While looking over a list, advertising the proficiency of twenty-seven poultry judges we noticed twenty-two of them claimed to be judges of all varieties of

We wonder how many of the twenytwo can sit down and write the names of all the standard varieties or can name them on sight without aid from the show coop card or the standard cut and description?

It would be interesting, too, to know how many of these varieties our all variety judges have bred, how many they keep now and how closely acquainted they are with any of them.

To be a skillful judge of all varieties just means a close knowledge of 134 varieties of fowls and the standard requirements for each different one.

These varieties are: American, 20; English, 7; Asiatic, 8; French, 3; Mediterrenean, 14; Pollah, S; Humburgs, 6; Game and Game Bantams, 16; Orientals, 6; Ornamental Bantams, 17; Silkies, Sultans, Frizzies; turkeys, 7; ducks, 12; geese, 7.

Exhibitors won't stand for such funny business, not even if a judge wears a halo in the form of a license from the American Poultry association.

We have met a few all variety judges who didn't have to run to catch the first train out of town to escape the fanciers after the ribbons were placed, but good all variety judges are about as scarce as hen

Cooking feed for poultry doesn't pay. When the kettle of bones, bran, chop. turnips, tater parings and grease boils over on to your wife's shiny cook stove and soaks into that nice kitchen carpet-well, you bet your boots, that doesn't pay either!

The gold medal goes to Mrs. Elizabeth Rime of Caldwell, N. J. She ifest, found tweny-two rats in a feed barrel in her pigeon loft, nailed down the lid, hauled the barrel into her kitchen, bored a hole in the top and inserted the gas hose. It took one hour to asphyxiate the long tail squealers and about five miles of gas at 80 cents a thousand. If the gas company makes gavels, Mrs. Rime pay for that gas it ought to

Hens that are allowed to trot around in the snow all day are generally star boarders that seldom pay their board bills. The man who keeps layers on the zero plan need not count on winter eggs. He should cook them and buy hens in the spring, when any old feather bed lays. That will pay him better.
