Lakeview, Oregon, Thursday, May 15, 1913

BENEFIT OF A CREAMERY

A creamery at Lakeview spells prosperity for all the farmers and settlers in the Goose Lake Valley, providing they will avail themselves to the utmost of the opportunity. It also means the rapid development of lands that are now lying idle, and just so soon as the irrigation project is completed just so soon will this entire valley become famous as a dairy section. Lands that are now being held at from $20 to $25 per acre, will then be worth treble the amount, and upon every quarter section will be located a happy and prosperous family.

The creamery affords a market every day in the year for all the cream the farmers will produce, and to the man with a few cows gives a steady income every month with no appreciable increase in work or expense. The small farmer who has perhaps five cows can milk them along with his other work and have a cash income of about one dollar per day. And this leads up to the question of having good dairy cows. The cow common to this section at present will perhaps produce $50 worth of butterfat in a year, while a good dairy cow should be able to return that amount several times over to her owner. In many sections dairy cows are shipped in and sold to the farmers on a time basis, one half of the monthly pay check from the creamery being applied in payment of the cow.

Just at this particular time Lakeview is especially fortunate in securing a creamery, inasmuch as the agricultural situation will make a wonderful change in the immediate future. Heretofore our attention has been devoted almost exclusively to the raising of livestock, but the change inaugurated by the Oregon Valley Land Co. has made that industry impracticable, and now we must depend on agricultural products in the way of diversified farming. No one field offers as many inducements as does dairying, nor does any other pay so handsomely.

SHOWING THE GOODS

We read as a news item from Oregon City, that a Minneapolis man has been about in that burg for the past few days seeking a location in Clackamas County for six Minneapolis families who believe that Oregon is the state in which to make their happy homes. We are told that the most immediate cause of this Minneapolis man's visit and investigations is the exhibit which the Oregon City Commercial Club maintained at the Minneapolis Land Show. All of this is further evidence that we need a commercial club as well as it goes to show that it pays to advertise our goods.

We cannot dwell too strongly upon this method of advertising for it has been proven again and again that the Oregon product placed on exhibition carries conviction concerning the fertility of Oregon soil, and the advantages that exist here for the thrifty and industrious farmer. We may reiterate that printer's ink has served its turn as an agency of exploitation, and that having read, the people of the east want to be shown. They have indicated to us that it is the goods that count; and the more firmly we get that fact in mind, and the more persistently and intelligently we set upon it the more rapidly will follow the agricultural development of this particular community as well as every community in the state.

A COUNTY FAIR

In the address of Mr. N. C. Maris Tuesday evening at the High School Auditorium was sound reasoning for Lake County to hold an agricultural fair here this Fall. Beyond question the exhibit system is the most effective and convincing manner of advertising our resources.

The State Fair Aid bill which became a law the last session of legislature gives Lake County $386.93 as a fund toward holding a fair. If this amount was augmented with $500 from our County Court it would provide ample funds for the purpose. Some of the exhibits could be forwarded to the Eastern Land Shows, which is the best possible means of advertising our country. The time is opportune this year for holding an agricultural fair, and the results will more than doubly repay the cost, especially so when the fund has so handsome a start.

With Jack Johnson facing nine indictments, forty-five counts, a possible sentence of forty-five years, or a fine of $90,000, or both, it seems as though chances are looking up for the white hope. Better still, it seems as though we might soon hear the last of Johnson.

One may keep well posted on the tariff discussion by reading the Congressional Record. But owing to the voluminous character of the republished speeches intermingled with (Prolonged Applause) most of us will continue to refrain from keeping posted in this manner.

Local Office Unaffected

All fourth class postmasters, except those drawing less than $190 a year, have been thrown open for competitive examination by an executive order of President Wilson. It is also announced that President Wilson's intentions are to extend the classified service to include second and third class probably within a year. This is contrary to 'laif's' order of 1912 to divide first class postmasters into two classes, class 'A', those drawing more than $500, and class 'B', those drawing less than $500, which positions were to be filled upon inspectors reports.

The Lakeview postoffice is in the third class so the late order will not effect this office, at least until second and third class postmasters will be required to take the examinations.

News of Fairport

FAIRPORT, Calif., (Special) Under instructions from President Dunaway one of the best systems of stock yards along the line of the N.-C.-O. will be built in a short time. This will serve to bring thousands of cattle from the Warner range that are now driven to other points for loading and shipment, and at the same time prove of direct advantage to shippers as it will shorten the drives.

An experimental farm is to be established at Fairport this season for the purpose of furnishing information to settlers unfamiliar with the methods of farming employed in the West and also to prove conclusively the best varieties of fruit, farm products and berries to be grown.

The report that two rich strikes in the High Grade district is persistent, but the parties leasing the property refuse to disclose the values found or size of the ore bodies. Development work is going on vigorously this spring and the boom fever having subsided actual development is being afforded an opportunity with promise of splendid results.

Indian Attack Explained

Parties from Likely say that Chief Pettie told citizens there that after the arrest of the Indians at Tule Lake they discussed a plan among themselves for seizing the Wardens, Cady and Mellinger, taking their arms and sending them home, says the Plaindealer. Pettie stated that he tried to dissuade the Indians from the attempt, but failed. The plan, he said, was to be carried out if the officers tried to take them to Susanville. This is probably the true story of the motive for the attack, as it is not believed the Indians would dare contemplate murder. But after being shot Wilson probably thought he was fatally wounded and endeavored to avenge what he deemed his wrongs. Had Mellinger been less precipitate in the use of his gun, the Indians seeing he was armed, would have surrendered. But seeing his brother officer borne down by three or four Indians, and his rifle taken away, blame cannot be attached to his action in shooting.

Gets Results

That the advertising medium of the Lake County Examiner is a profitable investment to patrons was clearly demonstrated last week when E. F. Cheney, proprietor of the Cheney Harness shop received an order from S. J. Studley of Sonoma County, California for a set of harness. While the order speaks volumes for the Examiner, it is also highly commendatory to the grade of goods manufactured by Mr. Cheney. Mr. Studley stated in his letter that he had looked all around to find harness suited to his needs, but being a former customer of Mr. Cheney's shop, could find nothing that equaled those of his make. Mr. Cheney takes great pride in the appearance of his ads and is always regular with his weekly changes.

NORTHWEST NEWS

F. M. Chrisman, a pioneer merchant of Silver Lake, made a brief business trip to the county seat last week.

Governor West has announced that he will file a suit against the Portland Telegram asking probably $50,000 damages for publishing defamatory articles relative to the governor's expenditure of certain state funds.

Homesteaders of the Swan Lake country, Klamath County, have won their long fight against odds and will retain the claims to which the United States Government has granted patents. This suit is known as the 37-10 case and has been in controversy for several years.

By legislative enactment the territory comprised within townships 21 to 26 S., and ranges 12 to 17 E., in the northern part of Lake County is placed in a game preserve. No hunting of game animals or birds will be permitted at any season of the year within that region. However, no restriction is placed upon the killing of predatory animals.

Jack Farly a full-blooded South Fork Indian, reputed to be over 100 years old, and whom the coroner's jury found to be at least 90 years old, died last week near Likely. He was an old man at the time of the General Crook fight, nearly fifty years ago, and had a very clear memory of the time before the white men came. His mahala long since preceded him to the happy hunting grounds.

The Klamath papers report that George Clark, a leading rancher of that county is in receipt of a letter from Chicago capitalists stating that they will build an electric line from Klamath Falls to Bonanza and the Dairy country, providing the people along the line will furnish the necessary right of way without cost to the builders. The proposed route has been partially surveyed.

The State Water Board at a meeting in Salem gave the Columbia Southern project in Crook County an extension of two years time in which to complete its water rights. Preparations are being made by the state to reclaim the lands in this project, $450,000 having been appropriated for the purpose by the last Legislature, and it is estimated that it will take at least two years for the state to build and complete its ditches.

According to the Klamath Herald suit has been started by the First National Bank of Klamath Falls against Sam Evans of the Northwestern to recover $5700. The bank alleges that Evans tendered a check for $5,700 on a San Francisco bank. The bank gave him credit with the amount, and says that Evans drew out the money. The check was sent to the Frisco bank and came back protested, marked "N.S.F."

Twelve young women, senior students in the O. A. C. last week paid a visit to the Union Meat Company's plant in Portland, and made a very close inspection of the industry. Each of the students will graduate this year and have elected to teach domestic arts and science. The inspection was made to with a view of familiarizing the students with modern methods of refrigeration, manufacture of by-products and Uncle Sam's system of Government inspection of meats.

During the past several days Alfred Smith, of the Arcadia theater, has imported a large number of baby chicks, they having been shipped from a chicken farm in the Sacramento Valley. Among the varieties that have been bought by local parties are Brown and White Leghorns and Plymouth Rocks. Poultry fanciers are highly pleased with this method of raising chickens as all shipments have proven entirely successful. Mr. Smith reports that he has handled something like 1500 young chickens thus far.

The Sunshine High Grade Mining Company has received returns from nine sacks of ore that were shipped below last year from their High Grade properties. The rock was taken to San Francisco for display purposes and was just recently milled by the Selby Smelting Company. The nine sacks of ore weighed 664 lbs. which showed a value of $417.06 to the ton, the nine sacks netting $138.46. It is authentically reported that the samples were not "picked", but were taken as a general average from the shaft.

The change in the western mail service was started this morning when W. L. Clapp took the first mail out by auto. He formerly lived in Lakeview but during the past few years has made but occasional trips in here, and as a consequence has not kept up with the city's development and advancement. This morning he could not find the postoffice and after going to the former stand and a few other places was compelled to get Joe Fuller, the local agent, to show him where the office was. He finally got his bearings and the last seen of him was a blue streak of dust going west across the Slash road.

NEW PINE CREEK ITEMS

(By Staff Correspondent)

Last week Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Freeman drove down to the Chas. Larkin ranch, and while there one of the horses got its bridle off and started to run away with the rig. While attempting to get control of the team a very heavy post fell upon Mr. Freeman throwing him backward on a stump breaking a rib and injuring him badly otherwise. He was brought home by Thos. Dicks where Dr. Amsden was summoned and he is now getting along nicely.
