PRIMITIVE PHYSIC

John Wesley as a Physician and Some of His Remedies.

It is not generally known that John Wesley in one of his brief intervals of leisure published a sort of medical vade mecum called not inappropriately "Primitive Physic." It was first published in 1747, and it ran into at least twenty-four editions. The author was greatly surprised there was so swift and large a demand for it. In the later editions he was able to add the word "Tried" to certain remedies the virtues of which he had meanwhile found opportunities of testing. After five years' careful trial and notwithstanding the objections of the learned he recommends for the ague "to go into the cold bath just before the cold fit," but omits to say how to time the coming of the fit. To prevent apoplexy use the cold bath and drink only water. If this proves useless and a fit should declare itself you have only to "put a handful of salt with a pint of cold water and if possible pour it down the throat of the patient." To cure asthma "take a pint of cold water every morning, washing the head therein immediately after." Wesley gives four ways of curing old age—"take tar water morning and evening" or "a decoction of nettles" or "be electrified daily" or "chew cinnamon daily and swallow your saliva." The two great panacea in the Wesleyan doctrine are the use of cold water and the use of electricity, and at the end of the book are columns of every sort of disease which may be overcome by these simple expedients.—St. James' Gazette.

The Flow of Water.

If the earth did not rotate no water could be got to flow away from the pole. But the centrifugal force of rotation allows this to happen.

Breathing of Insects.

Insects generally breathe through special pores in various parts of their bodies, and if these pores are closed by oil they are suffocated. Any one may test this by dropping sweet oil on the thorax or back of a wasp. It very soon dies. For this reason oil has been found one of the best things to use for the destruction of insects.

Turkey Red.

Turkey red is made from the madder plant, which grows in India.

British Columbia Indians.

The redskin of British Columbia is a good farmer, and his house is scrupulously clean. Usually it consists of two or three rooms and cellar, where supplies are kept.

Mosquitoes of India.

The mosquitoes of India have great fun with the bicyclists. They not only lance the riders, but actually puncture the bicycle tires

Canada's Senate.

Canada's senate consists of eighty-seven members, nominated for life by the governor general. They must all be thirty or over and possess at least $4,000 worth of property. They are paid $2,500 per annum.

A King's Economy.

An example of George III.'s economies is so curious as almost to suggest that it must have betokened approaching insanity. He actually let out the cream colored horses used for his state coach to a jobmaster, who "thinks from the great receipt of custom that they will draw him into an easy fortune."

Hats.

We owe the hat to Asia, for it was in that country that the art of felting wool was first known, and from the most remote periods the art was carried on by the orientals.

A Clear Cut Warning.

"Young ladies," said an absentminded teacher of Latin to his class in Virgil, "I understand that you count upon my calling on you in alphabetical order and prepare your lessons accordingly. I am surprised and disappointed at such conduct. Hereafter I warn you I shall begin at the other end of the alphabet."

British House of Commons.

The house of commons was originated by Simon de Montfort, earl of Leicester, in 1258, to strengthen his own power in opposition to Henry III

Tin Plates.

The manufacture of tin plates originated in Bohemia, hammered iron plates having been coated with tin in that country some time before the year 1600.

Forgery.

As recently as 1837 forgery was punishable by death in Great Britain.

Durable Ink.

Known as the "old English record ink," there is a special writing fluid officially prescribed by the law of England for use by registrars of births deaths and marriages.

Submarine Fog Signals.

Submarine fog signals can be heard fifteen miles.

Harps.

Some harps have been discovered in Egyptian tombs the strings of which in several instances were intact and gave forth distinct sounds after an estimated silence of 3,000 years.

About All There Is.

"There are only two things I don't like about an upper berth."

"And what are those?"

"The woodwork your head is crammed against and the mahogany wall your feet can't push through."—St. Louis Star.

WANTED THE JOB

Therefore He Did His Best to Please the Manager.

A certain playwright relates how a manager was much annoyed by the persistent applications for a "job" made by a peculiarly seedy individual. Time and again the manager had referred this person to his stage manager. "See Blank," he would say, interrupting the man's attempts to set forth his qualifications.

At last the applicant did succeed in gaining audience of Blank, the stage manager, who was in the theater for the time "sizing up" candidates for the chorus.

There were, of course, a number ahead of him, but this fact did not prevent the seedy man from interrupting the stage manager between songs with requests for a job.

Exasperated, the stage manager at length turned to the pianist and ordered him to play an accompaniment for the stranger. With considerable hesitation the seedy person raised what voice he had in song. The result was bad as bad could be.

The manager suddenly commanded him to desist.

"What do you mean by this tomfoolery?" he demanded, disgusted. "You certainly have confounded impudence to ask me for a job!"

"Look here!" said the stranger, angry in turn. "I don't claim to be able to sing. In fact, I don't want to sing. I'm a stage carpenter. I only sang to please you because you insisted on it!"—Pearson's Weekly.

His Favorite Opiate.

Ushers in theaters handle some peculiar people during a season, but the experience of the employee of a Chestnut street playhouse was a puzzle for some time. A well dressed, middle aged man would secure an end seat in the front row almost every evening. He would tell the usher if he fell asleep he was not to be disturbed until after the show. No sooner would the orchestra play the overture than the ushers would notice that the man was asleep. At the close of the night's entertainment some one would rouse the sleeper and he would leave with a polite acknowledgment. One night he explained his strange behavior:

"I suffer from insomnia," he said. "The only relief I get is when I sit close to the drummer in an orchestra. There is something in the rhythmic beating of the drum that soothes me to sleep."—Philadelphia Times.

Rice.

The most careful chemical analyses have demonstrated that rice possesses more nutriment than wheat, oats or barley. It will sustain life longer than any other starch producing plant. The Chinese and Japanese live upon it, endure great fatigue and work harder than the people of any other nation.

HINTS TO SWIMMERS

An expert swimmer is authority for the assertion that a vast majority of the drowning casualties which are attributed to cramps are in all probability the result of cardiac exhaustion. Nearly all experienced swimmers, he says, know that cramps when in the water are of comparatively infrequent occurrence. It is commonly in the calf of the leg, and the swimmer by lying quietly upon his back without undue alarm and stretching out the leg may overcome this somewhat painful involuntary muscular contraction. The exertion of swimming, however, is fully equal to the exertion of running, with the additional tax upon the system of a gradual lowering of the bodily temperature. It is one thing to know how to swim and quite another to be in a physical condition to do the swimming. —London Globe.

The Most Important Thing.

Commander Peary, at one of the numerous Washington dinners following his triumphant return from the pole, got the better of a senator in a war of wits.

"What is the good of your discovery?" the senator said. "I'll wager that you didn't find a single important thing at the north pole."

"Oh, yes, I did," said the explorer. "I found one very, very important thing."

"Humph! What was that?" the senator grunted.

"The way back home again," was the reply.
