

GIVES HIMSELF UP TO OFFICER

ONE MAN SLAIN, THE OTHER SURRENDERS

BODY OF DEMOSS BURIED

Sheriff Dent Arrived Last Night From Klamath Falls With Kuhl

Bernard E. Kuhl was placed in the county jail at Klamath Falls Saturday awaiting the arrival of officers from Lake county to take him to Lakeview, where he will be tried on the charge of stealing horses from near Silver Lake.

Al T. DeMoss and Bernard E. Kuhl had homesteads in the Silver Lake country and last week DeMoss asked Kuhl to help him to round up a band of horses and mules and drive them in the direction of Klamath Falls. Kuhl did so, and the result was that he is now facing the penitentiary for horse stealing while his companion lies in a grave in the hills near Dairy.

The first of last week a number of horses were missed from the vicinity of Silver Lake and suspicion was directed to DeMoss and when Mr. Brewer, a rancher in that part of the county, discovered that the stock was missing he at once notified his neighbors and four of them immediately started in pursuit of the thieves.

Two Indian guides were secured on the reservation and they tracked the men to Colahan's ranch twelve miles northwest of Dairy. Here they found the stolen horses in a pasture, but the men were not to be seen. They made their camp some distance from where the horses were and the pursuers did not notice them. This was early in the morning.

DeMoss got up and went to look after the horses and when Mr. Brewer saw him approaching he shot him through the heart.

Kuhl fled into the hills. Word was telephoned to the Klamath Falls authorities and Coroner Whitlock Deputy Sheriff Shallock, District Attorney Kuykendall and Court Reporter Richardson went to the scene of the tragedy in an automobile, and after an inquest a coffin was prepared and the body was buried in the timber near Colahan's ranch.

Kuhl was acquainted with Deputy Sheriff Shallock, and when he saw the officer he surrendered. He was afraid he would be shot if he approached any one he did not know.

WINDY HOLLOW MINING PROSPECTS

GEORGE T. CLINE GIVES VIEWS ON OUTLOOK

Very Conservative Statement By Mining Man of Experience

The Windy Hollow Mining District in the Coyote Hills is beginning to show some of the work that has been done toward developing the prospects there. George T. Cline recently of Klamath County who resigned as County Surveyor of that County to look into the development of the above district is in town this week from the Coyote Hills and his views regarding the outlook there are worthy of note, especially as Mr. Cline is one of the most conservative men regarding mines in the west. His natural cautiousness and the conservative statements that he has made carry considerable weight especially as they are backed with a thorough knowledge of the mining profession as far as any person can feel that he is thoroughly informed on the possibility of anything that concerns the prospective workings beneath the surface as yet not been explored or tested. "There are three good first class prospects," said Mr. Cline; "in the Windy Hollow District; the Butte with O. A. Kelly as superintendent and stayed in the woods until he recognized Mr. Shallock.

He was taken to Klamath Falls and placed in jail. Kuhl is only about 22 years old, and the officers believe that, although he knew that the horse were stolen, he did not intend to share in the profits of the raid, but simply helped DeMoss drive the animals away.

A Comical Mistake

A newspaper correspondent named Randal H. Howard gave Lakeview a write-up in Sunday's Oregon Journal but saddened our hearts by placing a cut of Klamath Falls and the ancient collection of frame buildings that now adorn that town as representing Water Street of Lakeview. If Mr. Howard ever comes this way again we will endeavor to show him a much better street and will gladly give him a real photograph of Lakeview and the majority of the buildings are of brick and concrete. Little mistakes like this are not new, but the beauty of Water Street must not be tarnished with the departed glory of Klamath's frontier days. We are in a class by ourselves when it comes to being on the map.

Frens-Koehler Nuptials

Mr. H. L. Frens and Miss Grace M. Koehler of Plush were married in Lakeview, Monday, August 15, 1910, Rev. G. J. Wentzell performing the ceremony. The marriage of the couple took place at the home of Richard Kingsley on Main Street.

HAWLEY ARRIVED HERE LAST NIGHT

WILL MEET THE PEOPLE TONIGHT

Large Concourse of Citizens Will Extend Him a Hearty Welcome

U. S. Congressman W. C. Hawley arrived from Klamath Falls last evening and is shaking hands once more with his constituents of this portion of the First District. He will remain until Friday morning and will make a public address at the Court House tonight where he hopes to meet all citizens irrespective of party.

Funds Collected for Church

On Monday of this week a meeting of the Catholics of the city was held at the W. K. Barry residence on Water Street, and ways and means suggested of raising one-half of the necessary amount for building the new Catholic church. After the meeting a whirlwind money raising campaign was started and before night $2377.50 had been collected. This amount was increased to $2700, by Tuesday night, and the amount is growing all the time. The cause is a worthy one and should meet with the approval of all.

Mrs. Jonas Morin and Miss Bertie Haner left yesterday for San Francisco where they will remain this winter.

the Jumbo with L. C. Beckwith as superintendent and The King under Loftus and Blume. Good ore has recently been struck in the Butte which has about 650 feet of tunnel and about fifty feet of shaft. The ore was struck at a depth of 250 feet in a winze sunk from the tunnel. There is a 100 foot shaft on the Jumbo and they are running cross cuts. Good ore has been encountered in the shaft but it dipped out and cross cuts are being run to "catch it at a greater depth. The King has about 70 feet of cross cut tunnel. All the properties are under good management and are first class prospects. There are several other claims in the camp that show excellent surface indications but no development work has been done on them. There are some good springs in the gulches that supply water to the camp and believe that within few hundred feet will be found plenty of water for milling purposes. The camp looks good enough to keep me for some time. Mr. Cline has fine assay outfit there and came over to meet his wife as she came in on the stage from Klamath. His faith in the possible outcome of the work now being done places the camp before the people as a probability and it is hoped that his conservatism and that of the men that are at work will be productive of the greatest results as the development of a real mining camp means much to every citizen here.

JOHN P. BARRY KILLED

Well Known Resident of Lakeview Shot In Saloon Row

SLAYER IN COUNTY JAIL AWAITING TRIAL

Sad Ending of a Drinking Bout That Started In Good Fellowship and Ends Suddenly At the Grave

Homicide; grim, stern, unrelenting, has stalked into the midst of this peaceful community and taken John P. Barry, familiarly called "Jack" by those that have known him for many years, to another life. Saturday morning just as the hands on the clock had passed the hour of midnight a row started in the saloon of Mike Hart which ended in the death of one man and the imprisonment of another charged with taking his life. It seems that the men had been shaking dice along with some others that were in the saloon at the time when a quarrel arose about who was to pay for the game. One word brought on another when Louis Veysade, camp tender in the employ of Dan P. Malloy, left the place saying, it is claimed, that he was going after a gun and would return. He crossed the street diagonally to Post & Kings Kentucky saloon where he secured the revolver and recrossing to Hart's to enter the door when the witnesses seem confused as to what happened but some claim that he entered the door with a drawn weapon in his hand and that he fired two shots one which took effect just above the right nipple and slightly to the left ranging in a downward manner to the medial line of the abdomen. The shot was almost instantly fatal as Barry died within a few moments without saying a word. Some say that the dead man fired the first shot and a bullet that came from the inside of the saloon shattered the plate glass in the door while there is evidence that at least four shots were fired altogether, though witnesses seem to disagree on this point. After the shooting Veysade went to Night Marshal John Peacock who was hurrying toward the scene of the shooting and gave himself up to custody, where upon the Marshal turned him over to Deputy Sheriff Warner Snyder for safekeeping. The body of the dead man was where he had fallen and died in the arms of Dave Dennehy when Coroner Wm. Wallace arrived and took charge of the body following an examination by T. V. Hall who had been nastily summoned and whose skill was powerless. Mr. Wallace had the remains removed to the home of his father, Wm. Barry, until after the inquest in order not to bring too sudden a shock to the sorrowing relatives.

The coroner's jury impaneled consisted of C. L. Beebe, J. H. Auteq, W. M. Massingill, H. Funk, A. L. Sloan and J. B. McCool and they met in the court house Saturday afternoon at 1.30. Miss E. Snelling took notes of the testimony and Attorneys Farrell and Batshelder examined the witnesses. J. McAuliffe, Mike Sullivan, Dave McAuliffe, Dr. B. Dal, Dr. T. V. Hall, Dave Dennehy, John Flynn, John Peacock and Warner Snyder testified and in the whole the witnesses held very closely in their testimony though that of the two physicians and the two officers of the law were purely professional. The jury retired and a few minutes later returned a verdict that "the deceased had come to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by Louis Veysade."

The funeral of the deceased was held from the residence on Main St. Sunday at 10:30 o'clock and was largely attended. Father O'Malley of the Catholic Church performed the last rites over the dead.

"Jack" Barry was born in Newmarket, County Cork, Ireland and was 41 years of age. He had been associated with his father for some years in the sheep business and recently had been bar-keeper at the saloon where he met his death. He was the head of a family consisting of a wife and three children, two boys and a girl all of whom are nearly grown and have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

At the preliminary trial of Louis Veysade held before Squire Bayley yesterday afternoon, Lefe Conn appeared as attorney for the defendant Mike Sullivan testified regarding the events previous to the shots being fired and was followed by Peter Escallig who brought out the testimony that some one from the inside supposedly the deceased had fired the first shot and then Veysade had fired two shots in rapid succession, one of which took effect in the ceiling. The bullet fired from the inside went through the door of the saloon and upwards through the canvas awing in front of the saloon. Dr. Bernard Daly then testified as to the death of the deceased and where the bullet had struck as well as to the probable duration of life after being shot.

On motion of Attorney Farrell acting for the state in the absence of Assistant Attorney Veator the Defendant was remanded to the custody of the sheriff to appear before the grand jury.

At the meeting held Tuesday evening nearly all those that had stuzed the call to assemble were on hand. Dr. E. H. Smith was elected president chairman and Arthur W. Orton was made permanent secretary. The name mentioned above was voted on and accepted. The slogan "Better Roads" was made the object of the organization. The first movement decided on was to place sign boards on every highway in the county which will guide the automobilist and the horseman alike save much time and trouble to all travelers. Dr. Bernard Daly was invited to address the meeting and told the members that he and the county court were in favor of better roads everywhere in the county and that the court would cooperate in every way possible to build and maintain these roads. He further told the members that when a piece of road needed repairing and they notified the road supervisor and he did not immediately attend to the necessary work that they were empowered to employ men to do the work and he would see that the con-

A GOOSE LAKE VALLEY HOMESTEAD

FRUIT TREES MAKING A WONDERFUL GROWTH

E. R. Patch's Ranch Below Town Assumes An Orchardlike Aspect

Among the many pleasant homesteads in Goose Lake Valley is the one owned by Ed. Patch. This place is also the foothills about seven miles below town. Mr. Patch has set out quite a large orchard comprising peaches, pears, apples, plums, grapes and other fruits and a three year old plum tree on the place is so heavily loaded with green fruit that the owner will probably have to remove a portion of the fruit to prevent the tree from being overloaded. One curiosity that is remarked upon every one that sees it is an apple tree in a pile of volcanic rocks and doing as well as any of the other trees. Potatoes from a short strip of ground between two rows of trees this year have paid the owner over $50 so far and there are quite a number of sacks ready for market. These trees have grown without irrigation being able to secure sufficient moisture from subirrigation as there is little doubt that all the land along the side of the hills is more or less subirrigated. Mr. Patch has also a fine field of about fifteen acres of alfalfa on the top of a bench probably several hundred feet above the level of the valley and this too is producing a fine yield without irrigation. There is no doubt that a great deal of the land along the hills on the East side of the valley is the best fruit land in the state. Some of it looks a little gravelly but when it is plowed and the trees are under way they seem to thrive beyond the belief of the man that saw it before it was tilled. When the orchards that have been planted in the valley get into bearing and the railroads come the fame of the Goose Lake apple peach and pear will be known wherever the man desires the best fruit and has the money to pay for it. With the enterprise characteristic of him, Mr. Patch has piped the water from the spring to his house and connected it with a hot water tank and now they enjoy hot and cold water at all times when needed. Another labor saving device that should be very popular with the ladies is a washing machine that is connected to the pipe from the spring and after the clothes are placed in it, Mrs. Patch can just take things easy as the force of the water does the work with out any trouble or annoyance on her part. This is a sample of some of the homesteads that are coming to the front in the valley.

The camping party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Seager, Fannie Toungisen, Alice McGrath, Bob Wier and Will Anderson has returned to town after a weeks vacation trip.

NEW IRRIGATION DAM BUILDING

CLIFFS WILL GIVE SOLID ABUTMENTS

WATER FOR MANY ACRES

The Company Has Plenty of Capital to Push the Work to Completion

Goose Lake Valley is to have another large irrigation project to water the lands lying West of the lake and north of the Oregon state line. Early this week a gang of men left Lakeview to commence work on the Wheeler Irrigation Reservoir at the mouth of Dry Creek Canyon and it is expected that they will perform sufficient work before the year is out to impound enough water to irrigate several thousand acres next year and the project will ultimately water at least ten thousand acres of land that does not come under the Oregon Valley Land Company's ditch.

The Dry Creek canyon is a natural reservoir site with perpendicular walls, that arise to a considerable height and the opening is about 125 feet wide with a gradual fall so that a large body of water can easily be stored. The Basaltic cliffs will give this dam solid natural abutments and make the cost of the construction very reasonable. The men that are now at the work have started a rock weighted crib that can be increased in size as there is a demand for water. S. G. Bennett, the United States Government Engineer, who made a report in 1905 on the water shed of Dry Creek said that there were between forty and sixty square miles whose waters were tributary to this stream and an excellent natural dam site is at hand which can be built to a height of eighty feet, with very little grade on the floor of the reservoir. This makes the work of the Wheeler Company a comparatively easy one to handle and they expect to go ahead with all speed toward the construction of the works. The men that are farming on their homesteads in this section of the valley are getting fair crops of alfalfa grain and hay without irrigation but it is safe to say that this project will double the value of the land and make that portion the equal of the East side of Goose Lake Valley. This is another step toward reducing the size of Goose Lake which will within the next few years be considerably lessened in area when the waters of the new irrigation projects with hold the natural run off of the streams that are being harnessed to supply water to the lands that are included in the several projects.

COUNTY TEACHERS PASS EXAMINATION

WITH CREDIT TO THEMSELVES AND SCHOOLS

Pupils Will Be In Competent Hands the Coming School Year

The teachers examination that was held in Lakeview last week was successfully terminated on Friday. It was one of the most difficult examinations that the teachers of this section of the state have had to encounter and those that passed unite in saying that some of the questions that were put before them were about as valuable to teaching the young idea "how to shoot" as to try to make a cow learn the knack of successfully attempting an aeroplane ascension or to try to get a sheep to fight a coyote. Only three of the applicants failed to pass the ordeal. Those that were successful are as follows: First Grade Certificates; James F. Burgess, Beattie Edna Burgess, Harry O. Todd, Anna E. Ritchey, L. Mae Ritchey, Augusta DeForest, Hazel J. Horn and Sarah Jane Ford. Second Grade Certificates; Muriel Squire Roehl, John E. Hanes, Louise Bosworth and J. Allen Richards. Third Grade Certificates, Jennie Anderson, Alice Slinkard, Maud Eugene Bowers and Ida Moore.

LAKE COUNTY AUTOMOBILE CLUB FORMED

"Good Roads" the Battle Cry With Practically Every Owner Placing His Shoulder to the "Car" To Further This Progressive Movement

The ownership of autos in Lakeview has assumed such proportions that many are forming themselves into the club mentioned below. The best feature of the organization is the contemplated plan of improving the roads of the county by placing them in the best condition of any in the state considering the area to be gone over. In keeping with the most advanced ideas of eastern clubs who are accomplishing much in this respect; committees will be formed to look after every road in each section of the County. One committee will have charge of the road to Pine Creek another to Paisley, one to Klamath County line and every portion of the roads in the county will be similarly taken care of. It is the intention of the signers to get better roads and they will confer a blessing on every man and woman in the county by so doing. It is even believed that many who do not own a machine will see the advisability of co-operating with the Club and if such is done there will be no doubt of the success of the movement. The signers below are a partial list of those joining and others will no doubt as rapidly as the opportunity is presented. We the undersigned, believing that the automobile has come to stay, that by organizing we may be able to accomplish more in the way of better roads, better facilities and cheaper gasoline, hereby agree to attend a meeting at such time and place as the first five signers hereto may agree upon the purpose of organizing an up to date Lake County Automobile Club, of Lakeview, Oregon, under whatever rules and regulations a majority of the members of such meeting may agree upon.
