A YIELD OF 67 BUSHELS OF WHEAT PER ACRE

at the Nebraska Station at North Platte, Nebraska, is causing everybody that hears of it to TURN AROUND and ask HOW? A 50-bushel yield is not unusual, and their is no reason in the world why you cannot learn HOW. Practidally all these bumper crops have been sroduced with only a few inches of rain during the growing season, so you will never "fear a drouth" when you know HOW.

U. S. Government, Department of Commerce and Labor Bulletin, Dec 11, 1909, says: "Campbell's epoch making efforts in behalf of dry farming in connection with the introduction of Durum wheat, promises to turn the semi arid regions, covering millions of square miles, into one of the most sroperous sections in the world."

Mr. Campbell operates a line of Demonstration Farms from Texas to Canada and publishes his methods and results in the Scientific Farmer. Watch 1910!

No matter where you farm—in Virginia, Minnesota, Texas, Washington or Alderta, with irrigation or without, you cannot afford to live without knowing HOW. The vital principles are clearly explained and followed in CAMPBELL'S SCIENTIFIC FARMER (the only publication on tillage). A monthly, $1.00 a year. To Save You Time.

Have you ever noticed that when reading you waste a certain amount of time in turning from the end of one line to the beginning of the next? Long ago, when the world was not so busy as now, columns were of a much greater width. Since then they have been narrowed more and more.

Of course in an hour's reading little time is lost, but in a lifetime it is likely to be considerable. Realizing this, some one has suggested that type should be arranged as follows. You read to the end of the line, drop the eyes and read backward:

What a luxury tuohtiw daer ot the inevitable ta kcab repmacs the end of each s'ti woh eeS .enil done?

The argument is that practice will make perfect. Five minutes' practice is usually found more than sufficient for most people.—Pearson's.

The Power of Napoleon.

The desperate struggle to do something worth while is the very thing which draws out our reserve forces and develops latent power, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. Without this struggle many people would never have discovered their real selves. Napoleon was never so resourceful, never so level headed, never had that vigorous mental grasp, was never able to make such powerful combinations, as when he was driven to desperation. It was when all bridges were burned behind him and there was no possibility of retreat that the possible Napoleon came to the rescue. Napoleon said of his great general Messena that he never showed his mettle until he saw the wounded and dead falling all around him in battle. Then the lion in him was aroused, and he fought like a demon.

Enlightenment.

"Father," remarked Johnny after deep thought, "suppose I should knock this jug off the table and catch it, then I wouldn't catch it, would I?"

"N-no, I suppose not," his father slowly said.

"But," continued Johnny, still toying with the jug, "if I should knock it off and not catch it, then I would catch it wouldn't I?"

"Yes, you would!" his father grimly returned, this time with quick decision.

Well Connected.
