CANADIAN IMMIGRATION SERIOUS

Portland Telegram: The American emigration into Canada which Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern pointed out in yesterday's Telegram, as such a serious menace to the upbuilding of the Northwestern states, has, as a matter of fact, reached alarming proportions, and there seems to be no end to it.

Not only are thousands of practical farmers from the great agricultural states of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan and others being drawn across the international boundary through inducements of low rates and cheap lands, but they are pouring millions of dollars of good Yankee money into the Canadian coffers.

The movement fortunately, has not gained any appreciable strength from the farming districts of Oregon and Washington, showing that once the new settlers are brought here from the East they become permanent and productive citizens, but where the situation does affect this region is that the Canadian provinces of Alberta Saskatchewan and British Columbia are drawing heavily in new population from the very portions of the United States where the Western railroads of America are spending fortunes in advertising and exploitation and from which Oregon and Washington would naturally derive most of its new population.

Statistics received here a few days ago by Frank R. Johnson, general agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, showed that on March 1, the initial day of the present Spring colonist rate season, there were on route to the Western Canadian provinces 32 solid train loads of immigrant movables, all of which had passed through the Winnipeg and St. Paul gateways. A great bulk of this enormous movement had originated in the Eastern states of this country.

"Our figures show," said Mr. Johnson, "that more than 125,000 immigrants arrived in Western Canada last year, and of this number fully 80 per cent were from the United States. Only about two weeks ago, J. S. Dennis, assistant to the President of the Canadian Pacific, who was on a visit to Portland, told me that the indications were that more than 200,000 new settlers would find homes in Canada this year, or an increase of 20 per cent above the highest previous record. And our company and our land department, recently reorganized under the title of the Department of Natural Resources and taken over the Canadian Pacific Colonization and Irrigation Company, is preparing to handle a crowd of that size. These settlers are seeking not only the free homestead lands, but our company will sell to new settlers this year fully $12,000,000 worth of new lands and much of this will be taken by American farmers."

That Mr. Johnson's figures as to the colonist movement into Canada are very conservative is apparent from the statement made yesterday to the Associated Press by Consul-General Foster at Ottawa, who says that new settlers are flocking into that country at the rate of 1000 a day.

The Canadian Pacific does not limit its immigration movement to the Spring and Fall colonist rate seasons, but has in effect exceedingly low one-way rates from the United States points all the year around. The company also has a scheme by which it offers to practical farmers "made to order" farms, upon which it will build for the new settler a house, barn and other necessary buildings, dig a well, put in a windmill, furnish seed for 50 acres of wheat and the farmer pays for the land and the improvements out of the crops in annual installments of from six to ten years.

So great has been the migratory movement into Canada that there is much suffering in some of the more populous centers. Only yesterday Consul General Wilbur at Vancouver issued a general warning through the press of the United States warning American laborers to keep away from Western Canada. Disappointment over lower wages and higher cost of living as well as a surplus in the labor market, he says will meet those who seek employment in that field for the present. Wilbur is authority for the statement that a much larger number of immigrants has already been attracted to British Columbia than can be provided with employment and he adds that hardly a day passed during the Winter in which he was not called upon to assist destitute Americans back to the United States. No less than 3000 Americans have returned to the United States from Vancouver alone since last November.

It was to counteract the vast and greatly increasing movement of American farmers into Canada that Louis W. Hill and other prominent railroad men and numerous state governors and commercial organizations formed the Northwest Development League and similar bodies. It is to hold in check this outward movement and to attract settlers from the Eastern states to this part of the country that Hill and his fellow workers are bending their energies.

O. A. C. PRACTICES TABLE ECONOMY

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Oregon, April 13.—"Going down!" that is what the price of dainty luncheons is doing in the domestic science department of the Oregon Agricultural College. Beginning with the elaborate meal served Governor West a couple of weeks ago at a cost of 22 cents for each person, the girls have become more and more expert in economic buying and planning, until the luncheons have cost 15, 14, 13, and yesterday 10 cents a plate. It is a practical illustration of the way the domestic science department is finding solutions for the problem of the high cost of living.

The 10 cent luncheon, served by Miss Nell Sykes of Salem and Delia Purves of Seattle, Wash., to a half dozen professors, had beach blossoms as decorations, and included in the menu baked beans, Boston brown bread, creamed potatoes en casserole, celery and lettuce salad, peach shortcake with whipped cream, and coffee.

At the same time the Misses Clara Pierce, L. Grande, and Emily Miller, McCoy, served a 13 cent luncheon with fern decorations to eight other professors. They did all of the cooking in the Sayer paper bags to prove that black and greasy kettles and pans were unnecessary. The viands served were roast pork with apple rounds baked potatoes, brown gravy, hot rolls, ginger Bavarian cream, coffee, wafers and cheese.

Two 14 cent luncheons were served to other groups of faculty men last week. Miss Clara L. Hartzog, Lakeview, Lola Irwin, Corvallis, prepared one at which President Kerr and Sen. Peirce of La Grande were guests of honor. They gave them a mashed fruit cocktail, breaded veal cutlets and brown gravy, macaroni and cheese in ramekins, hot luncheon rolls, orange cream served in orange cups, and coffee, on a table decorated with blooming Oregon grape and lighted candles in crystal scenes.

White crocuses and lamb's tongues were used in decorating the table for the other 14 cent luncheon, at which there were six young instructors, whose fare was mint lamb scuffie, creamed cauliflower, French fried potatoes, luncheon rolls, Bavarian cream in large melon moulds decorated with white trilliums and sunshine cake.

Industrious.
"So your club is going to give a lecture tonight?" said the tall suffragette. "What will be the topic?" "Home Industries," responded the president.

"And what do you consider home industries?" "Why, our husbands, who remain at home and mind the babies and wash the dishes while we attend the club."—Chicago News.

Truthful.
It was 4 a. m. and Bilkins crept softly into the house and removed his shoes, but as he tiptoed upstairs one of the treaders gave a loud creak. "Is that you, John?" demanded Mrs. Bilkins from above.

"No, my love," replied Bilkins. "It's the stairs."—Judge.

Broke it Gently.
"You broke your engagement with Miss Jaullier?" "Yes, but I broke it gently." "How?" "Told her what my salary was."—Cleveland Leader.

Fur Ones.
One day little Margie saw a dry loaded with hides passing the house. "Oh, mamma," she exclaimed, "there goes a man with a whole stack of cows' overcoats!"—Chicago News.

Must Be Pretty.
He—Have you ever looked in the glass when you are angry? She—No: I'm never angry when I look in the glass.

A petition was circulated last week asking the Department at Washington to establish a postoffice at High Grade. The document received many signatures, and it is thought the office will soon be installed.
