ceilings, and, upon its third floor with the massive size of the auditorium. The work as far as it is completed is of a character entirely fitting for a first class job. It has been carefully and substantially done, with nothing of the make shift-order, as one so often sees in a job done under contract. When the reporter visited the building, Tuesday, only a few men were to be seen, the continued damp weather of the past ten days being responsible, the plasterers and painters having been laid off for the reason that the walls would not dry, and the woodwork was also affected by the damp weather so that it interfered with the painting.

The 11,000-pound heater is in place in the basement, and Robert Baldwin, the plumber, is rapidly putting things in shape for the heating of the building, which will have the effect of drying the walls, so that the plastering and painting can be done and the carpenters can put on the finishing touches on the window frames and doors. There is probably a month's work ahead to complete the entire building, which will then be ready for occupancy.

Besides the rooms for ordinary school work there are rooms in the basement for a boy's gymnasium, for mechanics and for domestic science and art work. When completed the town will have a high school building that will be a credit to Lakeview.

Beginners' Class

A beginners' class will be organized in the primary grade of the Lakeview schools on Monday morning, January 22. The parents of all children of an age suitable to begin their school life are invited to send the little ones to school at that time so that they may make an even start with the others. Miss Hall, the teacher, is anxious to have as large a class as possible of these beginners.

Revival Meetings

At the Sunday evening services Rev. M. T. Wire, pastor of the M. E. Church announced that a series of revival meetings would begin at that church next Sunday evening, to last at least two weeks, at which time he expected to give way for similar services at the Baptist church. Mr. Wire urged all of the members of the church to dedicate themselves to a thorough preparation for the success of this series of meetings by prayer and supplication to the throne of the Heavenly grace.

Grand Time at Plush

The people of Plush and Warner Valley had a glorious time of it the latter part of last week, beginning with an all night dance Friday and another Saturday night. The people of the valley were so unanimously present at the affair that three men left at home did the chores for three ranches. All were happy, and reports brought by parties who were present are to the effect that all had a glorious time.

ALTURAS PLEASED WITH CELEBRATION

Plaindealer Opines That Good Feeling Will Be Intensified

R. A. French, of the Alturas Plaindealer, gives a most excellent account of Railroad Day in Lakeview, and in conclusion says:

"If any in Lakeview went hungry on Sunday they must have been well hidden. I have attended dinners, luncheons and banquets in a great many places on many festive occasions, but when it comes to the genuine Western hospitality banquet, combined with all the good things to eat in the eating line, I take off my hat to the Ladies of Lakeview. We wish they would give such a banquet every week and give us an invitation.

"Modoc county was well represented at the celebration as was evidenced by the fact that on the first train into Lakeview, out of about 125 passengers, fully 105 were from Modoc. In fact had it been summer instead of winter the first train would scarcely have held the crowd of Modoc Boosters who would have gone to join hands with Lakeview in the grand celebration.

"One of the most enjoyable parts of the entertainments was the music rendered by the Lakeview Band. The boys certainly did their parts toward making the celebration the grand success it was. They played morning, noon and night and were always ready to play one more selection, or a dozen if by so doing they could add pleasure to their visitors.

"The people of Lake county, Oregon, may well be proud of their Railroad Day. There was not a thing to mar the perfect harmony of the occasion. There was absolutely no disorder, rowdiness or disturbance and good fellowship reigned supreme.

"Now that Lakeview and Alturas are linked with "Bonds of Steel" we trust that the good feeling which already exists will be intensified, and that the two towns will work in harmony for the development and progress of this northern country.

"In conclusion the people of Modoc, through the medium of the Plaindealer, send congratulations to Lakeview with many thanks for your splendid hospitality and entertainment.

Pleasing Quarters

The county jail is empty of occupants, and has been in that condition for almost three months. The sign which greets the passerby on the south side of the court house, "No talking through these windows" has no significance now and might as well be taken down. It is a good jail, too, but it might as well be rented out by the county, to bring in some revenue. The jail room is about 25x35 feet in dimensions, and being steam heated would ordinarily be worth at least $15 a month, as rooms rent in the town. The people of the county are so law-abiding that the county seldom has any use for the room in which to consign law-breakers. It is located in the basement story of the court house, and has a slightly view from its windows on the south and west fronts, of the beautiful courtyard and residences opposite, and is really an attractive place, for persons who have no aversion to living in a jail.

Huntington—better known as Miss Kitten Fine will be interested to know that she has resumed her theatrical work again, which was interrupted by her marriage and trip abroad two years ago. Miss Fine, known professionally as Marjorie Held is departing from San Francisco with her own company in her own act written for her by H. D. Cottrell, over the vaudeville circuit to the East, where she will be seen in a strong play, upon the legitimate boards, later on appearing in it on this Coast. Miss Held has received the most flattering notices from the press wherever she has appeared, for her work, her beauty, and her magnificent dressing.

D. V. KUYKENDALL AGAIN IN THE FIELD

Prosecuting Attorney Announces Candidacy for Second Term

Klamath Chronicle: Prosecuting Attorney D. V. Kuykendall has formally announced his candidacy for re-nomination to the office of district attorney of Klamath and Lake counties, which he has already occupied for three years and a half. Mr. Kuykendall was elected in 1908, defeating W. J. Moore of Lakeview, democrat. During that period, Mr. Kuykendall has handled an enormous volume of criminal cases in both counties. There have been several appeals from convictions secured by him, but not a single instance was a reversal secured.

Mr. Kuykendall has all the qualities of a brilliant prosecutor. In the first place he is a learned lawyer and possesses the quality, so aptly lauded, in the phrase, "the infinite capacity for taking pains." He is a skillful and penetrating cross examiner and readily grasps the salient features of his case, and as quickly detects the vulnerable points in the armor of his adversary. His methods of marshalling his testimony and vividly placing it before a jury, has been recognized, ever since he became prosecuting attorney, and has won the admiration of lawyers and jurists, whose experience and disinterestedness in forming and conceding merit where merit is due, are acknowledged.

Mr. Kuykendall possesses other qualities which every prosecuting attorney should be endowed with, as an eagerness to undertake the relentless pursuit of evil doers and the calm firmness to lay bare wrong doing in all its nakedness. These aggressive characteristics of the incumbent prosecuting attorney have contributed, in a large measure, to make this and Lake counties warm places for violation of the law and have helped to embrace, in a large measure, the comparative immunity from serious crime, which this section now enjoys.

FIRE DEPARTMENT IS BADLY NEEDED

Town Entitled to Better Protection From Prospective Blazes

That the citizens of Lakeview are possessed of a commendable amount of public spirit or civic pride has been abundantly proven on too many occasions to leave any doubt on the mind of any observer of events in this town. Its people take pride in their fine common schools, their splendid high school building, their public institutions, in putting the streets in good condition, in their water works and their fine drinking water, and in matters tending to promote the growth and beautifying of the city, and in its economic and honest management. But there is one matter that has been seemingly entirely forgotten or neglected—and that is the organization of an efficient and workable Fire Department. This was made painfully evident at the unfortunate fire which occurred Saturday evening.

Here was an occasion which demonstrated that there was an absence of systematic endeavor. Young men were easily found who possessed public spirit and foresight enough to man the hosecarts and pull them for a quarter of a mile through the slush and snowy streets to the scene of devastation, and to work like Trojans after they got there until the last bit of flame was subdued; but every one present could see that what was done was "by main strength and awkwardness," rather than by real systematic effort that anything worth while was accomplished.

It is unnecessary to say that this condition of affairs ought not to continue for a day. What seems to be required in a proper appreciation of that fact that to be an active fireman is a hazardous and self-sacrificing occupation for any citizen; but it is absolutely necessary for the safety or security of every city or town that men be found who are willing to give of their time and talents, and often to sacrifice their health and sometimes their lives, that the public safety may be assured from the ravages of the fire fiend. And those who do this should be fittingly rewarded—not necessarily in the form of money, but in such a manner as that they may feel that their labors are properly appreciated by their fellow citizens and the property owners in general. Above all there should be a fire chief whose orders must be implicitly obeyed.

If a fire breaks out it is always a time of excitement, and a cool head is at that moment worth a hundred of those who are carried away by nervous agitation of the moment. He must be able to inspire those who act under him with confidence and the spirit of loyal support in carrying out his plans and orders. Where property and oftentimes life is at stake the fireman should be inspired with the spirit that in times of emergency makes heroes of men.

To organize an efficient department a company ought to be organized for the manning of each hosecart. The men ought to be furnished uniforms and such appliances as are needed. They should be exempted from jury duty, and be given consideration fitting to the sacrifices they make for the public welfare. They should be encouraged in every way possible to perfect themselves in the manipulation of the fire apparatus, for the expert coupling of hose and for taking care of the fire apparatus. If these things are not done, sooner or later we may wish they had been done.

Good progress is being made on the big N.-C.-O. warehouse, and it will be ready to use all freight, either incoming or outgoing.
