BIG PRIZE FOR BUCKING CONTEST

Klamath Falls Has Some Good Feats for the Elks’ Rodeo

Klamath Falls, May 21—The announcement of a few weeks ago that the Champion bucking horse of the world was saved for the coming Elks’ Rodeos, as well as other business with national reputation the engagement from rides of this nature has been published in all parts of the country.

It was originally announced that the sale of the horse would be to Elks but the Elks have developed into a three day contest the directors have decided to include in the program and the contest will be centered around the world’s best bull riders.

Accordingly a subscription paper has been started among the Elks and some of their friends and relatives, and the word is quietly spread. Word has now been sent early by the Elks and next day’s contest will be to determine.

The first prize at $100 has been increased to $1000 Dollars. No prize money will be paid.
