Home Course In Modern Agriculture

VIII.—The Business Side of Farming
By C. V. GREGORY, Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

FARMING on high priced land must be conducted on business principles if the greatest profits are to be realized. The farmer's work is by no means done when he has raised a large crop of corn or successfully fattened a carload of steers.

of what it costs to produce each particular crop. In figuring the cost of labor enough should be added to pay for the use of the machinery. The cost of seed will include cleaning, testing and other preparation.

This does not necessarily mean a complicated system that will require half your time to keep in shape. By a little care the method of keeping accounts can be so systematized as to amount to only a few moments a week.

Following the expense account should come a profit and loss page.

The first and most important book is the check book. The "check book habit" will often save a great deal of money and trouble. If you lose your check book or have it stolen, you still have your money left.

For general accounts any good sized blank book will answer. There are a number of specially made farmers' account books, but a blank book which you can rule to suit yourself will be just as good or better.

Next to this should come the cash account. A convenient and simple way of arranging this is as follows:

Table with columns: FIELD CROP ACCOUNTS - PROFIT AND LOSS, Field No., Value, Yields, Expenses, Profit, Loss.

A glance at this page will show which crops are the most profitable ones. In case a certain crop does not show the profit that it should another crop should be substituted for it or different methods of culture adopted.

Table with columns: MONEY RECEIVED, For What, Amount, MONEY PAID OUT, For What, Amount.

In order to know what crops are bringing in a profit and what ones, if any, are unprofitable it is necessary to keep some sort of an account of them. This account must be simple and easily kept.

Table with columns: HOG ACCOUNT - EXPENSES, Stock Bought, Feed, Corn, Oats, Milk, Tankage, Other Feeds, Total.

Table with columns: FIELD CROP ACCOUNTS - EXPENSES, Field No., Value, Yields, Expenses, Profit, Loss.

Once a year these two pages can be balanced, and you can see just where you stand in the hog business. In addition to the expense and income pages for the different classes of stock there should be pages for keeping track of "changing works" at thrashing time, for breeding records, for butter and cream, for poultry and for any other special line in which you are interested.

Cedarville Record, 10: It wont' do to plant too many chickens next spring, as the prices may be only $4 or $5 per dozen. More money at raising elephants at six bits per pound. Now, dont' all start elephant ranches. Chickens and eggs are only good for raising mortgages, etc, while the elephant makes a dandy drawing card for a street parade.

LAND ON CROP PAYMENT PLAN

Eight thousand acres, all under ditch, with water rights. The very cream of the Golden Goose Lake Valley. All level - select - many years ago - for lease or sale on a crop plan, to farmers who can give proper references. These lands are the choicest in the valley.
