IS UP TO VOTERS TO REGISTER NOW

Those Who Wait Until Last Minute May Be Too Late

Have you registered for the fall election? If you are only one of 50 names taken now on the registration books of Lakeview precinct. Although the books have been open nearly a month it is an absolute fact that since the first few days when several citizens who have occasion to be at the court house every day registered nearly, the number of people calling at the clerks' office to place their name on the books for the primaries and election has dwindled down until less than one a day is the average now.

From the county precincts comes word that the situation is still of less interest and practically no names have been placed on the registration books. These books will close about the first of September for the primaries and those not registered before that cannot vote for their choice for the various offices. The books will then be opened for a period of 30 days after the primaries and before the final closing for the general election.

From the small interest which is being taken in registration it is evident that the large majority of the people will wait until the last minute before getting their names on the books. This means that the registration clerks will be so rushed at the last minute that many will not be able to get their names on the books at all and for this reason those who have not registered should attend to the matter at once and avoid this last minute rush.

The Senate has voted to accept the house amendments to the Postal Savings Bank bill one of the Taft measures, and the same is ready for the President's signature. The bill provides for the designation of Postoffice as postal saving depositories in control of a board consisting of the Postmaster General, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Attorney General. Deposits of $1 or over will be received at 2 per cent interest, and not more than $100 in one month, or a total of $500 may be deposited by any one person. Funds may be withdrawn at any time. The savings are to be placed by the department in State and National banks in the communities in which the money is deposited and banks are to pay 2 1/2 per cent interest on such funds. Five per cent of the total deposits are to be held by the United States Treasury. Banks receiving funds from the savings banks are required to give security and 30 per cent of all savings may be withdrawn and invested in United States bonds. Postmasters in fourth class offices are to receive extra compensation for the additional work entailed.

The Sacramento Bee quotes from an interview with W. L. Douglas, former Democratic governor of Massachusetts, upon the subject of "The High Cost of Living" as it affected by the tariff. Douglas quotes various economic authorities to show that prices all over the world have risen from 30 to 60 per cent in the last 14 years, 60 per cent being Bradstreet's estimate for the United States since 1896. The average advance in the world at large he attributes to the fact that the annual production of gold has increased nearly five-fold in 20 years being now over $450,000,000, which enormous increase has depreciated its purchasing power. But prices in the United States having risen more than in other countries is attributed by Douglas to the tariff.

Delegates representing the commercial organizations and historical societies of the cities and towns in the vicinity of Niagara Falls of both sides of the international boundary, are discussing the preliminary arrangements for the big celebration which it is proposed to hold in commemoration of the 100 years of peace enjoyed since 1812. The original intention was to have the celebration take place next year, but consensus of opinion now is that the time is too short to make adequate preparations, and that it would be better to defer the celebration until 1914, or possibly 1915.

The following officers were elected for the coming year at last week's meeting of the Oregon Pioneer association: President, Honorable P. H. D'Arcy, 1857 Salem. Vice president, Colonel Robert A. Miller, Portland. Secretary, George H. Himes, 1835, Portland. Treasurer, Charles E. Ladd, 1857, Portland. Directors, Cyrus Walker, 1838, Albany; N. H. Bird, 1848, Portland, and Joseph Buchtel, 1852, Portland.

FIRE SEASON NOW ON IN FREMONT

Stockmen and Settlers of Much Assistance to Forest Service

The protection of the timber resources is the most important duty that a Ranger has and must receive first consideration at all times. The Forest Service, in striving to preserve a perpetual supply of timber for home industries, is exerting every effort to prevent the destruction of standing timber and forest cover. The Forests are patrolled by districts and fires are extinguished at Government expense. Fire protection must be brought to a higher standard and can only be accomplished by having the full cooperation of those concerned.

The timber resources of a community or country at large are the wealth of its people. It is to their interest to see that the immense damage done by fire each year to the standing timber be reduced. Oregon now sells $20,000,000 worth of lumber a year and of this $14,000,000 is received by employees who put it in local circulation and every citizen, no matter what his business, is bound to share it directly or indirectly. About a billion feet is destroyed by fire in Oregon annually, which, if manufactured, would bring in $10,000,000. On every thousand feet burned the stumpage owner may lose $2.00, but the community loses $8.00 in wages.

Timber means pay checks to support industries, but burned timber pays no wages. Timber pays taxes in your county. If it burns up your property has to pay the difference. Then let us help keep down the fires and you will make more money so will your children.

With the very limited number of men on this Forest and the consequent large area assigned to each, it is absolutely impossible for a Ranger singlehanded and unaided to adequately protect his district. He must to a large extent depend on the cooperation and help of the settlers, the stockmen and other people using or living near the forests. He must depend on them in many cases to let him know when a fire starts and to help him to put it out.

The Forests are maintained, administered protected primarily for the people in and near them. Considering this fact it is thought that every person will more keenly realize his interests and assist in protecting the community's most valuable resource.

The assistance received in past seasons on this Forest by settlers and Forest users in fighting fires has been large, for which you deserve many thanks and I wish to assure you that your efforts have been sincerely appreciated. A far more united effort of cooperation is desired this season and I feel quite sure you will do your part.

Railroad Development

Portland, Ore.—By the end of the present year it is promised that the most remote districts of Oregon will be served with railroad transportation. Central Oregon will have two main lines, the Oregon Trunk and the Deschutes railroad and the building of these roads is of course the prime achievement of the year in transportation. In addition, the Harriman line of Tillamook will be completed and much progress will have been made by the end of the year on the Natron-Klamath road. This year the cost of contracts for new railway lines and betterments in this state will aggregate about $30,000,000. Many other important new projects will undoubtedly be mapped out and started before 1911.

Ship-Brake Unsuccessful

The naval board which conducted the tests of the ship brake recently fitted to the battleship "Indiana" reports that, though it will stop a vessel in a short distance, it is unsuitable for naval uses. It considers that unless the brake were constantly employed it would become clogged with barnacles. It would also increase the danger from torpedo attack; would be dangerous in close evolution, and would at all times somewhat retard the speed of a ship.

Raising of the Dewey

It's going to cost $50,000 to raise the dry dock Dewey. An interesting feature of the raising of the dry dock is that she will dock herself. As termed by the navy department, she will be "self docked." The Dewey is built in sections, and when raised section after section will be taken aboard and overhauled and replaced. It is the extensive overhauling that is to be done in connection with the raising of the dry dock that will take much of the money.

PROPER TO RAISE MORE HOGS HERE

Demand for Pork Greatly
In Excess of Supply
In Oregon

The United States has about one third of the hogs in the world. Officially, it has the first of the present year 47,782,000 hogs, worth $9.14 each, a total of $436,375,000. Iowa is the greatest hog state, having 6,485,000 of them, valued at $73,280,000.

No wonder there is prosperity throughout the great farming state of Iowa it could fight a European nation with its hogs. Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri are also great hog states from which we people of this coast import millions of dollars' worth of hogs annually.

But they are corn states; these Pacific states are not; therefore some imagine we are at a disadvantage. This is magnified; corn is a superb ideal food for hogs, but our grains and grasses are almost equal in producing value. It is more a matter of handling, curing, packing and branding, in great export markets such have until recently been in operation nowhere west of Omaha and Kansas City. Now that Portland has great packing plants, this lamentable shortage of hogs and hog products should gradually disappear.

It has been scientific demonstration that a bushel of wheat fed to a hog in Oregon is worth, under recent prices, $1.13. Farmers can also raise a surplus of barley, oats and other hog feed, practically as good as corn, and many of them can raise some corn, too, if they try.

Raise more hogs; they'll pay. The market for them is limitless. And it is regrettable, not say humiliating and shameful, that the thriving, progressive energetic people of this great region don't raise more hogs.—Journal.
