Industrial Training the Urgent Need of Our Country.

By FRANK A. VANDERLIP, New York Banker.

THE man who thinks of the present situation of industry in its relation to the training of the next generation of skilled industrial workers cannot help being tremendously impressed with the DIFFICULTIES WHICH THE YOUTH IS FACING and the difficulties which the manufacturer also will in time be forced to face.

WE ARE AS YET HALF AWAKE TO THE IMPERATIVE NEED OF PRIMARY INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION. I BELIEVE, THOUGH, THAT WE ARE AT THE EDGE OF A GREAT DEVELOPMENT IN THIS RESPECT.

It is, however, impossible for any one to study the industrial condition of today without coming to see the utter inadequacy of our present educational system in providing PRACTICAL EDUCATION FOR INDUSTRIAL WORKERS.

WHEN THE ABRUPT TRANSITION FROM SCHOOL TO REGULAR DAILY VOCATION COMES, THE CHASM IS SO WIDE THAT THE HABITS OF DAILY SYSTEMATIC STUDY DO NOT BRIDGE IT.

Indeed, the school system offers to the youth who has gone out into industrial life no opportunity for continuing his education. NO OPPORTUNITY TO GRASP THE INTELLECTUAL SIDE OF HIS VOCATION, no chance to cultivate that industrial intelligence which is the result of co-ordination of mental training and manual training and which alone can produce a high type of industrial workers. Highly developed manual skill has had a small place in the industrial development of America, and in the intense rush of that development in the last decade we have almost wholly LOST SIGHT OF THE NECESSITY FOR TRAINING A NEW GENERATION OF SKILLED MECHANICS.

One of these days, and I fear the time may now be unpleasantly near at hand, THE WHOLE NATION WILL WAKE UP to this truth, that in the haste of our marvelously successful industrial development we have lost sight of the fact that in the new industrial order which we have evolved we have left NO PLACE FOR A BROAD AND ADEQUATE TRAINING FOR OUR INDUSTRIAL WORKERS. Unless we provide that training we will suddenly find our whole industrial structure standing on an INSECURE FOUNDATION. The system of machine production, recognized as the American system of industry, is essentially of such a character that it CANNOT OFFER AN OPPORTUNITY FOR ADEQUATE TRAINING. That training, then, must be found outside of the industry itself.

The next step is, therefore, clearly inevitable—it must be in the direction of building up a GREAT SYSTEM OF TRADE SCHOOLS.

IN THE END ONE OF THE GREAT CORNERSTONES OF TRADE SUPREMACY MUST BE A BODY OF INDUSTRIAL WORKERS INTELLIGENTLY TRAINED TO ACCOMPLISH WITH THE GREATEST EFFICIENCY THE DESIRED RESULTS. THIS IS THE REASON I BELIEVE WE OUGHT TO MAKE PRACTICAL INDUSTRIAL TRAINING A PART OF OUR PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM AND ALSO ESTABLISH SEPARATE SCHOOLS FOR THIS WORK.

ENGLISH NOBLEMEN MENTIONED FOR SERVIAN THRONE.

When it was announced that King Peter of Servia might abdicate both the Duke of Teck and Prince Arthur of Connaught were mentioned as possible successors to the crown. The Duke of Teck is popular in Servia in view of his efforts to maintain peace between that country and Austria-Hungary. He is military attaché at the British embassy in Vienna and aided in the negotiations that brought about a recognition of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina. He is forty-one years old and is a brother of the Princess of Wales.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

Unlucky... The season is open with usual eclat... Smiling Harry... Lanky Jim... However, his narrow lankships took a caucous with himself, and Handsome Ike whiffed the ozone, the understudy for the Singer building occupying the box for the visitors putting like to sleep with three of his fadeaway knockout drops in the meantime Smiling Harry and Lonesome Jim performed a twin piper and were safely occupying second and third refuge when the smoke cleared away. Hank the Bite put a fly in Lanky Jim's ointment by aeroplaning to the midway plaisance, Smiling Harry building on to the lowly that had no stage on the post out.—Puck.

Its Reason. "I see the empire styles in dress will be the rule for the spring." "That's the force of habit!" "Habit?" "Yes. If you notice, women are at ways getting back to the empire style. It matches so well with their love of ruling."—Baltimore American.

Progress. "How is your very getting on at school?" "First rate," answered Farmer Corn-tassel. "He's going to be a great help on the farm. He knows the business names for embalgams and' besides already an' all he has to do now is to learn to raise 'em."—Washington Star.

In 1920. "Jesko died while under the influence of liquor." "Too bad. He was an aeronaut of considerable ability." "True. But last night he mistook a chimney for a hitching post, and when the furnace started up this morning he was suffocated."—Puck.

Joy of Being Rich.

"Oh, mamma! Don't you wish you was rich an' could afford to hire a servant to break your dishes?"

Cure Worse Than the Disease. "According to this magazine," said Mrs. Biffingham, "sliced onions scattered about a room will absorb the odor of fresh paint." "I guess that's right," rejoined Biffingham. "Likewise also a broken neck will relieve a man of catarrh."—Detroit Tribune.

Appropriate. Boothly—Ah, me boy, well met! And what have you been playing of late? Lushington—I've been out with a tank drama. Boothly—Melodrama, eh? What part did you play? Lushington—The tank.—Cleveland Leader.

Skiddoo! "Ah, lady," whined the tall tramp, "could you give me an egg?" "What would you do if I gave you an egg?" asked the suspicious housewife. "Beat it, mum; beat it!"—Boston Herald.

Grievous Offense. "No, sir," said Pleading Pete, "I would not stop another minute to talk to dem folks. They passed me out a short an' ugly word." "What was it?" "Work."—Washington Star.

Naturally. "I was very romantic about Mr. and Mrs. Smith. He proposed to her in an airplane," says the writer. "Yes," replied the hostess. "And I understand he has been up in the air ever since."—Chicago Post.

One Point Settled. "They say the new Mrs. Bangs is a very good plain cook." "I don't know about the excellence of the cookery, but she's plain all right."—Houston Post.

Her Constitutional Right. Gladys—So you've sent Herbert about his business, have you? Maybelle—Yes. But I have since used the or-recall on him.—Chicago Tribune.

Her Idea. Ida—What's your idea of a properly furnished house? Alice—A dozen packs of cards and a beat of bridge tables.—New York Life.
