A SERIOUS OBSTACLE

The proposed sewer system will eliminate one very unsightly, unsanitary and dangerous nuisance—the old wooden flume. Instead of rebuilding every few years, it is proposed to build a concrete sewer that will last forever. It is said that it will be necessary to spend about $3,000 on the flume soon. This amount of money will nearly pay one year's interest on the bonds of the whole sewer system. Then, again, the flume is within the fire limits of the town. We do not see how the town can refuse its citizens the right to build wooden fire traps in this fire district on one hand and conscientiously allow itself to build a wooden structure that during the dry season would be the most dangerous firetrap of them all, for it would distribute the fire for its entire length. Of course you can nail some boards together and throw some dirt around the side much cheaper than you can build a concrete sewer, but it is simply a question of which is the cheaper in the long run.

It is only necessary to recall only about two years ago when only heroic work on the part of many citizens, saved the Watson building, Thorntons Drug Store and Biebers store, and the merchandise of the entire business block, to see the necessity of settling this water question in a permanent manner.

Homesteader Gets Land

The following decision, pertaining to land in this county, which was rendered last week in Judge Benson's court in Klamath county will be of considerable local interest:

"A friendly action to decide whether a homesteader or purchaser of script for land on the Oregon Military Road Grant has been decided in favor of the homesteader by Judge John S. Coke, acting in place of Circuit Judge Henry L. Benson for Klamath County.

"This decision means considerable to those involved in the old Military Road Grant cases. It was an action brought by James Taylor against C. W. Finch. Taylor homesteaded the land, which lies 50 miles east of Klamath near Blv. Finch purchased the land script and to clear his title Taylor brought action. Judge Coke finds that the homesteader who has continually lived on the place for more than ten years has a clear title to the land and settles any further dispute on this score.

Agricultural Year Book

The Department of Agriculture at Washington has just issued its 1911 Agricultural Year Book—a bound volume of several hundred pages containing much interesting and instructive information regarding agriculture, horticulture, stock raising, etc. Each Senator and Representative has copies of this Year Book for distribution and any farmer can secure a copy by sending to one of the members of the Oregon delegation.

ALTERATION SALE

BEGINS FRIDAY, JUNE TWENTY-FIRST

WORK HAS BEGUN on the enlarging and remodeling of our present store building--it will be modernized in every respect. An addition which extends our present building to the alley, will contain a balcony above and offices and rest rooms below. The interior arrangement will be completely changed; the present display windows will be replaced by one of the latest plan of store fronts; a steam heating plant will be a part of the modernizing improvements. These changes will necessitate room for the workmen; this room we have not at the present time. We therefore are inaugurating this Alteration Sale to reduce stock and make room. Thousands of dollars worth of merchandise will be offered to our customers at a loss of profit in order that we may have room and be able to conveniently make the changes planned. WATCH OUR WINDOWS; WATCH OUR ADVERTISEMENTS; WATCH OUR COUNTERS. We will keep adding to the list of bargains daily while the sale lasts.
