There is one large room in attic. Hardware is all of plain real dark bronze. Stairs are of oak. Doors—North Carolina pine. Size 28 by 33 feet, including piazza. STANLEY A. DENNIS, Architect.

Repose Is More Needed Than Energy.

By Dr. JAMES J. PUTNAM of the Harvard University Medical School

In this country, where hurry and worry go together, I feel that REPOSE IS MORE NEEDED.

WHAT WE SHOULD LEARN IS HOW TO RELAX.

The nervous energy that never abates except in sleep, and even then not entirely, is abnormal. The people in whom this habit of living is most pronounced seem to live more fully than their more phlegmatic fellows, but in reality they CANNOT GET AS MUCH OUT OF LIFE. For, even if they live equally long, they acquire no perspective.

WE ARE TRYING TO LEARN THE BODILY LANGUAGE OF THE EMOTIONS. THE MIND IS AFFECTED BY THE EMOTIONS. THOUGH THE MIND IS MORE IMPORTANT TO US THAN THE BODY, IT IS ONLY BY KEEPING OUR WHOLE PHYSICAL ORGANISM RIGHTLY ATTUNED THAT WE CAN GET THE MOST OUT OF LIFE.

Unless Railroad Accidents Diminish Government Must Intervene.

By W. L. PARK, General Superintendent of the Union Pacific Railroad.

RAILROAD men agree that the long list of appalling accidents, accompanied with fatalities and personal injuries to passengers and employees, many of which were avoidable, is a blot on their conscience WHICH MUST BE WIPED OUT before they can return to the full confidence of the greatest of earthly judges, public sentiment.

It is a fact that not a few railroad accidents are whitewashed in the investigation to the extent that the officials even deceive themselves. Unless railroad men are willing to let the politicians take from their hands the reins and govern the railroads with inexperience and theory they must ANALYZE THE PRESENT CONDITIONS and shape the future policy in this respect.

UNLESS ACCIDENTS ARE PREVENTED TO A GREATER DEGREE THAN NOW OBTAINS THE STRONG ARM OF THE GOVERNMENT MUST INTERVENE, BE THE CONSEQUENCES WHAT THEY MAY.

NEW SHORT STORIES

Speaker Shifted His Quid.

Dr. Hildrich in his "Memoirs of the Early Settlers of Ohio" devotes a chapter to Abraham Whipple of Rhode Island. He was born in 1733 and was one of the first to take a hand in the Revolutionary war. In 1786 he was elected a representative to the legislature from the town of Cranston.

The advocates of the paper money system were then in power and had chosen Otthello Gorton, a clumsy old man, for speaker.

Gorton was in the habit of keeping a large quid of tobacco in one side of his mouth, which pressed out one of his cheeks. Most of the debates were on the opposite side of the hall from that on which Commodore Whipple sat, and the speaker's face was commonly torped that way.

GORTON SAID, "I HEAR YOU."

Once in the course of the debate Whipple had suggested a speech which he waited for an opportunity to deliver. At last, out of politeness, he rose and called, "Mr. Speaker." The speaker, whose face was turned the other way, did not hear him. He raised his voice to his utmost, "Mr. Speaker!"

Gorton started and turning to the commodore, said, "I hear you." Thereupon Whipple began:

"I wish, Mr. Speaker, you would shift your quid of tobacco from your starboard to your larboard jaw that it might give your head a cant this way, so that you could sometimes hear something from this side of the house." Then he went on with his speech.

Strong on Caution.

Lieutenant Frank Lahm, the noted aeronaut, was discussing the paper on military aeronautics that he had just read before the Pennsylvania National Guard association at Harrisburg.

"This science," said Lieutenant Lahm, "is only just beginning to receive from the army the attention it deserves. All wars ere long will be fought in the air, but the mass of our fighters still remain in the matter of aeronautics as ignorant as well as the young grocer from the country."

"A young country chap once got a job in a city grocery. He was very cautious in his new berth. They had told him at home that the city people would try to josh him because he was green. He kept a sharp lookout accordingly for joshers.

"A sales girl would entered the grocery one morning.

"I want some bird seed, please," she said.

"The girl, which sneezed and answered respectfully:

"No, you don't, Billy. Ye can't josh me. Bird's grows from corn, not seeds!"—W. Wellington Starr.

Royal, but Couldn't Ride.

When the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia visited this country with his imposing suite one of the parties to which the Russians went was out west for a buffalo hunt. The hunt was held in South Dakota, and Colonel Hatch of the army was assigned to take the party in charge and do the honors.

Russians, except the Cossacks, are none too good when it comes to horsemanship, and this information was conveyed to Colonel Hatch, with the request that some mild and gentle steeds be procured for the visitors for the hunt. Hatch did the best he could with the army mounts, and the cavalcade started from Fort Robinson.

The leaders rode slowly. It was a long and imposing procession. Just as Hatch was congratulating himself that everything was going nicely his orderly rode up from the rear, saluted and said, "Beg pardon, colonel, but one of these horses has fell off Saturday Evening Post.

Georgyan Squelches a Pantheist.

In the town where the Rev. Dr. Emmons was pastor lived a physician inclined with the grossest form of pantheism, who declared that if he ever met Dr. Emmons he would easily floor him in argument. One day they met at the home of a patient. The physician abruptly asked Dr. Emmons:

"How old are you, sir?"

The doctor, astonished at his rudeness, quietly replied: "Sixty-two. May I ask, sir, how long you have lived?"

"Since the creation," was the pantheist's reply.

"Ah, I suppose, then, you were in the garden of Eden with Adam and Eve?"

"I was there, sir."

"Well," said the wily divine, "we all know there was a third person present."—Nashville Banner.

SUMMONS.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Lake.

JOSEPH F. AMBROSE, Plaintiff, vs.

ROSIE AMBROSE, defendant.

To Rosie Ambrose the above named defendant:

In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit, on or before the 28th day of October, 1909, that being the date of the last publication of summons and the last day with which the defendant is required to answer as fixed by the order of publication of this summons, and if you fail to appear to answer the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in the complaint.

The relief demanded in the complaint is for a decree dissolving the marriage contract and bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant and for the custody of the minor children, Martin F. Ambrose and Thomas J. Ambrose.

This summons is published in the Lake County Examiner, a weekly newspaper, printed and published at Lakeview, Oregon, by order of Hon. George Noland, judge of said Court, and dated the 14th day of September, 1909.

The first publication to be made on Thursday, the 9th day of September, 1909, and the last publication to be made on the 28th day of October, 1909. W. J. MOORE, Attorney for Plaintiff.
