Lakeview, Oregon, Thursday, March 9, 1911

In one of his many veto messages Governor West states that "Such streams as the Rogue and fish therein are given by the laws of God to the people for their common use and benefit." But nevertheless by vetoing the bill he put some people out of the "common use and benefit" clause. At least it is presumed the Hume people will so consider it.

According to advice received by Representative Haskay from the commissioner of Indian affairs, the Klamath Reservation still contains over 800,000 acres of unallotted tribal lands. Deducting 160 acres each for the 300 Indians to whom allotments have not been made, would still leave 750,000 acres unallotted. The department estimates that the timber on the Klamath reserve is worth $11,000,000.

William Lorimer, senator from Illinois, was exonerated of the charge that he was corruptly elected by a vote in the United States senate. Forty-six votes were cast against the resolution that the senate declare Lorimer's seat vacant. Forty senators voted that in their opinion he was corrupt. The victory of Lorimer ends one of the most remarkable political fights in the history of the United States. For many weeks the issue has been before the senate, and the "blonde boss of Chicago" has been flayed as bitterly any man before the public.

The senate defeated the resolution for the direct election of United States senators. The vote stood 54 in favor and 31 opposed, and as a two-thirds vote is necessary for passage the measure lost. Senators Bourne and Chamberlain were among the heartiest supporters of the resolution. One reason given for the non-passage of the resolution is the fact that it carried the Sutherland amendment, which gives to congress the right to supervise and control senatorial elections. This amendment was particularly objectionable to the Southern members of the senate, and they used their influence against the passage of the measure for that reason.

Declared Insane

Ben Delaney, a homesteader of the Summer Lake section, a few days since was taken into custody by the authorities on a charge of being insane. Mr. Delaney had been in Lakeview for several days, and while he would occasionally tell of how the spirits bothered him, yet it did not occur to his hearers that he was insane. However, his condition became worse and he was finally taken into custody, as previously stated, and is now awaiting the arrival of an attendant from Salem to accompany him to the asylum.

Big Real Estate Deal

A real estate deal involving about 3500 acres of Lake County lands and a total consideration of nearly $60,000 has been made through the real estate agency of W. F. Paine & Co. of Lakeview. Under the terms of agreement, the Oregon Valley Land Company of Kansas City, Mo., agree to convey the property known as the Abert Lake or "XL" ranch, consisting of upwards of 2000 acres, to Lehman & Bishop in exchange for their lands in the Goose Lake Valley close to Lakeview and consisting of about 1450 acres.

The Abert Lake ranch was acquired by the O. V. L. Co. in the deal with the Heryford Land & Cattle Co. made in 1909 and is purely a stock ranch property, while the Goose Lake lands involved in this deal all lie under the irrigation system of the O. V. L. Co., making this a very advantageous exchange.

Had a Varied Experience

Gus Schlage! Saturday evening returned from San Francisco and other California points where he claims to have been enjoying Summer weather. He reports having had a varied experience coming up from Reno, as he was unable to purchase a ticket further than Madeline. On reaching that place he and others hired a rig and reached Lakeview in due time. From Lakeview he and others made the trip as made behind a horse and mule in the midst of a heavy rain. However, he suffered no serious inconvenience on the trip, as meals came about the proper time, while refreshments between times were plentiful.

Conditions Improving

Jonas Norin this week came in from the desert and states that while conditions are serious yet reported loss of sheep has been greatly exaggerated. When he left the low desert was practically clear of snow and with a few days warm weather conditions would be greatly improved. So far as his knowledge goes no one has as yet suffered a serious loss, and all now depends upon weather conditions. If favorable the loss will not be much greater than usual, but on the other hand if the weather should turn cold and stormy it is probable that the loss will be quite heavy, as lambs and old sheep are not in condition to withstand bad weather.

THEY SEPARATED.

But the Parting Was More Strenuous Than Jim Expected.

A man named Roynor when gold hunting in Alaska had as partner a venerable prospector, who went about habitually with his boot legs stuffed full of dynamite sticks. The old man had a pleasantly casual way of filling the stove oven with these sticks in order that they might thaw out there. Sometimes, too, he forgot them, which was imprudent, to say the least. Roynor was not at all of a timorous disposition, but the ancient prospector's reckless carelessness troubled his nerves. He remonstrated with him repeatedly and strenuously, but his protest did not seem to have the slightest effect.

"Well, Jim," he remarked at last sadly, "I guess we've managed to separate all right, particularly you, Jim!"

The negro preacher is noted for his enthusiasm and his picturesque, almost poetic, way of expressing things. In "Life in Old Virginia" J. J. McDonald tells about a colored minister who was conducting a revival without much success. At last, however, he awakened his congregation by asking:

"Does yo' know what eternity is? Well, I tell yo'." "If one of dem 'ere sparrows what yo' see round yo' garden bushes was to dip his bill in de 'Lantic ocean an' take one hop a day an' hop 'cross de country an' put dat drop of water into de 'Cibe ocean an' den he hop back to de 'Lantic ocean—jes' one hop a day—an' if he keep dat hoppin' up t'rell de 'Lantic ocean wuz dry as a bone, it wouldn't be break o' day in eternity." "Dar, now," said one of the brethren, "yo' see for yo'self how long eternity is."

A Tribute to Woman.

When everything around a man staggers and wavers, when all seems dark and dim in the far distance of the unknown future, when the world seems but a picture or a fairy tale and the universe a chimeria, when the whole structure of ideas vanishes in smoke and all certainties become enigmatical, what is the only permanent thing which may still be his? The faithful heart of a woman. There he may rest his head; there he will renew his strength for the battle of life, increase his faith in Providence and, if need be, find strength to die in peace with a benediction on his lips.—Henri Frederic Amiel.

Easy Marks.

"Talk about yore easy marks," said Uncle Silas Geeshaw, who had been passing a week in the city, "us rubes ain't in it with them air toown chaps." "Did yew sell 'em enny gold bricks, Silas?" queried old Daddy Squashneck. "Naw, I didn't," answered Uncle Silas, "but I seed a feller peddlin' artificial ice—hed th' sign right on his wagon—an' blamed of th' chumps did not buy it fer th' real thing, by grass!"—Chicago News.

Lets of Nerve.

Farmer's Son—My father sent me over to borrow your horse and cart. She—Goodness! Why, he already has all our tools, our axes, our hay-rakes and— He—I know. He just wants the horse and cart to bring them back.—London Telegraph.

61ST CONGRESS IS NOW HISTORY

President Taft Immediately Calls Extra Session for April 4

Washington, D. C., March 4.—The 61st congress, which was headless of one of the most important legislative tasks set before it, came to an end shortly after noon today.

Within an hour following the close of the session, President Taft had issued a proclamation calling for the new congress to meet in extraordinary session at noon on Tuesday, April 4.

He will then submit for ratification to the house, which will be overwhelmingly democratic, and to the senate, which will barely be republican, the proposed reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada.

The McCall bill, carrying this agreement into effect, was passed by the house, but defeated by the senate.

The permanent tariff board bill was forced to its passage through a reluctant senate early this morning, and was hurried over to the house, where it was defeated by the democratic filibuster tactics.

Congress provided funds to continue the work of the temporary tariff board for another year.

Representative Johnson, of Kentucky, glaring angrily at Speaker Joseph Cannon, shouted so it was heard above the general roar and confusion, a challenge that if it were not for the speaker's gray hairs, he would carry the wordy disagreement to a more serious conclusion.

Speaker Cannon, with a box of the gavel on his desk, in response to this threat declared:

"No member of this congress need as my gray hairs be a bar to any thing he has to offer."

The entire house stood up and cheered loudly at the speaker's remarks.

When the filibuster tactics were finally brought to a close, and the time remaining being too short to finish up the business, the time-honored custom of turning back the clock was resorted to. The senate finally adjourned at 12:30 and the house at 12:57.

All the big appropriation bills finally managed to squeeze through in time to secure the approval of the president.

After the excitement in the senate had passed away came the news that Senator Bailey, of Texas, had resigned. It is said that he was "miffed" over the action of his democratic colleagues in not following his leadership during the last few days. Later, Bailey withdrew his resignation.

The uproarious tumult that reigned during the closing hours, following an all-night sitting of both the senate and house, peacefully died away as the last of the big appropriation bills was disposed of, and in both branches of congress there was the usual hand shaking scenes, commingled with much outward apparent non-partisan felicitations for the future welfare of each from his house and senate colleagues.

The end of the 61st congress meant the turning over of the control of congress to the democrats after 16 years of republican supremacy, and the stepping down and out of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, as speaker of the house to a more humble place in the ranks of the minority.

It meant the retirement to private life of a small army of republican men and boys.

Squaw Confesses

The young squaw, who was captured at the fight with the Indians who killed the Eagleville stockmen, says they killed the sheepmen at Little Rock canyon because they thought they were officers coming after them. She said they had killed Frank Dutt in Elko county last spring and then buried the horses to make the people think that they had been killed by white men. She also said they killed a Chinaman and three white men at different places, but she did not know the places. They got four dollars in these four murders.

Appreciate Examiner

Following is a fair sample of many letters being received by the Examiner, which makes this old world look brighter to the management, as well as the employees, who assist in making the Examiner what it is: Fort Morgan, Colo., Feb. 25, 1911. Editor Examiner: Please find herewith P. O. Money Order for $2.00 to keep alive my subscription to your paper. Let me congratulate you on the new, interesting paper you are making of the Examiner. It is one of the very best of the many weekly papers that come under my notice. K. J. GRAHAM.

DOINGS IN THE NORTH END

(Silver Lake Leader)
Judge Eldon Brettsin of Lakeview was transacting business here and shaking hands with old friends this week.

Silver Lake will celebrate the Fourth of July this year. Plans are being laid for the most rousing celebration Lake County has ever seen.

Lumber has been ordered to duplicate the school house which was burned at Summer Lake two weeks ago. The building will be completed in time for the fall term of school.

Mrs. Florence Payne was thrown from a horse near town the latter part of last week. Dr. Thom was called, but fortunately no serious injuries were sustained, the main damage being a hard shaking up.

A telegram was received here Tuesday night, announcing the death of Mrs. J. W. Embody's mother at Portland. A rig was at once dispatched to the mill, returning with Mrs. Embody, who left on Wednesday morning's stage for Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Small of Summer Lake spent several days in town last week for the double purpose of proving up on a timber claim, and securing medical treatment for Mrs. Small, who was suffering from a badly scalded foot as a result of coming in contact with a kettle of boiling water.

The Silver Lake Commercial Club met last Monday night, when the constitution and by laws were signed up by the charter members. The regular meeting nights will be the first and third Monday nights of each month. The next meeting will be held at the Leader office Monday evening, March 6.

P. R. Guffy, of Pine Creek, on Saturday came to town to spend a few days.

ADVERTISED AT LAST

THERE was a merchant in our town Who was so wondrous wise He saw his business running down, Yet would not advertise.

SAID he: "I cannot see the sense When trade is at its worst. Of multiplying my expense, I'll wait till trade comes first."

AT last this merchant, ill advised, Had naught to do but fail, And then the sheriff advertised A bankrupt auction sale.
