BUCKAROOS KILLED --HORSES UNHURT

Klamath Herald: Early accounts of the accident which cost E. E. Deisenroth and Charles Williams their lives when they were thrown from their horses on the Prather ranch on Sunday last has prove to have been incorrect.

Lee Doten, the third horseman who was with the duo of trainers when they met their end, not only saw the accident at a short distance, but afterwards went over the ground to demonstrate the facts.

The tragedy occurred at 9:20 o'clock Sunday morning. The three men had had breakfast, and were starting out on their horses to do some work when a race down the lane was begun between the two afterwards killed. They were soon well ahead of Doten, and did not know that a woven wire fence had been placed across the end of the lane. Their horses were tame, but one man was trying to speed past the other, and turned to call to him in exaltation as he came alongside. Thus the attention of both was distracted for a time from ahead, where the fatal fence stretched across the road.

The first horse, as soon as he saw the fence, tried to stop by "planting" all fours, but slid into the fence at terrific speed, tearing six or eight fenceposts out of the ground and throwing his rider a great distance. The second horse was tripped by the broken fence, and this caused his rider to meet a like fate. Both men were thrown so as to land on their heads, and the impact was much as though they had been knocked senseless by sand bags, there being no fracture of the skull of either victim, but concussion of the brain resulted instantly to both men from the awful collision.

A great cloud of dust obscured the view of the collision from Doten, who was behind. When he came upon the havoc wrought by the smash he was astounded. Help was secured and the injured men removed to the ranch house near by, from which George Manning, brother of Attorney Horace M. Manning of this city, had a phone message sent to the lawyer for medical assistance.

Dr. George H. Merriman went from this city to attend the injured men, as did also Mrs. J. E. Taylor, a nurse. Dr. Campbell, who lives near the ranch which is five miles from Mount Hebron, was also called in on the case, as were two other physicians, but all the skill offered availed nothing, and the men never regained consciousness. Deisenroth dying at 4:20 o'clock Wednesday morning and his companion seven hours later.

Neither man was married. Mothers of both are living Mrs. Deisenroth and another son coming from Alturas by auto to the bedside of her boy, but the mother of Williams lives at Burns, about 180 miles from the Prather ranch, too far away to be reached in time. Williams, aged 27 years, was a partner of Geo. Manning, and he and Deisenroth, aged 22 years, were both expert horse breakers. They were both steady, sober young men.

A strange feature of the accident is that neither horse was materially injured by the accident. Marks on the saddle of one of the horses and a gash in its body showed that it probably landed on its back. But when Doten got up to the fence the horses were up and running around.

Local people have had considerable occasion for complaint in the past over the way in which freight shipments were being held at Alturas, after being unloaded from the N.-C.-O. This matter will cause no trouble in the future, as the goods are now being shipped as far north as Davis Creek, and the freighters have a correspondingly shorter distance to haul and are in a position to make more trips and prevent a congestion of freight at the warehouse.
