Lakeview, Oregon, Thursday, May 11, 1911

Salem is to have a gravity mountain water system. The condition that has prevented the consummation of this desire of the people of Salem was removed Monday evening when the city council voted to accept the terms of the Salem Water Company and to purchase the plant and system of the company for $357,000.

On May 5, last year, Senator Bourne delivered his speech in the Senate upon the Oregon system of government. Since then 3,000,000 copies of the speech have been printed, and 2,100,000 distributed. One result is that the Oregon system has been made an issue and adopted in Arizona, California and New Jersey, and has been made a campaign issue in nearly every state in the Union.

Assured of the success of the postal savings bank system, Postmaster General Hitchcock has decided to designate from this time forward 50 to 100 additional postal savings banks monthly, until the system has been generally established throughout the United States. Telegraphic reports received from 45 postal savings depositories opened for business May 1 show that 400 accounts were received, the deposits aggregating $10,000.

It is presumed that the usual loss of sheep by poisoning will occur this Spring, but if it does not the investigation made last summer by Mr. Tidestrom, will have no bearing in the matter. His findings in the matter appear elsewhere, and it is evident that he was completely baffled at every point. With all his expert knowledge he evidently cannot fathom the mystery. The dangerous season is now at hand, and reports of loss of sheep by poisoning may be expected at any time.

If you cannot run your hand into your pocket and haul forth a roll of $34.55 you are not financially an average man. A statement just issued by the United States Treasury Department gives that amount as the per capita circulation, basing the figures upon an estimated population on May 1, 1911, of $93,705,000. The department showed that on that date there was a general stock of money amounting to $3,546,547,337, which included $308,936,220 held in the Treasury and $3,237,611,117 in circulation.

Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey, in a speech before the Knife and Fork club of Kansas City declared that a new political era, promising much for the welfare of the nation, is now upon the American people. The movement is one of reform, marked by a process of restoration, rather than that of revolution, he said. The work of reforming present conditions is confined to neither political party, the speaker said, both parties being well represented in the efforts at reform as well as in the obstructive tactics of reactionaries. The New Jersey executive said the initiative and referendum in the field of legislation and the recall in the field of administration are intended to restore, not destroy, representative government. But the recall should not apply to judges, who neither make nor administer the laws, but only interpret them.

New Pine Creek Items

Don't forget the fact that New Pine Creek will celebrate the 4th of July.

Several of our town people were called before the Grand Jury last Tuesday.

Clay Lawson, who has been spending the winter in the lower country, has returned.

Dr. Amsden is sporting a new sign in front of his Drug and General Merchandise Store.

Miss Grace Gillett, who has been very ill at the home of Dr. Amsden, is reported better.

Services were held at the Baptist Church all of last week excepting Saturday night, by Rev. A. F. Simmons, of Lake City.

W. H. Soper received a brand new billiard table last Sunday. He informed us that he will soon put in a new pool table also.

We have been informed that E. C. Stiekel, landlord of the Lake hotel, will soon erect a new business house near the hotel.

Fleming Brothers, the enterprising merchants, have just received a $400 cash register to be used in their large General Merchandise store.

Don't fail to attend the farewell dance next Saturday night after the Moving Picture Show, to be given in honor of Miss Mabel Patterson.

Dr. O'Conner, the dentist, who has been here for sometime, left last Tuesday. The Doctor is a first class dentist and has given the best of satisfaction. He will return to New Pine Creek in a couple of months.

Prof. Charles F. Volk has resigned as leader of the New Pine Creek band and has moved to Davis Creek to lead the band there. He will also conduct a barber shop and a soft drink and ice cream parlor. Success to you, Prof.

Miss Isabelle Knapp, of Washington, D. C., arrived here last Saturday. Miss Knapp will spend the summer with Dr. and Mrs. Patterson. She is a graduate of the Garfield Memorial Training School for nurses at the Capital City.

J. Todd Bonner tried his hand at sign painting. He has just finished a sign, "Post Office, New Pine Creek, Lake Co., Oregon," for Postmaster Wendt, which was done in such a manner as to put some of those sign painters in the shade.

F. E. Projade, the Jeweler, has leased a lot south of Carl Adeen's Billiard and Pool Rooms, and will build on it at once. He will carry a line of Jewellery, Watches, Clocks and also will do all kinds of repair work. This will make three new business houses to go up this summer.

The stage barn here exchanged hands last week. A. H. Mulkey sold his interest to Omer Hammersley. The stage company can congratulate themselves for getting Mr. Hammersley who has handled the stage horses for several years as driver and will no doubt give the best of satisfaction in the barn.

Corwin Vinyard, our popular blacksmith and all around machinist is making several improvements about his shop, and is installing one of the very latest Shoeing Forges, the Champion No. 400. He has also ordered several new tools. He has just received a large shipment of Peter Schuttler and Mandt wagons, also buggies, hacks and all kinds of farming implements. Mr. Vinyard is one of those wide awake business men who believes in buying nothing but the very best. And whenever he turns out a piece of work you may rest assured that it is done in a good substantial manner.

TOBACCO IN THE ARCTIC.

Resource of Miners When They Can Neither Chew Nor Smoke.

"When the wind is blowing thirty miles an hour and the temperature is 40 below it is some cold," said a man from Alaska. "If a man used tobacco in the ordinary way out of doors during such weather and got his lips wet through smoking a pipe or chewing he would be apt to get into trouble. First thing he knew he'd have his lips cracked, and they would be raw all winter long."

"The regulars stationed at the military posts up in Alaska found that if they tied a tobacco leaf in their armpit previous to undesired duty they would become very sick and could pass the post surgeon for hospital, getting rid of detail work they wanted to avoid."

"The miners up there learned something of this and found that the tobacco craving could be satisfied by binding a quantity of the leaf either in the armpit or against the solar plexus. This avoided broken and bleeding lips during the winter, and they weren't prevented from smoking indoors as well if they wanted to. It was the outdoor smoking or chewing that made all the trouble."—New York Sun.

Way to Treat Venison.

The sportsman was explaining to a few of his uninitiated friends.

"If you don't like venison," he said, "it is because it has not been prepared properly. I think I know the kind you have tried to eat, and I agree with you it is not fit. After the deer has been shot the carcass probably has been allowed to lie around until the blood has discolored the meat and really has almost tainted it. Few hunters dress their game carefully enough. As soon as a deer is killed the carcass should be thoroughly bled, skinned, the entrails removed and the meat hung up in the dry air for some hours. Thorough and prompt bleeding is of the utmost importance. Venison prepared in this way is comparatively light in color—that is, it is a clear, bright red, and the fat is white and clean. There is no strong, rank taste."—New York Press.

ARTISTS' EMBLEMS.

In Whistler's Butterfly Could Be Found the Monogram J. W.

The mystic emblem or device of a sort of Whistlerized butterfly was adopted in the sixties by the eccentric genius James Abbott Whistler, who changed his name later to James McNeill Whistler.

Close study will reveal that this peculiar scroll is really a monogram of J. W. The earliest of the etchings to bear the butterfly is "Chelsea Wharf" (1883), but many paintings and etchings after that date are signed "Whistler."

Artists have sometimes signed their pictures in some distinct form instead of their names. It generally was done when the name might suggest some emblem or symbol.

Thus Hieronymus Cock demarked two fighting cocks on his panels; Mariotto Albertinelli signed a cross with two interlaced rings, referring to the sacerdotal duties to which at one time of his life he devoted himself; Martin Rota, a wheel; Pieter de Ryng, a ring with a diamond; Giovanni Dossi, a bone; Del Mazo Martinez, a hammer; Lionello Spada, a sword.

Sometimes caprice dictated the selection, as when Jacopo de Barberi used the caduceus, or Mercury rod; Hendrik de Bles an owl; Lucas Cranach a crowned serpent; Cornelius Engelbrechtsen a peculiar device resembling a weather vane and Hans Holbein a skull.

HIS GREAT IDEA.

The Tin Plated Tomato and the Moral That Goes With It.

A good theory that won't work isn't half as good as a poor one that will. Twenty years ago a young man just out of college had a great idea. He was going to tin plate tomatoes. There was to be no more troublesome paring and cooking and canning to preserve tomatoes throughout winters. It would be necessary only to drop a nice ripe tomato into his tinning solution and it would come out coated with tin and would keep for twenty years. In fact, there wasn't any reason why it should not keep forever! The young inventor figured it would cost him 50 cents a gallon to make this tinning solution. It surely would sell for $2 a gallon. Every one eats tomatoes—that is, nearly every one. Everybody would eat them if they could always have a nice tin plated tomato lying around. He ought to sell a million gallons a year. That would be a profit of a million and a half dol.—Well, no tin plated tomatoes are on the market yet, and the man who invented them is still making only $15 a week.

The moral of this is that whenever you hear of a great idea that is going to reform or uplift the world make sure that it is not of the tin plated tomato brand.—Chicago Tribune

A Lottery Romance.

A few years ago, as the date for the drawing of the annual Christmas lottery at Madrid was approaching, a poor mechanic of Corunna was awakened three consecutive nights by the number 125,803, apparently spoken in his ear. So impressed was he by the repetition of the number that he wrote down the number and jocularly said to his wife, "That number will win the first prize in the great lottery." "Then why don't you buy the ticket?" his wife answered jokingly as she looked at the figures. "Why, see, if you add them together they just come to my age. I shall be thirty-one on Christmas day." The ticket, after much trouble, was found it had been rejected a few minutes earlier by a wealthy citizen of Corunna and bought, and before many days had passed the mechanic and his wife were made jubilant by the news that the ticket had won the first prize of £200,000.—London Globe.

The Red Shirt.

The origin of the "red shirt"—worn as a blouse by English women in the sixties, when Garibaldi was a popular idol throughout Great Britain—is sufficiently curious. When the celebrated filibuster was warring in the South American republics he was anxious to obtain a distinctive and, above all, economical uniform for his followers. He learned that a local dry goods store had an immense "job lot" of these garments, worn by the "saladeros," or cattle slaughterers, of the great South American cities. The "bargain sale" appealed eloquently to the leader's purse, and he led his men to victory in the butchers' shirts, which are now the accepted emblem of the "risorgimento" of United Italy.—London Globe.

A Little Temperance Tragedy.

"Don't drink any more, John. You've got too much already."
"No, I haven't."
"Yes, you have, and you'll be drunk again."
"Aw, what do you want to worry about that for? It's me that has the headache next morning."
"I know, John, but it's me that has the headache all the time."—New York Times.

The Price of Love.

Says an advertisement in the London Express: "Mary—waited three hours at appointed spot until questioned by suspicious policeman. If this is the price of love it is too heavy a one for me to pay. Farewell, Potts."

Time and Patience.

No road is too long for him who advances slowly and does not hurry, and no attainment is beyond his reach who equips himself with patience to achieve it.—La Bruyere.

Davis Creek Items

Vincent Robbins is improving rapidly.

The recent storms have delayed plowing.

Geo. Whorton passed through Monday on his way to Alturas to meet his wife who has been in California during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Volk have moved down from New Pine Creek. Mr. Volk has rented a building and has opened up a barber shop.

T. F. Dunaway, General Manager of the N.-C.-O. railroad, and W. H. O'Neil, of Reno, accompanied J. F. Hansen to Lakeview, Thursday.

John Davis was this week in from his sheep camp on the West Side and reports lambing season over. He had a good crop of lambs and his sheep are doing fine.

H. Francisco, of Laws, Calif., accompanied J. F. Hansen, Superintendent of Construction, over the N.-C.-O. extension as far north as Davis Creek. Mr. Francisco is a contractor and can put a large force on at once. The report came here that he has signed a contract for six miles.

Revenge.

"Stop!" The brakes of the motor were suddenly applied, a pandemonium of whirling wheels ensued, and the motorist came face to face with Constable Coppem, who had been hiding in the hedge.

"Excuse me, sir," said the portly policeman, taking out his notebook and pencil, "but you exceeded the speed limit by two miles over a measured piece of road."

"I have done nothing of the kind," retorted the motorist, "and, besides"—
"Well, if you don't believe me I'll call the sergeant, 'bain' as it was 'im as took the time. He's in the pigsty yonder."

"Don't trouble, Robert," the other hastened to reply. "I would sooner pay fifty fines than disturb the sergeant at his meals."—London Answers.

Shearing Plants

The sheep shearing corrals and dipping vats at Camas Prairie are now in first class order. During the shearing season the corrals will be in charge of the sheepmen. ROSA McDANIEL.

My corrals on the West Side are now ready for the sheep shearing season, and I have a dipping plant in connection. Will have a good crew and superintend the work myself.

JOE AMBROSE.

John D. Rockefeller would go broke if he should spend his entire income trying to prepare a better medicine than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is simply impossible, and so says every one that has used it. Sold by all good dealers.
