LAKE COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

Incorporated.

A Complete Record

We have made an entire transcript of all Records in Lake County which in any way affect Real Property in the county. We have a complete Record of every Mortgage and transfer ever made in Lake County, and ever Deed given.

Errors Found in Titles

In transcribing the records we have found numerous mortgages recorded in the Deed record and indexed; and many deeds are recorded in the Mortgage record and other books. Hundreds of mortgages and deeds are not indexed at all, and most difficult to trace up from the records.

We have notations of all these Errors.

Others cannot find them. We have put hundreds of dollars hunting up these errors, and we can fully guarantee our work.

A Versatile Garden.
 The dwellers in a seaport town of Massachusetts are justly proud of their gardens. It remained for a visitor from a tiny village "way round the Cape" to say the first slightly disparaging word of these gardens. "Isn't this beautiful?" his hostess asked as she paused under a rose arbor and looked back over the stately ranks of larkspur, monk's hood, hollyhocks and many other favorites.

"It's a handsome garden of its kind," said the visitor dispassionately, "but it ain't quite up to the mark when you consider our gardens."

"Indeed?" and the lady looked at him, too amazed to be angry. "What sort of gardens have you, please?"

"Well," said her Cape visitor calmly, "what we call a good garden is one where you can start out with two big baskets and a hoe, step through the flower garden part, past the vegetables, down to the water; dig your clams fast, pick your sweet corn, lay your posies on top of that and hand the whole lot over at the kitchen door. There's your shore dinner and trimmings all from one garden."—Youth's Companion.

The Wise Woodpecker.
 In California the woodpecker stores acorns away, although he never eats them. He bores several holes, differing slightly in size, at the fall of the year invariably in a pine tree. Then he finds an acorn, which he adjusts to one of the holes prepared for its reception. But he does not eat the acorn, for, as a rule, he is not a vegetarian. His object in storing away the acorns exhibits foresight and a knowledge of results more akin to reason than to instinct. The succeeding winter the acorns remain intact, but, becoming saturated, are predisposed to decay, when they are attacked by maggots, which seem to delight in this special food. It is then that the woodpecker reaps the harvest his wisdom has provided at a time when the ground being covered with snow, he would experience difficulty otherwise in obtaining suitable or palatable food.—Cleveland Leader.

Not Tending to Business.
 A country doctor was recently called upon to visit a patient some way from his office. Driving to where the sick man lived, he tied his horse to a tree in front of the house and started to walk across the ground. It happened that work was in progress on a new well, of which the doctor knew nothing until he found himself sinking into the earth. He fell just far enough to be unable to get out of the hole unassisted and lustily yelled for help.

When he was finally pulled up the hired man remarked to him: "I say, doc, you had no business down there."
 "No; I don't think I had," replied the doctor.
 "Don't you know," continued the hired man, "you ought leave the well alone and take care of the sick?"—Lippincott's.

Inherited Dreams.
 A medical scientist claims that many dreams are really hereditary—that is to say, they come down to us from ancestors. Many persons have a dream which they dream over and over again. This and some others that are frequent, according to the authority referred to, are inherited. The doctor observed, for instance, that a child of six years after an attack of typhoid fever saw in its slumber a figure clad in black, which advanced to the foot of the bed and fixed upon him its shining eyes. It was found that the father of the child had frequently dreamed that dream, although he had never mentioned it to his child. The grandfather dreamed the same dream, although he had told no one about it. Evidently there is more than our philosophy can fathom in "the stuff that dreams are made of."

Pensions From Napoleon.
 Paris has a dozen old soldiers who draw pensions that come to them from the great Emperor Napoleon I. These are not heroes of his epoch, for the last of those died long years ago. But Napoleon by his will devised several millions of francs to his companions in arms, and this capital in default of heirs of the grand army was deposited in the public treasury. Today the revenue this fund produces is paid out in the form of pensions of 200 francs each to old soldiers in French territory, and Paris has twelve of these beneficiaries to whom at the first of the year these little pensions are remitted.—Paris Figaro.

A Wise Woman.
 Mr. Snaggle (snappishly)—Don't be correcting that boy always, Sarah. Let nature take its course, won't you?
 Mrs. Snaggle (drying aside the shingle)—I'll do nothing of the sort, Mr. Snaggle. I don't intend that any woman shall have such a husband as I've got if I can prevent it.

A Paradoxical Reply.
 "Doctor, do you think eyeglasses will alter my appearance?" inquired Mrs. Gunson anxiously.
 "I shall at least expect them to improve your looks," replied the physician.—Lippincott's.

The Boy's Bit.
 "You seem to have got your boys interested in mythology very nicely."
 "Yes; I explained to them that Hercules held a championship."—Washington Herald.

Sure Test.
 She—They held a mirror over her face to see if she was alive. I don't understand that. He—Why, you see, if she was alive she'd open her eyes and look in it.

WOMEN TELLERS.

Why They Supplanted Men in a New York Bank.

An embroidery hoop is not exactly what one would expect to see on the other side of a bank teller's window, but that is precisely what one is likely to see any day of the week if one goes to get a check cashed or to make a deposit at the Maiden Lane Savings Bank, Maiden Lane and Broadway, New York. The hoop has been there for the last five years, and it has never been observed that business suffered in consequence.

There are times when there is no line of depositors at the windows, and during such intervals there is no reason why shining moments should not be improved.

As a matter of fact, the bank employs women tellers. Miss Sadie Clare has been paying order for five years, while Miss Marie McClosky has served as receiving teller for an equal period, and the president, Louis Windmiller, said that he had never had occasion to regret this departure from precedent. The bank was obliged to economize, he explained, and had engaged the women because it could not afford to pay the wages usually demanded by men, but the women had been found to do the work just as well as their predecessors.

"We have had no cause for complaint in five years," Mr. Windmiller said, "and that can hardly be said of the men who were employed previously. The women are always pleasant and always ready to answer questions, and there never has been any occasion to apply to their bondsmen to make up shortages. They have become experts in the identification of signatures, and no discrepancy ever escapes them."
 Mr. Windmiller doesn't believe in votes for women, but says he believes in giving credit where it is due.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

In selecting spoons for kitchen use it is a wise plan to get those with holes in the handle. They may be hung up and thus kept accessible.

Having several pairs of shoes and never wearing the same pair more than one or two days at a time will rest the leather and make it last better.

A stain in a raincoat can be removed by washing it in strong hot suds made of pure white soap to which a little borax and a little ammonia have been added.

The colored bedspreads which were in such favor for summer cottages last season are being utilized both as spreads for the schoolgirl beds and for delicate covers to throw over couches.

When books become badly soiled on the edges, if not gilt edged, close the book tightly and erase the marks with an ink eraser. This will cut off the rough edges and all soil marks and leave the book quite clean.

Janned ware should be washed with a sponge, dampened in warm water and dried immediately with a soft cloth. Obstinate spots can quickly be removed by rubbing with a woolen cloth dipped in sweet oil.

Everyday Logic.

Have you ever invited two people in order to make them acquainted? Have you ever raged inwardly because the whole affair was such a failure?

Neither woman would talk on any subject save herself, and both sat in the midst of long silences, staring at each other, and then just as you had given up hope another woman dropped in casually, a woman who was in great demand everywhere.

All of a sudden you found out the reason why. She took those two human icicles in hand, and the first thing you knew she had them talking to each other and then to her.

Well, that is the secret of the average woman's popularity.

She fits into any surroundings. She is at home with all sorts of people. She makes them feel thoroughly at ease and brings out the best in them. That is why they love to have her around.

It is no fun to sit and listen to a woman who glitters at the expense of every one else.

But the woman who says just enough to make us respond on the subjects we know most about in our best vein is the one we simply adore, and we can't be in her company too much.

A Labor Lift.

The woman who does her own ironing will welcome this latest invention to lighten her labors. As you see, it is an ironing board that may be folded and put in the cupboard when the day's work is over. For small kitchens and apartment kitchenettes this contrivance is especially good. There is a second small board raised slightly higher than the big board for ironing sleeves and shirt bosoms.

THE NEWEST IRONING TABLE.

Care of Gas Stove.

If you use a gas stove never leave it with anything that might boil over. It is quite possible for soup or milk boiling over to put out the gas flame, and the escaping gas will fill the room, and should some one come in with a light an explosion must follow.

A YIELD OF 67 BUSHELS OF WHEAT PER ACRE

at the Nebraska Station at North Platte, Nebraska, is causing everybody that hears of it to TURN AROUND and ask HOW? A 50-bushel yield is not unusual, and there is no reason in the world why you cannot learn HOW. Practically all these bumper crops have been produced with only a few inches of rain during the growing season, so you will never "fear a drought" when you know HOW.

U. S. Government, Department of Commerce and Labor Bulletin, Dec. 11, 1909, says: "Campbell's epoch-making efforts in behalf of dry farming in connection with the introduction of Durum wheat, promises to turn the semi-arid regions, covering millions of square miles, into one of the most prosperous sections in the world."

Mr. Campbell operates a line of Demonstration Farms from Texas to Canada and publishes his methods and results in the Scientific Farmer. Watch 1910!

No matter where you farm—in Virginia, Minnesota, Texas, Washington or Alberta, with irrigation or without, you cannot afford to live without knowing HOW. The vital principles are clearly explained and followed in CAMPBELL'S SCIENTIFIC FARMER (the only publication on tillage). A monthly, $1.00 a year. Clubbed with our paper at the single price of our paper, even on renewals.

You will meet business men at Swenson's Restaurant.
