TREATING WHEAT FOR SMUT BALLS

The purpose of treating wheat is to destroy the smut spores, or seeds of the smut plant, which are mixed with the seed wheat either as loose spores scattered over the surface and among the hairs on the ends of the awns, or as unbroken smut balls. There are several solutions which will kill smut spores when they are soaked in these solutions, the principal ones being formaline, 1 pound to 45 gallons of water, and bluestone or vitrol, 1 pound to 4 gallons of water. These solutions must be made up carefully in these proportions to be certain that they will kill smut spores.

Recent investigation by the Plant Pathologist of the State Experiment Station here show, however, that unbroken smut balls can be soaked in these solutions for several hours, even until they become soaked so as to settle to the bottom of the solution, without killing any considerable part of the spores which they contain.

When one of these smut balls is broken millions of the live spores are liberated. Spores from smut balls in which had been soaked ten hours in vitrol solution germinated readily when put into moist soil.

To secure clean seed wheat, therefore, the unbroken smut balls must be removed during the treatment, or they will certainly be broken in the seeder and the wheat reinfected with live smut spores. The common practice of sipping the seed wheat while in sacks into the solution does not permit the removal of smut balls. Treatment should always be in an open tank or smut machine, when the wheat can be thoroughly stirred up and the smut balls skimmed off as fast as they float to the surface.

The only sure way to have clean seed is to remove all unbroken smut balls during treatment.

Harney Oil Wells
 Harney County News: W. A. Clark, who is in charge of the operating department of the Central Oregon Oil & Gas Co., was in the city recently after some extra material and stated to a News man that everything was moving along nicely and that the large derrick or tower was completed ready for the placing of the machinery which is on the ground.

A visit was made to the well in the Red S field and there Mr. Clark found that the reports given by the News were all correct and not exaggerated in the least. The oil is of a good quality of lubricant without further refining and compares very favorably with heavy oils of West Virginia. It is said the well could be made of commercial value with a little experienced handling. Messrs. Smith and Swain were unfortunate again and have a sand bucket caught and cannot get it up, so they have pulled up and are now putting down another hole 10 feet from the original.

It is confidently expected to find the same oil bearing sand in the wells of the Central Oregon Oil & Gas Co., and if they do the product will be handled in a commercial way.

WANTS COMMON JUSTICE.
 Working Men and Women of the State Oppose Malicious Laws.

In order to make a farce and a laughing stock of popular government and the initiative and referendum, two measures have been initiated by the big business interests which are deadly opposed to the rule of the common people. One proposed law limits free speech in cities of 5,000 or over, and is so glaring an example of class legislation that it is absolutely revolting to a right-thinking individual.

And the same people, who are insistent that free speech should be hampered, are asking the citizens of the state of Oregon to legislate against the people to spend their earnings where and how they please. A direct and clean-cut analysis of the law proves that a farmer could not ask his neighbors to not patronize an establishment that defrauded him, could not recommend any course of action or warn his neighbors against being taken in, too. The measure, however, is aimed at the organizations that are seeking to improve conditions for the common people. Eight thousand signatures to this bill were secured in Multnomah county, where the people on a referendum of a similar ordinance defeated the forces of big business overwhelmingly. The working people of this county ask you, the voters of the state, to deal justly with them and defeat the anti-boycott and anti-free speech bills.

CHRONIC DYSPEPSIA
 The following unsolicited testimonial should certainly be sufficient to give hope and courage to persons afflicted with chronic dyspepsia: "I have been a chronic dyspeptic for years, and of all the medicines I have taken, Chamberlain's Tablets have done me more good than anything else," says W. G. Mattis, No. 7 Sherman St., Hornellsville, N. Y. For sale by all dealers.

ABLE JOURNALIST WITH UNIVERSITY

From the Seattle Post-Intelligencer: No field of activity in these modern times offers broader opportunities for useful and helpful service than the field of journalism offers. Journalism is a big factor in modern life; sometimes it seems that we do not fully appreciate the power wielded by the press of the country; it is a power not always wisely used; it is not always used for the good it can do; but in the main the newspapers of America are clean in most respects and do more good than harm, and if that could be said of the average citizen it probably would satisfy the requirements of our imperfect civilization.

The establishment of a department of journalism in the University of Oregon, following a similar and reasonably successful experiment in the University of Washington, and the assignment of Mr. Eric W. Allen, who, for a number of years, has been connected with this newspaper, to the new chair in the Oregon university, shows that the people of this section of the country fully appreciate the power of the press and that they are anxious to realize the maximum of its power for good in modern society.

Mr. Allen is a young gentleman of fine capacity; he has had practical experience in newspaper making; his ideals are clean; he is keen to the opportunities of his new position, and it is certain that Oregon's leading educational institution will reap a fair profit as a result of his services.

WHO IS MR. PERKINS?

Who is George W. Perkins? Who is the man who stands ready to put up unlimited cash to get Roosevelt elected? Here is the answer, cut from the pages of the report of the Steel Investigating Committee of the House of Representatives:

Director of the United States Steel Corporation.
 Chairman of finance committee and director of International Harvester Co.
 Director of American Trust Co.
 Director of Bankers' Trust Co.
 Director of Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railway Co.
 Director of Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway Co.
 Director Erie Railroad Co.
 Director German-American Insurance Co.
 Director International Mercantile Marine Co.
 Director Marquette & Bessemer Dock & Navigation Co.
 Director National City Bank of New York.
 Trustee of New York Trust Co.
 Director of Northern Pacific Railway Co.
 Chairman of board, Pere Marquette Railroad Co.

Nearly all of these companies control or own a large number of other companies.

Mr. Perkins is a shrewd man. He has millions of dollars invested in the various corporations and trusts above enumerated. Several of them are now being prosecuted by the Taft administration. Is he financing Mr. Roosevelt's campaign in order to have in the White House a friend or an enemy? William Allen White of Kansas, in an appeal for contributions to the Third Term campaign fund, said: "The man who finances the campaign control the administration." Does the country want an administration which is controlled by a director in fifteen different trusts and corporations?

LaFollette No. 6.
 FIGHT WITHIN REPUBLICAN PARTY.

It seems to me that the highest obligation of real progressive Republicans in every state is to maintain their organization and continue to fight within the lines of the Republican party for progressive principles, policies and candidates. No aid or encouragement should be given to a third party plan to divide the progressive vote and destroy the progressive Republican movement. No break should be permitted in the progressive ranks which will endanger the election of any true progressive Republican anywhere.—Senator LaFollette's Weekly Magazine, July 27, 1912.

A MARVELOUS ESCAPE
 "My little boy had a marvelous escape," writes P. F. Bestians, of Prince Alb rt, Cape of Good Hope. "It occurred in the middle of the night. He got a very severe attack of croup. As luck would have it, I had a large bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. After following the directions for an hour and twenty minutes he was through all danger. Sold by all dealers."
