The peculiar legislation involving the development of immigration schemes in this state have kept the movement effectively tied up. The State Immigration Board created under an obselete law which Governor W st has revived, has power to act. Another act created the $25,000 fund and the other legislation had to do with a State Immigration Agent. At the same time none of the money was to be spent save with the approval of the Oregon Development League.

Now all this maze of legislation and the various functionaries will be able to get together and accomplish something. Chapman has wired Judge Burke, at Baker, asking him when he can come to Portland for a preliminary meeting to start organization plans.

M'HARG IS ON THE JOB

His work for Roosevelt will not get much support in this state.

The news that Ormsby McHarg is one of the Roosevelt managers and is going through the country organizing a following for the Oyster Bay candidate will not be received with entire approbation by people of Oregon.

They will remember that it was this same Ormsby McHarg who came to Oregon just a few short years ago and did everything in his power to induce members of the State Legislature to violate their most solemn pledges to the people by refusing to support statement No. 1.

At that time Ormsby McHarg was evidently not so much of a progressive West Virginia, Michigan, lowa and as he has become in this campaign. Mr. Dixon's manifesto also seems to be ill-considered when he says that Mr. Taft must rely for his support in the Chicago convention upon delegates from the south and those possibly of the east and north when direct primaries do not prevail, but where the party machine is dominant. Just what states Mr. Dixon believes are convention ridden, would be hard to say. Delegates will be chosen by direct vote in Maine, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Possibly also in Maryland and New Hampshire. The only northern states east of the Missouri river clinging to the convention system are Rhode Island, Connecticutt, Vermont, Delaware,
