It is in time of sudden mishap or accident that Chamberlain's Liniment can be relied upon to take the place of the family doctor, who cannot always be found at the moment. In cases of sprains, cuts, wounds and bruises Chamberlain's Liniment takes out the soreness and drives away the pain—Sold by all good dealers.

Drying preparations simply develop dry scabs; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm will master catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. All druggists sell the 50 cent size. Ely Brothers, 55 Warren Street, New York.

The Balm is used without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. Ely's Cream Balm contains no cocaine, mercury nor other harmful drugs.

DEFEAT COUNTY DIVISION.

(Albany Herald)

"There are no less than eight applications for the creation of new counties to be voted upon by the people of Oregon at this fall's election. Though there may be one or more of these new county schemes possessing some degree of merit and are prompted by good faith, it would appear that in the main they are not entitled to the favorable consideration of the people at large, and as a matter of expediency and good public policy all of them should be defeated.

"In the first place the Herald believes that the creation of a new county is a matter devolving upon the legislature and should not be submitted to a vote of the people at large, who cannot possibly have any intelligent idea of the demand for such proposed new counties and are, therefore, in no sense competent to vote upon the measures. What does the average voter of the northeastern part of the state know about the practicability or wisdom of the clamor of the southwestern portion of the state for the creation of a new county? Certainly, in the majority of cases, he would not be able to cast an intelligent vote on the proposition.

"The submission to a vote of the people of the whole state of these various county division schemes, therefore, would seem highly impracticable, if not unwise. Moreover, the success of these various division schemes would establish a bad precedent, which might tend to retard the healthy growth and reasonable prosperity of many counties of the state.

"There are doubtless counties in Oregon which should be divided into two separate county divisions, but these, the Herald believes, should be taken care of by the legislature and not voted upon by the people of the state at large, who cannot possibly judge of the merits or wisdom of the proposed division of a remote section of the state, and in which the voters at large can have no reasonable interest.

"Many of the county schemes up for consideration this fall are without question ill-advised and prompted by impure motives, and the Herald suggests a negative vote on all county measures as the most practical remedy for the present county division epidemic.

COUNTY DIVISION.

Under the present laws in the opinion of eminent lawyers, counties can only be divided or boundaries changed by the vote of the people.

All laws should be obeyed. Some laws should be appealed or amended. The law creating new counties is unfair as voters are asked to create new counties where they cannot know the local conditions and might form a new county where four-fifths of the residents of the old county are opposed to it.

What do the voters of Clatsop know of the needs of Grant, Malheur, Crook, Umatilla, Douglas, Lane, Washington, Clackamas and Multnomah. They could vote just as intelligently for the county officers in these counties as for their division or the changing of the boundaries.

There is strong opposition to division in all the counties mentioned and it would seem to be but justice that these localities should settle their own local differences.

You will have the privilege of voting for a bill to leave the function of new counties and municipalities to the districts interested. As between man and man, would not this plan be the more equitable?

The average voter will certainly take this view of it. In all fairness now, will not your conscience and sense of right tell you to vote against all division and vote "Yes X 352," which will relieve you of the task of voting for measures with which you can not be familiar.

STATE PRESS AGAINST IT.

"The Nesmith county boosters, traveling in an automobile, were here this morning. The atmosphere being exceedingly chilly they soon moved on. Our people don't believe in county bachelors to further the personal ends of a few schemers."—Roseburg Review.

"If all the voters of Oregon who are opposed to the proposed wholesale formation of new counties vote "No" at the November election, they will all be defeated, but if those opposed merely pass the county propositions up without voting on them at all, they will carry by the "Yes" votes cast for them. This is a fact that it would be well to remember on election day."—Eugene Register.

"There are seven new counties proposed, and may be more for us to vote on next November. Don't you think our taxes heavy enough at present without taking on this unnecessary additional expense? Look into this matter before voting time."—Echo Echoes.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE COLUMN

(Paid Advertisement)

This column is conducted by the Anti-Saloon League of Lake County, and the space occupied is paid for at regular advertising rates under contract with Rev. G. J. Wentzell.

HE SPEAKS WITH AUTHORITY

On January 29 the Chicago Kansas Club gave its annual Kansas day dinner. The guest of honor was the Hon. F. D. Coburn the Kansas State Board of Agriculture. He is also president of Kansas State Temperance Union. This latter organization takes in all the temperance societies of the state. He may be regarded, therefore as one who can speak with authority concerning the material welfare of his state. Whatever Mr. Coburn says is true and he is a man of such personal honor that he would not misrepresent conditions existing in his state.

At the dinner of the "exiled" Kansans in Chicago, Mr. Coburn had this to say relative to the influence of prohibition in his state: "In consideration of its beneficence, and of the shameless slanders, product of both malice and ignorance constantly circulated by interests inimical to temperance and sobriety, your speaker would scarcely be a loyal Kansan if away from home he addressed an audience without referring to the practical workings and results of constitutional prohibition of the liquor traffic in which Kansas is the successful leader as observed at close range during and after a thorough time test by those officially and otherwise concerned with the state's caretaking.

The governor of the state says for this occasion: "I believe that Kansas with prohibition has more sobriety and less intemperance and its evil results than any other state has ever had. Everywhere prohibition is proving a most potent factor in the improvement and exaltation of our citizenship and the best friends of our men and women. I know of no one who is injured by it but the barkeeper and in the end he will be benefitted.

The attorney general writes: "There are no saloons in Kansas, and the laws prohibiting traffic in liquor are as well enforced as any other. Ministers and those engaged in charitable work report a great decrease in the number of dependants, in the cities since the enforcement of the law. Kansas has made a remarkable record in later years in the small number of persons needing the protection of the poor laws and in the low percentage of criminals. In bringing about such a generally improved condition of affairs constitutional prohibition has a tremendously important part.

The warden of the state penitentiary writes: "Under enforced prohibition the drunkard making business is stopped; illiteracy and crime are decreasing, poorhouses are empty in many counties, and families of laboring men are better clothed, better fed, better housed and have more advantage than in any other state in the Union and the saloon vote no longer counts in election. We have more homeowners and fewer renters than any saloon commonwealth in the world, and the Church is stronger because its worst enemy, the saloon, has been dethroned."

The State Superintendent of schools says: "The beneficial result of more than a quarter of a century of prohibition are nowhere more manifest than in their influence upon those growing to manhood and womanhood under its provisions. Children are reared without the temptations of intemperance and arrive at the point of fixed habits with no experiences and inclinations relative to liquor such as present themselves to young people elsewhere. Thrice blessed are the state's children, because they have as their rightful heritage sober and industrious parents; because they have always before them the example of sobriety, and because in the most impressionable period of their lives they are free from the insidious influences and examples of intemperance."

The Mayor of the capital city, Topeka, reports: "The effect of prohibition as to Topeka is gratifying beyond expression, and its benefits cannot be measured. To realize this one needs but to compare conditions here with those in the average town of our size elsewhere, with saloons, dives, and brothels and what these mean to the town in waste of money debasing influence on the youth of the city, the misery brought to the wives and children of the men who support such resorts, and all the degradation, crime, destitution, and heartaches that always follow in their wake. The beneficial effect of prohibition in Topeka from this standpoint of improved citizenship, material prosperity, and everything that makes for the betterment and uplift of mankind is too clearly apparent to admit of question.

The Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, the world famous clergyman and author, writes: "Constitutional prohibition has done more than any other one thing to make Kansas the greatest moral center of the universe. It has educated thousands of the finest young men and women to other kinds of work and other kinds of help. It has educated the entire population in ways of morality and healthy thinking and conduct. It has raised the entire moral tone of the state to the highest level of civilization. Prohibition in Kansas is a question mark not a permanent fact.

The saloon and all the grosser things in Kansas is deadlier than the army. Prohibition was never before so popular in Kansas as now, after thirty years trial. Its effects upon all classes of society and the welfare have been helpfully wholesome, and the forfeiture of any threats of reprobation are a danger heard, even in whispers. Something of its beneficent influence upon society may be discerned in the official statistics, disclosing that at the end of the last fiscal year twenty-eight county poor farms were without tenants; eighty-seven had no insane inmates, and fifty-four had no feeble minded inmates. Twenty-one counties had no convicts in the penitentiary, thirty-six had no prisoners in the reformatory, fifty-two had no prisoners serving sentence in their county jails, and sixteen counties are without prisoners serving sentence in any institution. Statistics show further that Kansas, with practically a fifth of New York's population, has less than one tenth the number of insane, and that Cook county, Illinois, furnishes more insane to the state hospitals and the institution at Danmott than the total population of all Kansas charitable, correctional, and penal institutions combined. Unlike a sister state Kansas has no honest tax her's is "the largest penitentiary in the world."

Prohibition is in the air; its invincible hosts, on the way, are being augmented by reinforcements as every crossroads. Ably led, the forces of rebellion made a long and stubborn resistance to our national authority, but their banners trailed in defeat at Appomattox before the blue coats legion of Grant. The forces behind saloon bars are in rebellion against society and morality and facing their Appomattox for which Chicago may be a synonym.

SUGGESTIONS FOR DRY LAND FARMERS

The farmers that are handling land without irrigation in Lake County will find it greatly to their advantage to fall plow their lands and after through tillage, plant fall grain. Care should be exercised in the selection of seed, particular attention being paid to securing seed that has been grown on unirrigated lands. Seed should also come from districts in the later mountain region as it is more or less acclimated. Do not plant seed that has come from a warm country and expect to get a large crop. Don't expect a crop from seed that has been grown on irrigated lands, as its fertility is very low. The best varieties of grain to sow are those that have done the best in this part of the country, and they will be found to be the hardiest varieties of barley, white rye, and ordinary rye, the Durum wheats for spring sowing and the Crimean wheats for fall sowing, of which latter group the best varieties for this part of the county to try is probably Turkey Red, Kherson and Crimean.

The finest and cleanest seed wheat comes from Alberta at present. Sixty day, Kherson, Bort and Swedish Select are the oats that should be tried and the Boswell Winter oats has been found to give excellent results on Utah lands with less rainfall than we have here. Field peas generally termed Canadian Field peas will be found to be the crop that will make considerable difference in the production of all lands within the county and will also serve as a substitute for corn in the production of hogs and some believe that field pea-fed hogs are superior to the corn fed. They are great soil rood and serve to supply the soil with large quantities of nitrogen. It has been found that they increase the yield of grain per acre and at the same time on land that formerly followed pay well in the crop they grow. Deep plowing and a thorough working of the soils of Lake County will increase the productivity of the tillable areas many times.

The United States treasury has advanced $116,000,000 from the general fund to apply on Panama canal construction, with expectation of being reimbursed through bond issues. Now, however, it is expected that the amount will be taken up by using postal savings bank money and issuing 2 1/2 per cent bonds therefore. The government may do this to the extent of 65 per cent of the postal savings bank money.
