PIONEER CITIZEN GOES TO ASHLAND

W. J. MOORE, '78, FOR-
SAKES LAKE

After a Residence Here of Third of Century Seeks
New Location

W. J. Moore, one of the early settlers of Lake County and a prominent member of the Southern Oregon bar Monday took his departure for Ashland, where he has decided to locate. Mr. Moore first came to Lake County when a young man back in the '70's, and has resided here ever since. For a number of years he worked at every thing that came handy from a cowboy to practicing law, taught school for a number of years, and served two terms as County School Superintendent. He also studied law under Judge E. S. Sperry, and was committed to practice in 1897. Mr. Moore served four years as Prosecuting Attorney for this district and as such made an enviable record for the faithful performance of the duties of that office. He has enjoyed a very lucrative practice, for the years past, and his decision to locate at Ashland came as a great surprise to his many friends throughout Lake County. He was also engaged in the newspaper business, having been editor and proprietor of the Herald for several years. Some four or five years since his wife's health failed, making it necessary for her to seek a lower altitude. She went to Ashland where she was greatly benefited, and it was through his desire to be with her and the children that caused Mr. Moore to locate at that place.

Business matters will doubtless necessitate Mr. Moore to visit Lakeview frequently, and he expects to be here in September to attend the adjourned term of Circuit Court, he being interested in several cases that will probably be heard at that term.

In taking his departure from Lakeview Mr. Moore takes with him the best wishes of a host of friends for his future success and welfare.

Probably a Pipe Dream

Joseph Starr, who is serving out a sentence in the County Jail for selling whiskey to Indians, tells a weird tale of the Harrell attempting suicide Saturday night. Harrell was confined in the steel cage, and therefore Sheriff Dent did not consider it necessary to place a guard over him. However, Starr was requested to keep an eye on the confessed and sentenced murderer, it being the presumption that the former's stay in the county bastille might possibly be shorted somewhat by exercising due vigilance during the night. According to his story Starr surely made good, for he claims that about 2 o'clock in the morning he awoke and discovered Harrell hanging from the top of the cage, having made a noose of his suspenders. He quickly released him, and thereupon Harrell retired to his bunk and caused no further trouble.

Dan Goddell, the janitor was sleeping in the room immediately above the jail, and had there been any unusual disturbance he would have been awakened. It is therefore considered certain that Harrell made no attempt to end his earthly career at this time, preferring to take his chances with the law. Starr is still in jail.

Holdup at Ft. Bidwell

Alturas Plaindealer: News was received here Saturday by Sheriff Smith that a young man named Lesley Boyce, had held up a man at Bidwell and took his saddle horse at the point of a pistol, and that he, Boyce had mounted the horse and rode away, going towards Lakeview. Sheriff Smith at once procured a warrant and started in pursuit. He found the young man at New Pine Creek and placed him under arrest. Seeing Mr. Smith, Boyce walked across the street and addressing him said, "I understand you have a warrant for me." The Sheriff replied that he had and took his prisoner over to the hotel keeper while he ate his supper. As soon as the Sheriff left the room Boyce made a break for liberty and got quite a start before the Sheriff started in pursuit. Seeing that his prisoner would escape the Sheriff fired one shot as he turned the corner of the street, but without doing any damage other than to make him run faster. It appears that Boyce completely threw the Sheriff off his guard by his voluntary surrender. Boyce claims that the owner of the horse owed him $40 and he took the horse away from him to square the debt.

The Board of Trade is now sending samples of Lake County fruit to the Great Northern's exhibit car, which will soon start on a tour of the east.

AFTERMATH OF 1907 LAND RUSH

PROOF MADE ON ONE
CONTESTED CLAIM

Similar Cases Likely to Arise in Land Opening
Next Month

Ariel L. Poore Monday made confirmation proof on his homestead on Geshart mountain. It was one of the claims that was so hotly contested as a result of the restoration of forest lands in the fall of 1907. The land involved was the northeast quarter of Sec. 36, Tp. 33S., R. 14E., and W. H. Casebeer secured a homestead entry upon the land. His entry was contested by Ed Lake, Jesse G. Ausel and Ariel L. Poore, the latter finally winning out.

Inasmuch as there is to be a similar restoration of lands in this district August 1, a resume of the case will doubtless prove interesting. On the night of the restoration of lands to settlement of Geshart Mountain Casebeer hurriedly constructed the foundation for a cabin, some four or five logs high, and then came to the Land Office where he lined up and was the first to apply for the land in question when open to entry. The contestants remained on the land and continued their improvements. Finally coming to Lakeview to make their entries Ausel abandoned his rights, but Lake and Poore continued the contest. The local office decided in favor of Casebeer, which decision was sustained by the Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior during Roosevelt's administration.

A motion for a review was filed by Poore's attorney, J. D. Venator, and this was considered under the new administration, and the whole business was reversed and land awarded to Poore. Lake lost out by reason of the fact that he attempted to enter parts of the northwest and southeast quarters which necessitated acts of settlement being made in both quarter sections in order that his rights could be recognized, which it was shown as not done.

The decision is to the effect that the settler who makes the first permanent settlement and shows good intention throughout will no doubt get the land, regardless of who secures the first filing.

Hoag Mining District

During the last week another fine vein has been opened up in the Hoag district says the Bidwell Gold Nugget.

Mr. Liewellyn, of Los Angeles, who recently took a lease on the Pyramid from W. A. Schaubers, within a few feet from where the first float was picked up, uncovered a fine vein of quartz similar to that of the Sunshine. While he has not had time to get assay returns as yet, the free gold from panning show it to be very rich ore. The average assay values of float were in excess of $80, and it is thought that the vein will run fully as good. Development of this property will be commenced at once with the intention of getting some of the ore to the custom mill as soon as possible.

Mr. McCleary, who is working on the Mountain Sheep vein has one of the best surface showings in the camp. Showing is a clean cut fissure with Northerly and Southerly strike, rather an exception to east and west rule. From surface to depth of about 15 feet vein averages about a foot of clean quartz, free on both walls and carrying over $60 average gold content.

Mr. Cutler, manager for The Modoc Mining Company, has just completed a wagon road from the Sunshine to the shaft on their property and expects to start active development in a few days.

Brown and Bassler are sinking and drifting on the Big Four, with constantly improving ore bodies. The good work they are doing with their horse whim is a good object lesson for the camp. They will soon be shipping to the Mill mill.

The Mountain View is in high grade in their east drift and are putting in new ore bins and loading chutes preparatory to shipping to the custom mill.

The James Wall lease of the Sunset claim directly above the mill shows two feet of good milling ore in the lowest level and that property should furnish considerable tonnage in the near future.

Throughout the whole district showings were never so good or the outlook so promising. Many people are being attracted by these really remarkable showings and all predict steady increase of activity and in due time a boom that will have some thing substantial behind it. Modoc is certainly coming into her own and soon at that.

Data for Oregon Trunk

M. E. Brown of the Oregon Trunk Ry. Co. was in Lakeview several days during the week securing data at the Land Office in connection with the survey of the road north of the Klamath Indian reservation. Mr. Brown's work had no special significance, and he professed entire ignorance of the plans of his company. However, he expressed the opinion that this everlasting howl about the "grasping corporation" is bound to create upon the West in the way of curtailment of railroad work for conditions are becoming such that men of wealth will refuse to advance the needed funds with which to construct railroads. It seems to be a popular fad to treat railroad corporations as if they were something separate and distinct of themselves, instead of being owned and controlled by many different stockholders.

D. V. Kuykendall, prosecuting attorney, returned to his home at Klamath Falls Tuesday.

Card of Thanks

We take this method of thanking the people of Lakeview for their sympathy and kindness during our bereavement for the baby. Much of our sorrow will be reduced by the memory of people so gentle and kind to the stranger within our gates. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Lary and family.

New Mail Auto

Mr. and Mrs. F. Zim Baldwin and J. A. Gordon, the Buick agents, drove over from Klamath Falls Tuesday night, reaching Lakeview about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. They brought in a new machine for S. B. Chandler for use on the Paisley mail route, the auto in use proving too small to handle the traffic.

The Potts-Vanderpool sawmill near Summer Lake started up today.

The Empire Stock Company is now playing at Klamath Falls.
