LAKE COUNTY ABSTRACT COMPANY

Incorporated.

A Complete Record

We have made an entire transcript of all Records in Lake County which in any way affect Real Property in the county. We have a complete Record of every Mortgage and transfer ever made in Lake County, and ever Deed given.

Errors Found in Titles

In transcribing the records we have found numerous mortgages recorded in the Deed record and indexed; and many deeds are recorded in the Mortgage record and other books. Hundreds of mortgages and deeds are not indexed at all, and most difficult to trace up from the records.

We have notations of all these Errors.

Others cannot find them. We have put hundreds of dollars hunting up these errors, and we can fully guarantee our work.

TEN APPLICABLE COMMANDMENTS

- 1.—Thou shalt not send thy good money away to Rears Sawbuck & Co. for thy goods, thou nor thy wife, thy son nor his wife, for verily the money is needed at home in order to make things boom, as every "oom" addeth ten dollars per acre to the value of thy property.
- 2.—Thou shalt patronize the home merchants, yea each of them, for verily the merchants have the goods.
- 3.—Thou shalt give employment to thine own mechanics and laboring men, that they be not driven from home in search of bread for their little ones.
- 4.—Thou shalt pay thy bills promptly that thy credit may be good in the land where thou dwellest, for it is neither good to dun nor be dunned; yea, verily, the man who payeth the cash causeth the heart of our business men to leap for joy, and his praises are sung from the house tops.
- 5.—Thou shalt not be a knocker, for the knocker, in many instances, gets knocked at a time when he least expects it and in a way he knoweth not of. But thou shalt do whatever lieth in thy power to promote every business interest and industry, that thou may rejoice with others and share the prosperity.
- 6.—Thou shalt spend thy dollars at home, for a portion of them will return unto thee not many days hence, and will help give nourishment to such as come after thee.
- 7.—Thou shalt not bear false witness against the town where thou dwellest, but thou shalt speak well of it in the ears of all men. For it is a dirty bird that fouleth its own nest, and they that doeth such things shall be cast into outer darkness, where they make their beds with the polecats.
- 8.—Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's seed potatoes, his oats nor his broad and fertile acres, for verily if thou wastest to have as much of this world's goods as he, thou shalt surely hustle for it.
- 9.—Thou shalt strictly adhere to these commandments and shall teach them unto thy children, that they may flourish and wax fat after thou hast been tenderly laid to rest in the cemetery.
- 10.—Yes, verily, thou shalt at once send in thy subscription to the Examiner and accompany the same with two dollars.—Swiped.

Quite Frank About It.
"So you are going to marry Tom?"
"You saw the announcement, didn't you?"
"Yes, but—"
"It wasn't a fake."
"But, dearie—I never thought that Tom would be your choice."
"Tom ain't my choice. He's my chance. Have you any other questions to ask, darling?"
"Darling decided she hadn't.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Energy of Will.
Energy of will is the soul of every great character. Where it is there is resolute character; where it is not there is faintness, with effeminacy, dependency, neglect of duty and failure. "The strong man and the waterfall," says a proverb, "channel their own path."

In Training.

Look Here!

I own and wish to sell my 320 acres of deeded land, location the East half Sec. 16, Town 27 S., Range 18 East. Level, good soil, all tillable except perhaps twenty acres; raw land, no improvements; about two miles from railroad survey; free of incumbrance; perfect title. I am told this should be cheap at $3500.00 to $4000.00. If it is not worth that price to you, make me a bid on it. We must raise some money, hence this offer. Don't overlook this. THE PECTORAL FIN.

Without Them a Fish Would Stand Upon its Head.

The pectoral fins of a fish are the two fins, one on each side, just back of the head. These fins aid the fish to some extent in swimming. They are small fins which the fish feathers very beautifully and are of value chiefly to preserve its equilibrium. It is with these fins that the fish maintains its horizontal position in the water when not swimming. Without them the fish would stand on its head. Sometimes a fish loses one or both of its pectoral fins by disease or by accident. A fish without pectoral fins is in a bad way.

While most fishes keep a horizontal position in the water when not swimming, there are fishes that do not. One of these fishes is the filefish, which when motionless suspends itself in the water, head downward, at an angle of forty-five degrees or even nearer the perpendicular. A filefish kept in an aquarium which had lost both its pectoral fins inclined over backward past the perpendicular when motionless to about the same angle that it would have kept in the other direction if its pectoral fins had been intact, so that when not in motion it seemed to be lying at an angle on its back.

In the same aquarium there was a striped bass weighing about a pound and a half, one of whose pectoral fins was attacked at the tip by fungus, which gradually encroached upon it. Finally the diseased portions of the fin were cut off with a pair of sharp shears, the cut being made within the sound part of the fin. At first the fish was like a man in a boat pulling one long oar and one short one—it couldn't hold a course. But it soon accustomed itself to its new condition, and there after it got along very comfortably.

TEST YOUR LUNGS.

A Simple Method by Which One May Measure His Development.

People often suffer from weak, undeveloped lungs without suspecting it. True, small, feeble lungs are usually associated with a small, narrow or sunken chest, but not invariably. By means of the misuse of physical culture it is possible to develop large chest muscles, thus acquiring a big chest measurement, while the lungs remain small and ill nourished.

Again, lung mischief is often so slow and insidious in its approach that the trouble is not discovered until it is firmly established. Here, however, is a simple test which will tell you whether your lungs are healthy or not.

Take as deep a breath as you can, and then, in a slow but distinct voice count from one onward as far as you can without taking in more breath. The number of seconds you can continue counting is a pretty reliable index to the state of your lungs, so you should have some one to time you.

If your lungs are sound and normally developed your range will be between twenty and thirty-five seconds. If your limit is between ten and twenty seconds, there is no need to be alarmed; probably your lungs are merely in need of exercise, to be readily obtained by regular deep breathing in pure air. A range of less than ten seconds, however, points to more or less mischief, and you should not delay in having your lungs examined by a medical man.—London Answers.

Chair of the Giant Idris.
One of the mountain peaks of north Wales is known as the Chair of Idris, or Cader Idris, as the Welsh people call it, because its top is hollowed out like an immense couch. According to local tradition, whoever spends a night in the Chair of Idris will on the following morning be dead, raving mad or endowed with the loftiest poetical inspiration. No one seems to know exactly who Idris was or when he lived, but he must have been a giant if his body was in proportion with his celebrated "chair." Mrs. Hemans has a fine poem with the Chair of Idris as the theme, and Tennyson also mentions it in "Enid."

Tart!
In the days when Mrs. George Cornwallis West was Lady Randolph Churchill she mixed considerably among politicians and political affairs, and one story told of her shows how she scored off Mr. Joseph Chamberlain and the late Sir William Harcourt. They were chaffing her about some paintings she had done.

"But why not paint us?" one of them asked. "Where can you find more attractive models?"

"Impossible!" Lady Randolph exclaimed. "I could never paint you black enough!"—London Tit-Bits.

Fifth Monarchy Men.
The fifth monarchy men formed a religious sect that sprang up in the days of Charles I. of England. They were so called from the fact that they asserted that in the last days the four ancient monarchies, the Assyrian, the Persian, the Babylonian and the Roman, would be restored, and to them would be added a Christian monarchy, or fifth monarchy, of which Christ would be the king.

Secret Account.
Family Physician—The trouble with your husband, madam, is that he has overdrawn his account at the bank of vitality. Mrs. Gayman—I felt sure he was deceiving me about something! Doctor, I give you my word I never knew he had any account there.—Exchange.
