before the army and navy engineers.

Elephants and Forests.
Elephants do a great deal of harm to the forests in British India, especially in the Teesta division. A conservator suggests that possibly the elephants are not worth the protection they receive from the government in view of these depredations. Most of the transplants in particular are destroyed by them.
