

Texas Land!

Sold on Crop Payment Plan

Grows Rice, Sugar, Oranges, &c.

OUR PROPOSITION:

We will sell you an improved farm in the Gull District of Texas, in Wharton County, and let you pay by giving us two-fifths of your crop each year until we have received the purchase price.

This Company owns 25,000 acres of land in the Gull District of Texas, in Wharton County, and has a continuous flow of water from the Colorado River by a pumping station, which is connected to the land by a canal of 87 miles.

This land is all a black loam, and is well adapted to the growing of sugar cane, alfalfa, cotton, corn, or any other crop. Any of these crops can be grown with irrigation and equipped as it is with canals for irrigation and with a continuous supply of water. It is particularly suited to the culture of sugar cane in this country.

Our lands will be sold equipped for irrigation with a guarantee of sufficient water to raise RICE OR ANY OTHER PRODUCTS of this section, which include CANE, APPLES, GRAPES, PEAS, ORANGES and GRAPE FRUIT.

The price of these lands thus equipped ranges from $35.00 to $50.00 per acre, according to location, improvements and quantity of land already in crop.

We require a Cash Payment of $100.00 per acre in six months, so that you will have a full year's experience and an interest in working the land. You do not sign a note or mortgage for the balance, but merely agree to deliver us Two-Fifths of Your Crop Each Year as payment, and the only payment you are required to make.

BY THIS PLAN

If you have a hard year we share your loss, and you will have no unpaid notes stare you in the face. If you have a good year, you know you will have your farm in soon paid for.

You can choose your own crop, except that we require at least 75 per cent of such crop to be Rice, as we know it is the most profitable.

In transcribing the records we have found numerous mortgages recorded in the Deed record and indexed; and many deeds are recorded in the Mortgage record and other books. Hundreds of mortgages and deeds are not indexed at all, and most difficult to trace up from the records.

We have notations of all these Errors.

Others cannot find them. We have put hundreds of dollars hunting up these errors, and we can fully guarantee our work.

HUMAN LIFE - $1.00 PER YEAR,

FOR THE CHILDREN

The Vowels.

This is a game that exercises the mind. Some player begins by asking a question of the person next to him, which must be answered without using the vowel which the questioner prohibits.

Counters in the form of beans or chips or bits of paper should be evenly distributed before the game begins, and if the forbidden vowel is used in answer the culprit must pay to the questioner three counters.

The next in line then asks a question, and so around the circle. There may be a box of candies for a prize, and the one who has the most counters at the end of the game is the winner.

The questioning may be like this:

- Q. Have you been out of town this season? Answer without o.
- A. Yes, we were at the seaside.
- Q. Do you love music? Answer without l.
- A. Yes, very much.
- Q. Do you play tennis? Answer without e.
- A. I do play it.
- Q. Do you like punch? Answer without u.
- A. The drink I do not like; the paper I do.
- Q. Who told you about the wasp's nest? Answer without o.
- A. Then I should tell a story; you told me. (And she pays a forfeit.)

Character Game.

All the players sit around in a circle. The player who first thinks of an interesting character in one of Grimm's fairy tales, or in "Alice in Wonderland" or any other book that is quite familiar to all the players, sits on the floor within the circle and begins to describe the character. The other children listen carefully, and the first one who thinks he has guessed the character sits on the floor beside the other and continues to describe the character. If he has guessed rightly and is correct in his description, the first player allows him to go on describing, but if he is mistaken the first player shoots him out of the game. As soon as a child thinks he has guessed the character he sits on the floor and tells what he knows of the character, and so it goes on till all the children are sitting on the floor except those who have guessed wrong, and they are all driven out of the game.

The Old Man of the Sky.

The Iroquois point out to their children a cluster of stars which they call the "old man." White people do not always know why it is. They tell this story of his reaching the sky, or the "great blue wigwam."

An old chief was tired of life and of his people. He took his bundle and walking stick and went to the highest bluff. There he sang his death chant. His people followed, but waited at the foot of the bluff. While they were watching they saw him slowly rise into the air, his voice sounding fainter and fainter. The spirit of the four winds raised him to the "great star lodge." He was given a place among the stars.

His stooping form, his staff and bundle are now pointed out to Indian children as they watch the stars at night. —Indian Craftsman.

The Game of Mosaic.

A writing game for any number. Each writes a word on a slip of paper, and after the slips are mixed one of the players draws and reads them in the way they come, and each person must write them down in the same order. Then each one must write a little story or paragraph, using these words in that order.

The game may be made more difficult by requiring the story to be within a specified length or written within a certain time, or it may be made easier by allowing the players to introduce the words in any order they please.

Game of Magic Mirror.

This is a "catch" game. Two people must understand how it is played. One is to leave the room. While she is gone the other has one who does not know how to play look into the mirror. The absent one is recalled and by looking into the mirror can tell who looked into it while she was out. Here is the catch: The one who is aiding her takes, as nearly as possible, particularly with the hands, the position of the one who looked in. Of course it is best to take one who has not a position like others in the room. Comparatively few ever catch on to this game.

The Professor's Money.

Professor Cipher says he has 108 coins in his pocket and that they consist entirely of dimes and cents. What is the total amount? You might think this is impossible to solve, but it isn't. The answer is $4.32, and no other sum will fulfill the conditions. There are thirty-six dimes and seventy-two cents. Prove this and satisfy yourself.

Riddle and Answer.

How can you make a Maltese cross with less than twelve uncut and unbroken matches? Answer—By striking only one match and dropping it on his back. If the first fails, try another.

When Rosy Sings.

Our little Rosy's voice is queer. But mother says she'd rather hear Our Rosy sing most any day. Than lots of folks that get large pay. We're real good friends, all six of us, But if we ever have a fuss Or get a little cross some day, Why, Rosy stops us right away. Before we've hardly said a thing She'll make a bow, and then she'll sing. "Birds in their little nests agree." And she can't really sing, you see! Then we all laugh till we must cry. So mother always says, "Well, I have been to concerts, but my choice Would be our Rosy's useful voice." —Youth's Companion.
