Lesson VII.-Second Quarter, For May 18, 1913.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Gen. xlii, 3-17. Memory Verses, 15, 16-Golden Text. trade here, Gal, vi, 7-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The seven years of pienteousness and all countries came into Egypt to by noon, Joseph to buy corn (xll. 53-57) One might infer from xii, 55, that some of the Egyptians rather disliked going to Joseph the Hebrew, and so appealed to Pharaoh, but he laid them low by saying, "Go unto Joseph; what he saith to you, do." So it came to pass that in all Egypt, as it had been in the prison. whatsoever they did Joseph was the doer of it (xxxix, 22). How like the great truth concerning the Lord Jesus, "Neither is there salvation in any other" (Acts iv. 12), and how searching and humiliating to human pride is the fact that if any who know of Him will not accept His free gift of Himself for the past 13 years. they cannot be saved! Here is a great contrast. Corn had to be bought in Egypt, but Jesus Christ, having obtain ed eternal redemption by the sacrifice of Himself, gives it freely to "whose ever will."

Jacob said to his sons, "Behold, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt' (xlii, 2). He could not have heard un less some one had told. Many have never heard of eternal life in Christ because so few tell, or seem to have any thing worth telling. How is it? Is it nothing to you? Do you care? In due time there appeared before Joseph. among those who came to buy corn. his ten brothers, Benjamin having been left at home, and Joseph knew them, but they did not know him (vers es 3-8). Twenty years may have made the desert from the ranch in Chewaumore change in some than in others. but they would never have thought of seeing in the ruler of Egypt the boy of seventeen whom they had sold as a slave, and as to his, to them, foolish and absurd dreams, they had no doubt long since ceased to give them

Joseph had forgiven them and had learned to see the hand of God in it all, and now his opportunity had come to return love for their hatred, but they must be humiliated and convicted of their great sin against him. There is the center of Christmas Lake valley no life eternal for any except penitent and a very desirable location for a sinners, and Israel as a nation must town. become penitent before they can be saved, but a sight of Him will do it all.

First be accused them of being spies. to which they replied, "We are true men. * * * twelve brethren, the sons of one man in the land of Canaan; and. behold, the youngest is this day with our father, and one is not" (verses 11. to have become true men; but if they meant true men as men go, or true in the sense of their not being spice but it as well as post cards deposited.

P. Duckwort 13). When we consider their treatment else, then it stands all right.

They would have time to do some unusual thinking during their three days in prison. And here is another third day story of deliverance, for on the third day Joseph talked with them and agreed to let nine of them return home with corn, provided one was left a prisoner as an assurance that when they came again for corn they would bring their younger brother with them. Then they talked with one another in Joseph's presence of their guilt of long able helpers the orchardists have. ago, for which they felt that they were now suffering, and they remembered the anguish of his soul as he besought them not to deal so with him, but to let him return to his father, yet thas would not hear him. I wonder if they did not hear those heartrending cries will constitute no small part of the torment of the lost, for it was said to the rich man who was in torment, "Son, remember" (Luke xvi. 25). Sins forgiven and blotted out by the blood of the Lamb will not be remembered against us (Isa. xlilli, 25), and need not be remembered by us. Joseph underwept, but returned again and communed with them. Then, retaining Simeon a prisoner, he commanded to fill their sacks, put each man's money in his sack and gave them provision for the way. When they reached home without Simeon and told all to their father, and that they could not go again unless they took Benjamin also, Jacob was in great distress, said that Benjamin should never go, and exclaimed most bitterly, "All these things are against me" (verse 36). If he only could have seen the outcome as we now know it how differently be would have felt and talked! But this was written for us that we might believe that all things, cures has galaed a world wide repu- however dark they look, are for our good (Rom. viii. 28). If we would live in the love of God. His perfect love would east out all fear (1 John iv. 18).

Miss Habershon's typical suggestions on this chapter are concerning the "none other name;" that though I will be in Lakevicw this week with the world and even His own knew Him an expert piano tuner and repairer, not. He knew all men; the Spirit Interprefing His words to us, and He giv ing us of His fullness (John i, 10, 11; ii. 24, 25; i, 16; Acts lv, 12; John xvi, 13).
