IMPROVED METHOD OF CLEARING AND BREAKING SAGE - BRUSH LAND

The Klamath Herald of the 11th inst says this week the death knell of the sage brush of Klamath County, or at least that part of it that flourishes under the irrigating ditches of the Klamath project, was sounded, and the time is not far distant when not an acre of irrigated land will be afflicted with this pest. W. W. Masten has just closed a contract for the purchase of a 16-foot combined Host reaper and one 40-horse power catalpillar engine, and it is with this outfit that he proposes to change the face of Klamath country during the next few years. When he has demonstrated that his method of handling the soil is the correct one, he will doubtless have a number of followers, with the result that the area cultivated will be rapidly increased until all of the irrigated, and a great deal of the unirrigated, farms of the country will be raising crops. The outfit purchased by Mr. Masten is one of the most up-to-date in the West. It is capable of cutting the sage brush, plowing the ground, sowing the seed and harvesting the crop. The engine has a speed of five miles per hour on the road and with its attachments is capable of plowing a strip fourteen feet wide.

In discussing his plans, Mr. Masten said: "The time is at hand when Klamath County must adopt the modern methods of handling the soil. The modern way means the money saving way, and I believe that the equipment which I have ordered is the best that can be found. Of course, the time will come when outfits of this kind will not be used here. That will be when this section is divided into small farms, but that is some time off. In the meantime steps must be taken to meet the present conditions. It is my intention in addition to using the outfit in the working of my own farms, to take contracts for clearing and plowing of uncleared land. I will, if desired, sow the seed and harvest the crop, and I think I can do so cheaper and quicker than the owner of the land can do it with the present methods. One of the great drawbacks to the more rapid development of the section that has passed into the hands of new owners has been the difficulties set with in the preparation of the soil for the planting of the crops, where the farm purchased has not been cultivated. The homeseeker is obliged to gather his equipment of axes, cutters, plows and other farm machinery. He has to build his barn and his home, and very often the initial expense is greater than he is able to pay. Under the proposed scheme advanced by Mr. Masten he will be relieved of the greater part of the burden, the first year's return from his crop to add to his small means to aid in the completion of his plans. The machinery purchased by Mr. Masten represents an investment of something over $6000. It again demonstrates that he is a man of unusual foresight and remarkable enterprise. While he will doubtless realize a fair profit on his investment, it never-the-less shows that he is possessed of ideas other than those confined to his own selfish aggrandizement, and that he is willing to risk his money in order that he may aid in the development of the great scheme of de-velopment that will eventually make Klamath County one of the great agricultural sections of the Pacific Coast. Klamath County needs a few more such men as he, and with their coming will be solved the greatest of problems that has confronted the man of small means for the past years—that of the cultivation of his land at a cost within his means and only in proportion to the net amount realized after the payment of taxes, interest and operation expenses.

Interesting Lecture

Mrs. M. O. Everett, who has been a missionary among the mountaineers of Kentucky, gave a very interesting lecture last Friday evening on her experience among that strange people. She talked of their manner of courtship, their superstitions, and bloody feuds. She told of their religious beliefs and of their long winded backwoods local preachers who would talk to the tired congregations all day. It surely is an honor and a credit to any one to devote their time and energies in the endeavor to uplift such a people to a better life.

Cold is Good for You

A Massachusetts paper gives some advice to "cold feelers" as follows: "Cultivate the outdoor habit at this time of the year. Cold weather will not hurt any one. In fact it is decidedly stimulating. We should realize that not every one is fortunate enough to get out into the invigorating ozone of winter and we should make the most of our good fortunes. The air is now free from dust and germs that were blowing about before the snow came. Get out of the notion that you can't stand the cold and snow and you soon will realize what you have been missing and what all miss who have no opportunity to benefit by the invigorating effect of a Massachusetts winter."

Sure Jag Cure

A New York specialist, Dr. Robert Lambert, of Cornell University says he can cure drunkards, and that within three days the craving for cocaine, morphine or alcohol can be obliterated. The ingredients of the specific are fifteen per cent tincture of belladonna, two parts; antioxylin (prickly ash) one part; fluid extract of hyoscyamus, one part.
For more than two months Dr. Lambert has experimented with the new remedy in Bellevue Hospital and he says that he has not had a single case of failure.

The Klamath Falls Evening Herald, is now supplied with the United Press reports, which gives the city the news on the day it occurs. The Examiner congratulates its neighbor on its enterprise.

FOR SALE
Four Modern Dwellings

We have been favored with the sale of four of the most modern, up-to-date and delightful homes in Lakeview, full particulars, price, detail and terms below. Any of the following will make good interest paying investments on a rental basis (its a known fact, houses to rent are like hen's teeth.)

1st.--The cosy, modern, well built, bungalow of 5 rooms, not counting complete bath room, of Mr. Chas. Fulkner, which is situated about three minutes' walk from center of business district; still strictly in the residential district; on a 54 foot frontage, which extends through the block for 220 feet, making two lots, one facing with the house on Main St., the other on West St. This house is just one year old. Will not want repairs for years. Also best of brick cellar, and ample wood-house. $3000.00. Terms.

2nd.--That most home-like of homes, of Mr. Owen F. McKendree, on Water St., just a few hundred feet south from the Court House. Good new barn for 6 horses and hay storage. 66 1-2 ft front, 225 ft deep, giving chicken range that can't be beat. 5 rooms downstairs, complete bath, hot and cold water, and room for two big rooms upstairs. Fine orchard and one of the shadiest yards in town. $3000.00. You can't beat it.

3rd.--The large, airy, roomy seven-room residence of Mrs. Cora E. Reid, is for sale at $4000.00. Partially furnished, bath with modern equipment. Lot 83x230 giving frontage on two fine residence streets—a short block and a half from Court House, still it is located in the best of residence district.

4th-- The five-room modern bungalow, up-to-date in design, about a year and a half old. 50x150 foot lot. The entire property in best of repair. Large wood-shed and wash-house. Just a nice distance from town. This property belongs to Mr. Ed. S. Rice and $2000. is an exceptionally low price, if taken at once.

The above residence properties are a fair example of the class of town dwellings we are agents for in Lakeview. We have a large list of town lots, business and residence, farm property, ranches for stock, farming and fruit; also ten-acre irrigated tracts with water rights.
