DR. J. G. LYMAN IS STILL IN JAIL

No Crime For An Arrested Person to Escape From Jail

A technical legal question upon which no direct decisions are found in the law books was raised by Attorney L. R. Webster in the case of Dr. Grant Lyman before the Federal Judge Bean, says the Oregonian.

Summoned before the court on a warrant of removal to California Dr. Lyman is accused of conspiring to aid and abet his own escape. Attorney Webster argued that it is not a crime for an arrested person to escape and therefore it cannot be illegal for him to conspire and abet his own escape.

Deputy United States District Attorney Evans and Johnson, while acknowledging that the escape was not a crime, maintained that it was a crime for Lyman to conspire with others to escape. Both sides submitted briefs on the question and Judge Bean announced that he would try to decide the question Monday morning.

Big Trip, Little Car

J. R. Connelly and L. L. Bolen arrived here last week in a Liberty Bush runabout from Minneapolis, making the distance of 3,800 miles in seven weeks. This is at the rate of 77 miles a day and considering they stopped many days at points of interest on the trip it is remarkable.

The young men's route was through Yellowstone Park, Spokane and Burns to this place. They report no accidents on the way and that they had only three or four punctures in one tire.

NELS JEPSON PUTS IT OVER OPPONENT

Lakeview Wrestler Wins Over Washington "Strangler"

Nels Jepson, a former well known resident of Lakeview, is gaining quite a reputation as a wrestler, his latest match having been won at Cathlamet, Wash. Chris Lanzlet has received a copy of a paper containing the following account of the match:

The wrestling match pulled off last Saturday night at Daumit's hall between Nels Jepson of Cathlamet and Strangler Smith of Portland was one of the best from a scientific standpoint yet seen in our town. The match was for the best two in three falls, the struggle held barred, and was hard fought for the last fall. Fred A. Olson of Clinton, who rates as quite a mat artist himself, was selected to referee the event, with Dr. Clarke and Max Trimble as official timekeepers.

Strangler Smith worked hard to get his opponent into various holds, but Jepson was too strong for him and invariably broke away from any hold that Strangler would fasten upon him, and finally had the Strangler upon the defensive. After 25 minutes wrestling Jepson secured a neck hold upon the Strangler and brought this shoulders to the mat, the Strangler acknowledging his defeat by putting his opponent upon the back while still in his clutch.

After a ten minute rest the second fall was called for. Immediately when the men took their places Strangler threw a strangle hold upon Jepson and, though ordered by the referee to break, he refused and was at once disqualified and the match awarded to Jepson.

Following this match some scientific wrestling was engaged in by Strangler Smith and Howard Miller, twenty minutes. The Strangler here demonstrated that he was well up in the points of the game, and that he could have thrown Miller at most any juncture was admitted by all in attendance. One of the largest crowds yet seen at a wrestling match here was in attendance.

The Last Chapter

The final chapter in the famous Warner valley land litigation is drawing rapidly to a close, and in a few more months it will have passed into history. During the past week Attorney General A. M. Crawford has been here putting the last finishing touches on the case and assisting the settlers in getting their titles straightened out. In a number of instances payment was made to the local U. S. Land Office under the pre-emption act for lands which the Government has been unable to convey title, and now that title has been secured from the State, application is being made for the return of the money paid Uncle Sam.

Truly Answered.

Boats trading in the Medway in former years rejoiced in rather curious names, and the following was only one of the many amusing incidents resulting from this:

A boat named What's That to You? passing a lockyard at night-time was hailed as usual by the coast guardsmen.

"Boat ahoy! Your captain's name?" "Captain X." "And what are you laden with?" "Coal." "Where bound for?" "Chatham." "Ship's name?" "What's That to You?" "I asked you the name of the ship." "What's That to You?" "You shall be reported for your insolence!" roared the coast guardsmen. Again he put the question, and, receiving the same reply, the boat was commanded to remain where she was.

In the morning two boats were seen keeping guard. The officials, as they boarded the vessel with full authority to seize the offenders, observed for the first time the name painted in large letters. Amid the laughter and jeers of the crew of the What's That to You? they pulled moodily away.—London Telegraph.

Political Passions of 1844.

There were elements of picturesque-ness and drama in the politics of the before the war time which are lacking nowadays. Marion Harland tells in her autobiography of a Whig rally which makes the political meetings of today seem tame, cut and dried affairs. It was in 1844, the year of Clay's defeat, and feeling ran high. At that particular time John Tyler was perhaps the most unpopular man in the Union. In the progress of his review of national affairs the orator at last came to the hated name. Instantly arose the majestic figure of Captain Cook, the local seecentric, clad in the scarlet English hunting coat he invariably wore. "The Lord have mercy upon the nation!" he cried, his voice solemn with wrath and sonority with the misty jeers for which the Bell was noted. "Fellow citizens, I always cry to high heaven for mercy upon this country when John Tyler's name is mentioned! Amen and amen!"

The Effects.

"I have come to you, my friend, for comfort. My best girl has treated me very badly. I was trying to explain something to her, but she gave me such sharp looks they cut me to the heart; she withdrew me with her scorn, crushed me with her coldness and stabbed me with her keen edged tongue."

"See here, man, you oughtn't to come to me for comfort. What you need is to go to a hospital for treatment."—Baltimore Herald.

Did They "Hock" Them.

"In the olden days they had no watches, you know," said the father. "And how did they tell the time?" asked the son.

"By sundials," said the young man, feeling of his watchless chain, "how much could a fellow get on a sundial do you suppose?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Certainly Helpful.

Optimist—Ah! It is exhilarating our illusions that keeps us young. Pessimist—Yes, but only if we cling to the illusion that we are still young.

It is a maxim that no man was ever enslaved by influence while he was fit to be free.—Johnson.

TWO DEER IN ONE SEASON ENOUGH

Such Is The Opinion of Commissioner Stone of Klamath

State Fish and Game Commissioner G. F. Stone tells the Oregonian that five deer are entirely too many for one man to be allowed to kill in one season and recommends that the limit be cut down to two. Mr. Stone is a member of the Klamath Rod and Gun Club and this was one of the amendments to the state game laws the club attempted to get through the last session of the Oregon legislature but owing to the press of other matters Senator Merriman, of this district, was unable to get the matter to the attention of the solons. The Oregonian says:

"That the Oregon game laws, which permits hunters to kill five deer in one season, ought to read 'two deer,' was the opinion expressed yesterday by G. F. Stone, attorney, of Klamath Falls, and member of the Oregon Fish and Game Commission. Mr. Stone reports that deer in the vicinity of Klamath Falls are especially numerous this year.

"Five deer in one season are more than one hunter ought to be permitted to kill," said Mr. Stone. "It is not only the slaughter of so large a number that ought to be prevented, but the hunting that is necessary in order to kill two or three deer even so frightens the animals that they are driven to new feeding grounds. Also five deer furnish more meat than one hunter can use for himself or family during a single season. The reduction of the number would also have the effect of stopping the killing of deer to be sold."

A Good Position

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute of Portland, Ore., operates under supervision of R. K. and wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details.
