REPRESENTATIVE MANN of Illinois, one of the busiest men in congress these days, was recently noticed by two of his colleagues making a close examination of the grass in a park near the capitol.

"Now, there is a slight which does me good," remarked one. "I had always supposed that Mann thought of nothing else but legislation morning noon and night. And yet here he is out here in the park studying nature. Let's go over and see what new kind of plant he has discovered."

The two representatives joined Mr. Mann, who, after greeting them shortly, continued to walk in circles, poking his cane in the grass.

He seemed angry and perturbed, and occasionally they could hear him muttering to himself, and once when a curious canine came along and joined the group Mr. Mann turned on him and started him on the run up the street with a yelp.

"Jim," said one of Mann's friends, "I did not know you were interested in botany."

"Neither did I," returned Mr. Mann, still gazing intently on the ground.

"Why," returned the other in surprise, "I thought you were looking for some kind of plant."

"Plant!" roared Mann. "Plant! I'm not looking for a plant in this park. I find enough of them in the house. I dropped a quarter around here some place, and I've been looking for the blooming thing for half an hour. You fellows get busy and help me."

Secretary Dickinson is a good Biblical scholar. He is "PUT HER HERE" a good story teller, too, judging from the yarns with which he regaled the Tennessee society at a banquet in New York recently. Here are two that he got off:

"There was a certain governor of Tennessee whose name I don't have to mention and who seemed to be taking the duties of his office pretty seriously. One day a member of the legislature who knew this governor personally dropped into his office and, after some little conversation, asked him what he thought of being governor.

"Well, do you know," the governor said, "sometimes I don't think I'm fit to be governor of this here imperial state."

"Put her here, gov.," the senator replied instantly. "That makes it unanimous."

"A Tennesseean told his friends before he moved to New York that he intended to show those New Yorkers they didn't know it all. He calculated that there were a few tricks that could be learned from a real live one from Tennessee. A friend met him after he'd been three months there and asked him how it was going.

"Well," said he, "I've about made up my mind that if they'll let me have mine they can keep theirs."

Custodian of the House Press Gallery Charles Mann was a Pullman car conductor before the late Senator Gorman invited him, thirty years ago, to come to Washington and there take a position in the press gallery.

In a reminiscent mood recently Mr. Mann told a story that will be of use to the thousands who travel on sleeping cars and who do not think they receive proper attention. It was the custom whenever the conductors or porters of the Pullmans found a man they suspected of being a spotter to mark him for the benefit of others. This was done by the porter making a nick in the heel of the suspect's shoe. When the traveler reached the next train and put his shoes out the porter would find the nick and report to the conductor that a spy was aboard. Then they would make life miserable for the supposed spotter. But frequently mistakes were made.

One poor salesman had been mistaken for a spotter, and he poured out his woes to Mann, telling him how badly the porters and conductors had treated him. Indeed, the fellow intended to stop traveling. He added: "My business is bad enough. I sell for an undertakers' supply house, and that is solemn, but the way I am treated sets me wild." Mr. Mann looked at the fellow's shoes and found the nick. That settled it. He advised the man to change his shoes and see if luck would not change. He did so, and, meeting Mann afterward, the fellow asked what he meant, as good fortune had smiled upon him ever since he changed his shoes. Then Mann told him.

THE VICTIM WEPT.

HUNTING LODGE FOR WINGFIELD

BUYS FINE PROPERTY NEAR SUSANVILLE

Will Stock the Place With Game and Streams
With Fish

The Bee correspondent of Susanville says: George Wingfield, the millionaire mine owner of Nevada, concluded the purchase of the Clinton DeForest place, on the Juneville-Susanville road, about seven miles from the last named place. It is said to be his intention to build an up-to-date hunting lodge on this property, which is splendidly located for the purpose. Wingfield bought the alk from the estate of the late Governor Sparks, and they will be brought to the new place when it is placed in condition to receive them. It is stated that plans have already been made for buildings and inclosures; orders given for the stocking of a nearby stream with trout, and for a large number of eggs of game fowls to be hatched by incubators. Electric lighting and telephone service will be installed as soon as needed. If Mr. Wingfield makes the most of the opportunities, he will certainly have an ideal Summer abode.

New Electric Plant

If reports are true, an electric plant is to be installed at once at the falls of Deep Creek capable of generating 1000 horsepower. The parties behind the proposition are G. McDonald, J. H. Lewis, G. E. Snyder, Chas. McIntyre and Fred Oliver, and all have been making a close examination of the proposition during the past ten days. On his way out Mr. Snyder explained the proposition to W. L. Clapp, and he is quoted in the Klamath Falls Chronicle as follows:

"According to W. L. Clapp, the Klamath Falls and Lakeview stage man, J. E. Snyder has acquired large interests in the Warner Valley country and expects to expend a large amount of money there in the near future.

"Mr. Snyder was the head of a large number of Spokane men who came here about ten days ago and hired Mr. Clapp's machine for a trip into and through Lakeview country. Mr. Snyder is backed by Washington capitalists who are looking for a power site into which they will put a large amount of money. He secured an option on a power site in the Warner valley section and has returned to Spokane for the necessary capital to take up the option and develop this power.

"It is said that Mr. Snyder and his people expect to put in a power plant in that country which will cost no less than $200,000 when completed.

"It will be established for the purpose of furnishing lights for all the Lake County towns and other places where there is an opening for lights besides power for any and all enterprises where power is needed to operate them.

rate them. This will include pumping plants for irrigation systems and other things which may develop with the coming of railroads and markets for the manufacture of raw material of that part of interior Oregon.

New Telephone Line

The building of the new telephone line from Reno to Lakeview is reported to be progressing rapidly. C. H. McKendree, who has just returned from San Francisco, states that the line is now completed to Horse Lake, a distance of about 100 miles from Reno, and that he was informed that the line would reach Lakeview about September 1st. The line is being built in a most substantial manner, No. 9 copper wire being used. It was thought to reach Alturas by the Fourth, but unexpected delay was caused by rough, rocky stretches that greatly retarded the work. Men of experience are in charge of the work, and the construction train on the N-C-O is used in building the line.

A branch is being built to Susanville, but the main line practically follows the railroad. Inasmuch as 100 miles of the line has been built in a month no delay in reaching Lakeview by September 1 is anticipated.

Surveyors Near Bieber

Big Valley Gazette: The S. P. surveyors are camp at the Carpenter ranch a few miles east of Bieber, and are running their line through the central part of the valley. The survey will run only about a quarter of a mile east of Bieber. C. M. Brown, the head engineer, has given out that a survey will also be made up the west side of the valley, both surveys to connect with the survey made south from Klamath Falls last summer, to a point ten miles north of Bieber.

There are twenty-seven men under engineer Brown, and visited Bieber in a body Sunday.

Here Is Your Opportunity

To the Homeseeker:

At present we can locate forty people on homesteads of level valley land, where good well water can be had at depths varying from 30 to 60 feet, and where there is plenty of timber available for fuel within five miles. The soil here is very fertile, being a sandy ash loam and at present there is a heavy growth of sage on it.

The soil is very similar to the soil found in the northern part of Oregon and the eastern part of Washington, and will without doubt prove to be equally as productive and valuable, when we have the same transportation facilities. The railroad survey passes through some of the claims referred to, and none of them are more than three miles from same. Here is a pretty valley, that has never been cultivated, but has been used for range purposes only, and we assure you that it is equally as good as any land left in central or southeastern Oregon.

Now if you still have your homestead right, why not investigate this proposition, for we are quite sure you would not overlook such an opportunity, if you knew positively that it was here. Don't listen to idle remarks, but come and let us show you.

We also have several relinquishments and excellent bargains in raw, deeded lands, if you are in the market for such.
