THE POPULAR WHITE EGG—ITS LAYERS.

There's no accounting for some fads and fancies, and among these is the craze for white or brown shelled eggs.

While English egg sellers dip white shelled eggs into walnut stain to get the color to catch the fancy price, New Yorkers pay a premium for the chalky white, while in Boston Browning, brown beans and brown hen fruit are synonymous.

No use talking, the pure white egg is a beauty, and the craze for it is so extending that it will soon be national.

Fortunately, the white egg layers are the most prolific and so numerous.

There are forty-three standard varieties that lay white hen fruit, divided up as follows: Leghorns, eight varieties: Minorcas, three; Polish, eight; Games, eight; Hamburg, six; Spanish, Blue Andalusians, Anconas, Houdans, Crevecoeurs, La Fleche, Redcaps, Sumatras, Silkies and Sultans.

Of these the Leghorns excel. The single comb white Leghorn, "the hen of destiny," is queen of white egg layers, the world's greatest layer, the business hen that holds sway on most of America's egg plants and the egg farmer's dependence to bring the long green. As to which breed lays the largest white egg, the Black Minorca and Houdan fanciers make the same claim, but we rather think the Minorca breeders are easy winners on this point.

Most of these white egg layers are not extra for market.

Some lack in size and juiciness and are hard to fatten, while others have the white skin and pinkish flesh and black or slate blue legs that do not meet the American fad.

Now comes a New York rooster tinker and declares he has evolved a new breed, which he calls "the White Egg American Fowl."

He claims this fowl has the laying ability of the Leghorn and the meat quality and size of the Plymouth Rock and Wyandotte.

If the originator can substantiate his claims his new breed will revolutionize the egg industry. We are satisfied to wait and see.

Eggs of this new creation now sell at $5 apiece, so buy early and avoid the rush.

DON'TS.

Don't think hotel garbage is fine poultry feed because it's free gratis for nothing. Most of it is fermented, therefore poisonous.

Don't expect birds for the fall show to feather and plump up without special treatment.

Don't worry your stizzard about those pullets if they come from good stock and have been fed and kept right. The hen that's a layer, stayer and payer doesn't show off in a premature egg, debut and then fizzle.

EASTERN WRITERS TO TOUR OREGON

Louis W. Hill Plans Advertising Central Part of State

Oregon Journal: Louis W. Hill, chairman of the executive board of the Great Northern railroad, is planning on bringing to Oregon the coming summer a party of prominent eastern newspaper men to enjoy its wonderful climate and scenic attractions and to see for themselves what the Pacific northwest really has to offer the homeseeker and traveler.

Mr. Hill arrived here last night from St. Paul, en route to Monterey, Cal., where he intends passing a vacation with his family. He told of his plans recently at the Portland, where he is awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Hill and the four children from Seattle, who are visiting there with relatives.

"The plans are yet embryonic," said Mr. Hill, "but I know the eastern newspaper men would find Oregon and the Pacific coast intensely interesting, especially now, just before the opening of the Panama canal and the holding of the big exposition at San Francisco. People are intensely interested in the Pacific coast and an advance trip by a party of representative newspaper men, I am sure, would prove of tremendous value to the entire country."

"Oregon has a great variety of features. I will never forget the deep and lasting impression made on the party of business men from Minneapolis last year when we arrived early in the morning and were showered with roses as we stepped off our cars. You can't withstand such treatment; it simply gets you, that's all there is to it."

"Then one night a delegation from Eugene got tussy and decorated our car most gorgeously and artistically with beautiful fragrant roses. One can't forget such acts of hospitality and encouragement, and I won't hesitate to say that it had much to do with the hastening of the extension of the Oregon Electric to Eugene.

"Of course central Oregon would appeal strongly to the Eastern newspaper men, and many of them have heard of Bill Hanley, so the trip would include a visit to his ranch. My friend Bill tells me old central Oregon is rapidly passing, that the old scenes are giving way to the new that follow railroad construction.

"Then an auto tour through the Willamette valley from Portland south would prove a revelation, for there is no section that I know of more wonderful than the Willamette valley and eastern Oregon. Possibly the auto tour could be extended to San Francisco."

Mr. Hill says quite a number of settlers are now coming into Oregon and going on the land. In St. Paul, Chicago, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Louis and Cincinnati the Great Northern is maintaining Oregon exhibits that attract widespread interest.

"These exhibits are proving valuable," said Mr. Hill, "for we are getting more inquiries about Oregon today than ever."

"The state of Oregon did very wisely when it appropriated $50,000 for exploitation of the state's resources, as I understand has been done by the passage of a bill by the legislature.

"Montana is profiting by expenditure of money along that line among foreign people. On the train coming out was a party of 70 Belgians prepared to settle in Montana. Sasatchewan has representatives in Europe and in the past five years one man alone was instrumental in bringing in 25,000 settlers. At first the results were not as encouraging, but success crowned constant application.

"Oregon's climate is particularly appealing to settlers. Continuation of organized effort will be bound to bring good results. The railroads and individual real estate firms are prevented by law and regulation from maintaining representatives in foreign countries furnishing a desirable class of immigrants, and hence this work must be carried on by the state."

In regard to future railroad development in Oregon, Mr. Hill said President Joseph H. Young has full charge and announcement that might be made from time to time will come from him.

"Mr. Young is looking after these matters out here," Mr. Hill, "and I really am not in position to discuss them. However, I am pleased to see that good progress is being made in every direction."

CHRONIC STOMACH TROUBLE CURED.

There is nothing more discouraging than a chronic disorder of the stomach. It is not surprising that many suffer for years with such an ailment when a permanent cure is within their reach and may be had for a trifle? "About one year ago," says F. H. Beck, of Wakelee, Mich., "I bought a package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and since using them I have felt perfectly well. I had previously used any number of different medicines, but none of them were of any lasting benefit." For sale by all dealers.

SERVIA AS A NATION.

It Originated in the First Half of the Seventh Century.

The birth of Servia as a nation, settled in or near its present home, may be dated in the first half of the seventh century. About 600 A. D. when the Avaric empire of desolation was established on the Danube, two tribes, the Croats and the Serbs, retiring before the ravages of the Tartar hordes, settled in the countries now known as Croatia, Bosnia and Servia.

They were Slavs, but the Croats perhaps had, like the Slavs of Moesia in earlier years, adopted the name of a Tartar tribe. Both, fleeing from the Avars, were naturally hostile to them, and it is possible that they settled in the empire with the consent or even at the invitation of the Emperor Heraclius I. At any rate, they appear to have been considered as vassals of the empire. Their first settlements lay rather westward of the country now called Servia, the Drave, the present western boundary, being the dividing line between Bulgar and Serb in the eighth century. Here the Serbs dwelt more or less uneventfully for three centuries. They generally formed a loose confederacy under chiefs called supans. They were commonly, in a loose fashion, loyal to the eastern empire mainly through fear of their dangerous neighbors, the Bulgarians.

About 840 they united under a chief named Vlastimil to repel the latter. The country rose to great heights under Stephen Dushan, the czar of the Serbs, but after his death Murad I conquered the country, and it was not until 1815 that the Serbs partially threw off the Turkish yoke.—Exchange.

PRECIOUS MUGS.

The Crucibles Used in the New York Assay Office.

In the government assay office on Wall street, New York, there is a corner that looks very much like a mug rack in a country barber shop, where every customer has his individual mug highly decorated in gilt letters.

On this rack are perhaps fifty crucibles for melting down gold. The crucibles are decorated with crude initials and numerals and are the property of the biggest gold mining corporations in North and South America.

The reason for the individual mugs is that the clay of crucibles takes up a considerable quantity of gold in the process of smelting which otherwise would be lost to the customer bringing the gold to the government to be refined. After two or three smeltings the clay is saturated and takes up no more gold. When it is finally succeeded by a new crucible it is returned to the customer to be broken up for its hidden gold.

Mugs that are used for melting down random lots of gold are carefully preserved by the government refiners and sold. Uncle Sam pockets the proceeds, as in these random lots there is no way of computing to what amount each of perhaps twenty customers may be entitled. It is only the smelting concern that sells the government enough gold at one time to monopolize a single melting that obtains the right to a mug on the rack.—New York Tribune.

Ice Cream and a Nerve.

Why do we sometimes get an ache in the nose when eating ice cream. There is a nerve running along the back of the nose which doctors call the anterior palatine nerve. This has a branch running along the base of the nasal cavity and another branch running along the palate. The ends of these branches join through finer branches which run through openings in the palate near the front teeth. When we get some ice cream in the mouth and keep it in front for a moment so that the irritation produced by the cold reaches the fine connecting branches the sensation may be carried to the branch in the nose. Irritation of this branch produces the sensation of pain. We get the same sensation when breathing very cold air.—New York American.

Mercutio and Words.

George Meredith, according to the London Chronicle, "employs that abominable contraction 'alright.' It can't be a printer's error, for it occurs more than once. And he uses it as early as 1863, so that the abusers of our language may now claim Meredith of all men as their prophet. This is one of those things that baffle explanation, particularly from a writer whose use of words was meticulous and who always refused to delete the first 'e' in 'judgment,' always spelling it 'judgement' in his novels. Some of us, however, will fight 'alright' to the bitter end."

Social Surgery.

The newly rich dame took her daughter to a fashionable school and interviewed the naughty principal. "I want my daughter to learn to act as if she had moved in aristocratic circles all her life," she explained. "I see," mused the principal. "And are you willing to be separated from her that long?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Historical.

"Children," asked the visitor who was addressing the school, "how many of you can tell me what it was that Napoleon's soldiers used to call him?" Nobody answered. "Think a moment 'little'." Still nobody spoke up. "Little Corp"—"A little corpulent!" shouted the children.—Chicago Tribune.

Do you wish to know if anything is the Lord's work? See if it is a work among the poor.—Charles Kingsley.
