TO EXPERIMENT ON GROWING CORN

During the past few weeks Senator Bourne and others of the Oregon delegation in Washington have been agitating the planting of corn for experimental purposes in this state, urging the government's agricultural bureau to supply suitable varieties and aid the farmers in these tests. The plan has met with approval generally and it is now expected that the move will gain wide endorsement. In this connection the Washington State Agricultural college, at Pullman, has issued some data on seed corn which might be of interest to those contemplating taking. While the data is gained from experience at Pullman where conditions are not just as ours are the climate is practically the same as here and the soils and general conditions will be found about on an equality. Following are the salient points from this data, given in a bulletin, issued by the Pullman station:

For a number of years two varieties of field corn have been grown on the State Experiment State at Pullman. These are known as Thayer yellow dent and Windsor white dent. Both are used for silage and for grain. The yellow variety is from ten days to two weeks earlier than the white dent. Following the general rule the later corn produces a heavier growth than the earlier.

Windsor white dent corn generally ripens up well on the Station farm. As this soil and climate are typical of the Palouse country, without doubt this variety of corn is a safe one for the farmer to plant especially if the crop is intended for the silo. In sections of shorter season, or if grain is desired, it would be safer to plant the yellow variety.

Codling Moth
Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., March 16.—In order to find out just what is the best time to make the second spray for the control of the codling moth, Prof. H. F. Wilson of the entomology department of the Oregon Agricultural College will make a tour of Southern Oregon and other points the coming summer. About two weeks after the first calyx spray of the apple trees he plans to visit consecutively Roseburg, Medford, Ashland, Portland, Hood River, Union, Ontario then Astoria and Coos Bay.

On Wednesday, March 20, Prof. Wilson speaks at Astoria before the fruit growers of that region, in company with Horticultural Commissioner A. C. Goodrich of Yamhill, and will at that time investigate any fruit pests in the district.

"It is the greatest help that any progressive farmer could possibly get," says Charles Johnson, Jr., of North Inlet, of the O.A.C. dairy short course.

Stop Emigration
In a letter addressed to President Taft, the National Council of Dublin has appealed for rigid enforcement of American laws as a means of preventing further depopulation of Ireland by emigration.

The Council declares that Ireland has lost nearly half its people within the last 60 years "by unnecessary and abnormal emigration," and that the obliteration of the Irish nation actually is threatened.

It is asserted the British Government views this prospect with "complacency or satisfaction." "Irish emigration," the letter says, "is directed largely to the United States, and it is estimated that one-third of the people who leave the country travel on tickets purchased for them by residents of the United States, in violation of the law."

Gray to Be President
Notwithstanding repeated denials from Louis W. Hill that he is contemplating resignation from the presidency of the Great Northern Railroad, the information was given out at St. Paul through private sources that Carl R. Gray is to be made president of the Great Northern on May 1.

Mr. Gray is president of the Hill lines in Oregon, having come to Portland from the Frisco line at St. Louis to succeed John F. Stevens who built the Oregon Trunk line for the Hill interests, and he is now in St. Paul.

That Louis Hill will devote his time to the colonization of Central Oregon is believed to be the program he has mapped out, but which he is not ready to announce, judging from the fact that he has denied the truth of the various rumors to the effect that he would resign.

It is stated that the Southern Pacific Railroad Co., has made public its intentions of extending its line from Klamath Falls to Natron and contracts for the work will be let immediately after May 1.

PARCEL POST IS GETTING SWATTED

(Washington correspondence by Fred T. Lottin.)
Eight thousand people gave Speaker Clark a birthday ovation here March 7.

John Patrick, a farmer, near Dayton, Wash., says: "I was in favor of Parcel Post but I was induced into a marriage by mail and have concluded this is a delusion and an error."

Some overture advocates are debating as to whom, if Parcel Post be installed, eggs laid by hen passengers will belong.

More than 1000 merchants in session at Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 26-28, as the Southern Merchants Association, signed remonstrances against Parcel Post.

President Taft recommends co-operation of the commercial organizations of the country with the department of Commerce and Labor. This outgrowth of the recent convention of the National Board of Trade has been favorably received. The administration may try to reconcile this interest in local commercial and industrial developments with its activity to delete these for the gain of large retail mail-order centers.

Most of these commercial organizations maintain traffic bureaus to prevent injurious transportation of merchandise by the Government hundreds of miles at the same rates as to be charged their local industries for a few miles would thwart location of factories and wither industrial growth; that this unfair and dishonest scheme is engineered by huge retail mail-order combines, enlisting officials with campaign contributions.

Journals supported by advertising of retail mail-order houses and others who "farm the farmers," have urged farmers to write congressmen in behalf of Parcel Post March 18. The average advocate begins by repeating John Wanamaker, mail-order magnate, that the only objections to Parcel Post are the four principal express companies. The retail mail-order house lobby would indicate four great arguments in its favor: Sears, Roebuck & Co., the combination of twelve big retail mail-order houses of New York represented here; and Larkin & Co. The last named firm has just sent urgent telegrams to congressmen.

Favor Taft
Alaskans are taking unusual interest in the forthcoming presidential election. President Taft is the general favorite, because of the honest desire he has evinced to clarify the situation in the North. The people of Alaska are nearly all of them opposed to Theodore Roosevelt because of his fondness for the so-called Pinchot policies. They believe that Alaska has the best year ahead of it in its history and if given half a chance will forge to the front wonderfully. So confident is the Alaska Steamship company of this fact that it has added two new vessels to its fleet. Unless the unforeseen occurs, there will be a notable rush to the Far North this year.

John W. Sichelamith, Greensboro, Pa., has three children, and like most children they frequently take cold. "We have tried several kinds of cough medicine," he says, "but have never found any yet that did them as much good as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." For sale by all dealers.

STATE FURNISHED EXHIBIT SPACE

Oregon will show from 150,000 to 200,000 people a big display of her products at the Northwestern Products Exposition to be held in Minneapolis November 12 to 23.

Governor West has received word from the officers of the Northwest Development League that the Civic and Commerce Association of Minneapolis has agreed to a deal whereby this state will be furnished exhibit space for its official display without cost to the Products Exposition. The business interests of Minneapolis are also erecting a great exposition building as a home for this exposition of northwest products. The show will be given under the auspices of the League as the Land Show was in St. Paul last year and it will be the only exposition of the kind furnishing space for the official state exhibit free.

At a cost of $15,000 the business interests of Minneapolis and St. Paul have bought from the league the space necessary for the states and each of the seven will have a booth built for their exhibits fifty feet long and ten feet wide with a backwall twelve by fifty feet.

The governor has been asked to confer with officers of the league in this state and secure the interest of those who are capable of collecting and installing an exhibit which will be a credit to the state. The governor will probably appoint a commission to assist state officers in the work. Under this plan no county nor community will have an advantage over others in the state. Any city, county or reputable land company desiring to make an independent exhibit will be able to secure a limited amount of space adjoining the state exhibit on reasonable terms.

The seven states are to be thus represented are: Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

OREGON STILL HAS MUCH LAND LEFT

Oregon still has a total area of 275,943 acres of public lands withdrawn from all form of entry and unclassified. Of this area 3521 acres are withdrawn on account of coal, 74,849 acres as oil lands, 178,389 acres on account of power sites, and 16,884 acres as reservoir sites. The total classifications and restorations to date have been as follows: Coal lands 189,041 acres; power sites, 22,847 acres. A total of 600 acres have been restored to the public domain from the forest reserves. On July 13, 1910, 23,826 acres in the former Siletz Indian reservation were withdrawn for classification in addition to the above withdrawals.

The foregoing figures are made the substance of a letter from Acting Secretary of the Interior Adams in response to a congressional inquiry, and are corrected to January 31, 1912. The present date of classification of coal lands is approximately 100,000,000 acres per annum. At this rate the withdrawals now outstanding, amounting to something over 70,000,000 acres, would be classified and restored to entry in seven years if no more was withdrawn. The Acting Secretary estimates, however, that on account of further withdrawals it will not be possible to classify this area completely in less than ten years. As fast as classified the coal lands are subject to entry under the Mondell Act of June 22, 1910, and the coal listed for disposition under the coal land laws at prices fixed by agents of the Government on a per-ton basis.

MORE WORK, BETTER WORK, AND EASIER

In a commercial sense, the employer is interested in the quantity and quality of the output of his typists. It is evident, too, that it is to the best interest of the operator that each day shall show a satisfactory amount of work well done.

Therefore, both employer and operator find in a sure means to a desired end. This exclusive feature of the Monarch Typewriter results in more work because the Monarch is so much easier to operate than other typewriters—less physical energy is required. The work is uniformly better because the operator is not hampered by "Three O'Clock Fatigue," and finishes fresh right up to closing time.
