We have notations of all these Errors.

Others cannot find them. We have put hundreds of dollars hunting up these errors, and we can fully guarantee our work.

A GOOD POSITION

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railroad telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, since the Wireless companies are establishing stations through out the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute of Portland, Ore., operates six official institutes in America, under the supervision of R. K. and Wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details.

A Reliable Medicine - Not a Narcotic.

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says Foley's Honey and Tar saved her little boy's life. She writes: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and the doctor's medicine did not cure him. I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." A. L. Thornton.

WHEN SORROW SAYS GOODBYE.
DARK sky above me--never gleam of light--
Yet with one to love me sorrow sighs, "Good night!"
Fortune has not found me, fame was swift to fly,
Yet love's arms are round me. Sorrow says, "Goodbye!"
Heed no sky above you. Fear no fall of night.
These sweet words, "I love you" fill the world with light.
-Frank L. Stanton.

BE SWEET AND SING.
If things don't go to suit you,
What use to frown and sigh?
You can't frown back the sunbeams
That's missing from the sky
Nor frown away the winter
In wishing it were spring.
The wisest thing to do, my friend,
Is just keep sweet and sing.

A SONG will make one's burden seem lighter, while a sigh adds to the load we carry. We can't tell how or why. We only know it does it. And that the lift and swing of cheerful songs make happy heart. So just keep sweet and sing.

DON'T fret and fume and worry. And make things worse, say I. Since we can't help what's happened. So laugh away the sigh. And trust that on the morrow The clouds will all take wing. Believing God knows what is best. So just keep sweet and sing. -Ebenaxe.

LEO.

OVER the roofs of the houses I hear the barking of Leo. Leo the shaggy, the lusty, the great, the gentle Newfoundland.

Dark are his eyes as the night, and black is his hair as the midnight.
Large and slow is his tread till he sees his master returning.
Then how he leaps in the air, with motion ponderous, lightning.
Now as I pass to my work I hear the roar of the city.
Far over the roofs of the houses I hear the barking of Leo.
For me he is mouthing and crying for me in measure, anxious.
He raises his marvelous voice, for me he is wailing and cailing.

None can assuage his grief, though but for a day in the parting.
Though soon after morning 'tis the same, though home every night comes his master.
Still will he grieve when we sever, and wild will be his rejoicing
When at night his master returns and lays but a hand on his forehead.
No luck will there be in the world of faith, of love and devotion,
No luck for me and for mine, while Leo alone is living.
While over the roofs of the houses I hear the barking of Leo. -Unidentified.

PREVENT GAGES TO SUCCEED.
Most every chicken raising district can boast a human expert gape-worm extractor, who twirls his horsehair noose and lusses the little, wriggling red chicken killers with a dexterity to make a wild and woolly broncho buster sit up and take notice.
The gapes are so bad every season in some localities that these experts often do a big business at 1 cent a chick.
But, however expert one gets, it's difficult to catch every worm, and especially the eggs, and in so many cases the chick dies in your hands from suffocation.

Twirling a timothy head or a trimmed feather dipped in turpentine in the windpipe is no better.
By such operation the windpipe is often injured or the worms and bloody mucus are pushed into the lungs with fatal results.
Holding chicks over carbolic acid fumes or making them breathe lime dust is dangerous to the chick and often fails to relieve.
Camphor, turpentine and so called gape cures in the drinking water do not enter the windpipe, where worms are busy.
It is estimated that this plague kills over 3,000,000 chicks a year in the United States, not counting the mortality among tame pheasants and turkeys.
The common question in our spring correspondence is, "How do you cure gapes?"
We are thankful to say we have no gapes to cure, because so far we have prevented it.
It requires no microscope to find the cause of gapes, though certain agricultural station experts go on archaeological expeditions to search for it.
Just now they are disputing whether it originates in the hen or the fish bait. Its cause is filth and dampness.
Years ago we had our last experience with gapes when we tried to raise chicks in stationary pens.
The first season the ground in these pens was new, and we raised 99 per cent. The second year a long rain soaked up the tainted soil; the gape-worms hatched, got busy, and we lost the majority. All affected ground was well limed, plowed under and seeded, and that plan finished the pest.
To be successful gapes, the chick exterminator, must be prevented, and this is done by keeping young stock out of the wet and on sweet ground.
